Auto Club Says Motorcyclists Need Driving Classes

DETROIT (AP) — All motorcyclists should be required to enroll in classroom instruction courses to halt the rising number of motorcycle deaths, says the Automobile Club of Michigan. Out of 177 fatal motorcycle accidents in 1974, the driver of the motorcycle was at fault 60 per cent of the time, an auto club survey released Sunday shows. The average victim was young and had little or no training on how to ride a cycle, the study said. Often the driver's inexperience with the bike contributed to the accident, said the study. The auto club proposes a basic course teaching cyclists defensive driving habits and how to spot dangerous situations on the road. The auto club suggested the courses be offered in schools, the same way students are taught to drive cars. The courses would be offered elsewhere also and would be required for all motorcyclists under the auto club's approach.

One problem, the study found, is that motorcyclists are not highly visible. Almost 75 per cent of the at-fault motorists in the 1974 fatal cycle accidents made improper turns or failed to yield to an oncoming cyclist. One common reason for failure to yield was that the motorist failed to see the cyclist. The study recommends that at least two questions dealing with motorcyclists be added to the state's driver license tests to increase motorists' awareness of the problem.

Two bills introduced in the legislature outline a mandatory course for cyclists, including at least five hours of classroom work covering safety and defensive driving plus special cycle laws. There are no skill tests required for motorcyclists in Michigan. A written test is required for a motorcycle endorsement on a driver's license. The state recently began to require that a licensing officer watch the applicant ride the bike, but no extensive testing is involved.

Since 1960, motorcycle registration in Michigan has increased from 30,614 to 306,297 last year, an increase of 901 per cent. Twenty-three persons were killed on motorcycles in 1960 and 180 killed last year, an increase of 683 per cent. For the study, the auto club's safety and traffic engineering department investigated each of last year's crashes and interviewed police officers, accident witnesses and relatives of the drivers.

'Restrained' Welcome Is Given Ford

PEKING (AP) — Implicitly acknowledging their differences over detente with the Soviet Union, President Ford and Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping today pledged to continue working for better Chinese-American relations. Ford got a restrained but correct welcome on his arrival for a five-day visit he said is aimed at fostering mutual understanding between the Chinese and American peoples. But the atmosphere improved perceptibly after the airport ceremonies.

Holiday Traffic Toll Low

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's Thanksgiving holiday weekend traffic death toll reached 357, far below the National Safety Council's predictions, at the close of The Associated Press's tally today.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 450 and 500 persons would die in traffic crashes during the weekend that began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

That prediction was the council's lowest for Thanksgiving in seven years.

"Motorists have reduced their driving speed, recognizing that reduced speed pays off, not only in savings of fuel, but in greater driving comfort and increase safety for everyone on the road," Vincent Tofany, president of the safety council, said.

Last year, The AP counted 504 highway fatalities during the Thanksgiving holiday period.

In Michigan, 13 people were killed in auto accidents over the four-day holiday.

Speaking at a banquet in the Great Hall of the People six hours after landing in the Chinese capital, Ford said: "The moves that were taken in 1971 and 1972 by the leaders of China and the United States were of historic significance. I take this occasion to reaffirm my commitment to the objectives and the principles which emerged from those first steps and specifically to the normalization of our relations."

Teng described the Soviet Union, without naming it, as "the country which most zealously preaches peace and is the most dangerous source of war," and added that "rhetoric about detente cannot cover up the stark reality of the growing danger of war." But Ford chose to emphasize the things which bring China and the United States together.

He said that China and the United States have a mutual interest in seeing that the world is not dominated by force or pressure. He said that the current situation requires "strength, vigilance and firmness," but he rejected the idea that China might dictate how the United States should approach the problem of detente.

"In pursuing our objectives," Ford said, "each of us will of course determine our policies and methods according to our differing positions in the world and our perceptions of our respective national interests."

The President, Mrs. Ford, their daughter Susan and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger received a warm but formally stiff welcome on arrival at Peking airport.

Teng headed the welcome, and there was the usual playing of national anthems, military guard of honor and handshakes with diplomats and officials.

But since the United States and China do not have full diplomatic relations there were no lengthy exchange of speeches and no cheering crowds at the airport or along Ford's 18-mile route into the city.

Followed by his wife and daughter, Ford strode down the ramp of Air Force One and shook hands warmly with Teng, who greeted the President on behalf of the Chinese government and Premier Chou En-lai.

Chou, 77, is seriously ill and has not seen any foreign visitors for some time. But Chairman Mao Tse-tung, now 81, is expected to receive the President.

The weather was crisp and cold, and there was a hazy sky flecked with blue as the presidential plane landed at 2:50 p.m. The President was hatless and wore a dark overcoat while Mrs. Ford and Susan both wore brown fur coats.

The airport ceremonies were identical to those for the arrival in February 1972 of President Richard M. Nixon, who with Chou opened a new era of Chinese-American relations after two decades of hostility.

But the atmosphere improved markedly just before the banquet when Chou's wife, Teng Ying-chao, and the wife of Chu Teh, 89-year-old chairman of the National People's Congress

Pet 9-Point Buck Feared Killed

A pet deer was apparently killed and removed from a fenced-in area on the farm of Dr. J. Allan Schaub, an Eau Claire veterinarian, according to Berrien sheriff's officers. Dr. Schaub told officers Friday the buck was one of six deer he kept at his farm on Maple Grove road, Berrien township, near Eau Claire. The nine-point buck was valued at $200. Deputies said the wire fence was cut and blood was found in the area. The other deer were still in the area. Dr. Schaub has a permit from the Department of Natural Resources to keep the deer, officers said. Dr. Schaub notified the sheriff's department at 9:14 a.m. Friday. The illegal kill was two days before the end of Michigan's regular firearms season for deer.

Some Inland Areas Get White Blanket

By JERRY KRIEGER

Inland portions of southwestern Michigan were hit with one to three inches of snow this morning, while the area close along Lake Michigan remained bare, according to reports from over the area.

High winds that blasted a batch of warm air that had embraced the area Saturday and early Sunday, created hazardous driving conditions in the inland snowbelt this morning. Blowing snow and slippery pavements were reported from the Niles-Buchanan vicinity in Berrien county through much of Cass and eastern Van Buren counties.

The National Weather Service forecast the snow showers and high winds would subside by tonight.

The Twin Cities and other localities close along Lake Michigan experienced only a trace of snow in the air until mid-morning today.

Niles and Buchanan both reported about two inches of snow on the ground, and the Cass Cass county sheriff's department reported two to three inches fell in the Cassopolis region during the night. Paw Paw reported about one inch of snow. Blowing snow reduced visibility.

Winds that were measured at 45 to 50 miles an hour at the St. Joseph coast guard station rolled up 12 to 15 foot waves on Lake Michigan during the night, decreasing to around 10 feet by mid-morning.

The coast guard said the waves, blown straight out of the west were rolling into the St.

Joseph harbor mouth, forcing them to move their 40-foot utility boat out of the river channel. Six foot waves in the river at the coast guard station broke some of the boat's mooringlines. The boat was moved to the Morris channel upstream to avoid the possibility of damage from pounding against the seawall at its regular berth.

The heavy wave action also produced beach erosion warnings along the lake front.

A strong flow of southerly air into the area Saturday sent the temperature up into the low 50s, melting the remainder of the 4 to 5 inches of snow that had hit southwesterly Michigan early Thanksgiving day.

The jostling of the warm and cold air fronts produced a tornado early Sunday at Decatur, Ill., that inflicted an estimated $600,000 to $700,000 damage in that central Illinois city. More than 150 homes were damaged there, but no injuries were reported.

SJ Police Seeking Identity Of Accused Jewelry Bandit

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

St. Joseph police today are hoping to learn the true identity of a man charged with armed robbery in connection with a holdup Friday at Green's Jewelers, 315 State street.

Arrested by police seven minutes after the holdup was reported was a man, tentatively identified as Gary Norris

Smith, 26, address unknown; and two women — Diane Stokes, 22, address unknown; and Rolanda Carter, 20, of 267 Cornelia street, Benton township.

Police said Smith gave a nonexistent address of 1224 Baird street, Benton Harbor, while Diane Stokes gave a nonexistent address of 307 Pleasant street, Benton Harbor.

Authorities from Lansing were scheduled to come to St. Joseph today to determine if Smith actually is a Lansing man currently on parole for forgery and armed robbery.

All three people arrested in connection with the St. Joseph holdup demanded examinations and requested court-appointed attorneys when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court Saturday on armed robbery charges.

District Judge Hugh Black remanded the three to the county jail when they were unable to post bonds totaling $80,000.

Following the arraignment, a jailer reported that Smith made a phone call concerning his bond to Carl Vert of Lansing, a parole officer. St. Joseph Patrolman Dennis Soucek then called Vert, who confirmed the call.

Soucek said Vert reported that Smith gave the name of Robert Williams of 335 East St. Joseph street, Lansing, in the call. Vert told Soucek a Robert Williams is on parole for forgery and armed robbery, but has not appeared before his parole officer on schedule.

Soucek said Lansing authorities were to come to St. Joseph today to determine if Smith is actually Robert Williams.

Assistant Berrien Prosecutor Wilbur Schillinger authorized two counts of armed robbery against Smith. Police said the counts include the store holdup and the disarming at gunpoint and theft of the service revolver of Patrolman Max Kelschull.

Judge Black set bonds for Smith at $50,000. Schillinger authorized single counts of armed robbery against each of the women, who originally were booked by police for accessory to armed robbery. Their bonds were set at $20,000 each.

A lone gunman Friday fled Green's store with $7,630 in rings and cash. The alleged loot was recovered minutes later when a man was arrested in a nearby parking lot. Two women in an auto also were arrested.

Ford Makes Good Choice For U.S. Supreme Court

Bypassing his wife's hope he would choose a woman and scratching Lansing rumors of a Griffin-Milliken shift in jobs, President Ford last week nominated John Paul Stevens, a Chicago lawyer and jurist, to fill the vacancy on the U.S. Supreme Court caused by Justice William O. Douglas' resignation for health reasons.

The Senate's Judiciary Committee is expected to begin checking our Stevens' career and thought processes within a few days as a preliminary to the upper chamber's prerogative to accept or reject the appointment.

Stevens is totally unknown outside Chicago legal circles and that part of the federal judiciary which has some contact with the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals which is headquartered on the Windy City's near north portion of the Lake Shore Drive.

What is known is all to the good. Illinois' Senator Charles Percy who may be forgiven a friend's advocacy refers to Stevens as a lawyer's lawyer. Joining in for a bipartisan seconding of the idea is Senator Adlai Stevenson III.

Following three years of Navy service during World War II, Stevens enrolled in Northwestern University's law school from which he was graduated as the first ranking student in 1947.

He spent the next two years clerking for Justice Wiley Rutledge, a recognized liberal on the Supreme Court, and then went into private practice at

Cancer Deaths On The Rise

Neither the National Cancer Institute nor any of the cancer researchers appear to have a ready answer for the apparent increase in cancer deaths in the United States. Figures compiled by the National Center for Health Statistics indicate the incidence of cancer deaths increased to 176.3 persons per 100,000 during the first seven months of 1975, from 167.6 per 100,000 in the same period last year.

That is better than a 5 per cent increase, sufficient to cause both the institute and the medical profession concern over the cause. Unless the growth is found to be due to conditions such as statistical quirk or better reporting information, the battle against the disease will have suffered a setback, however temporary it may prove to be.

Congress Doesn't Have Signals For Highballing

Advocates of spending as a sole means of correcting problems have received another jolt. After almost $4 billion in federal assistance spread over five years, the nation's railroads have made only slight improvements, operating losses continue high and in the case of some important lines the deterioration continues.

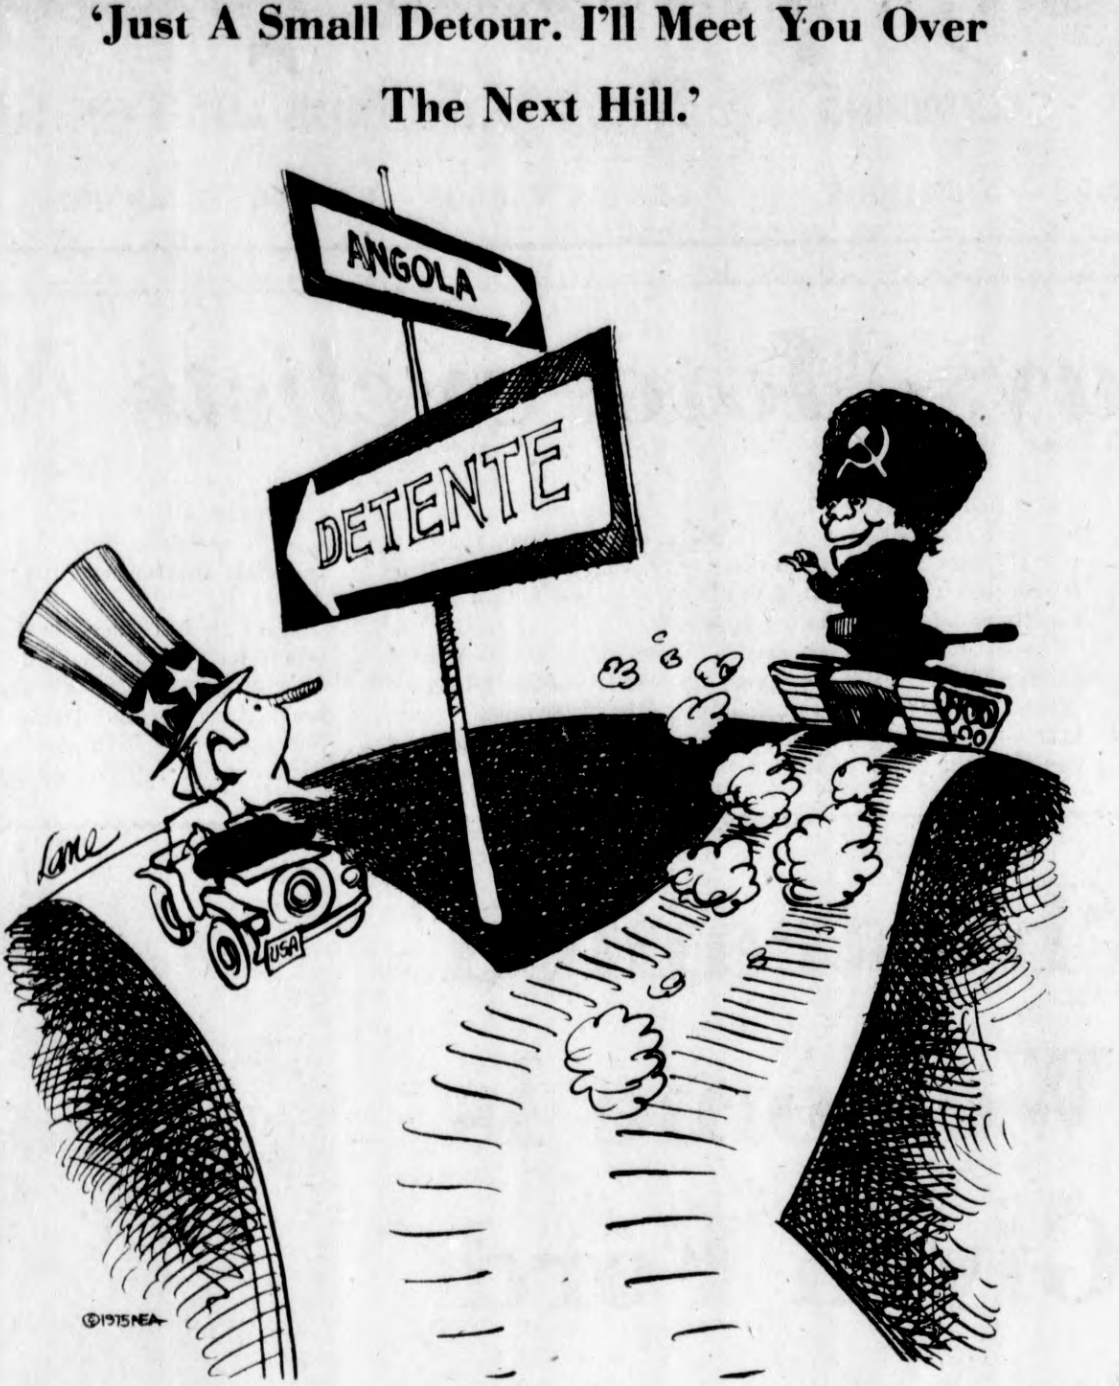

A General Accounting Office survey of the railroads reports to Congress that despite the outlay so far, very little is known about the needs of the railroads to arrest their deteriorating conditions. "In most cases," said the GAO report, "the assistance provided has been of a stopgap nature to help alleviate immediate crises."

Shortly after the Thanksgiving recess, Congress is scheduled to debate an omnibus railroad bill. But according to its own investigative arm there is a lack of perspective on how to proceed.

Unless something better comes of the debate over the bill, the habits of the past will continue. That would mean Congress will continue to appropriate large sums to rescue parts of the industry from a terminal condition without any concept of how to bring the patient back to good health.

THANKS FOR RETURNING PURSE AND CONTENTS

Editor,

Last Friday upon returning home at 7:30 p.m. from getting groceries, I discovered that I did not have my purse. I called the last store where I had been, Jewel Food store on Napier avenue, but no one had turned it in. Deciding that I must have left it in the grocery cart when I put my groceries in the car, my husband and I rushed back to the store to look. Not finding the purse, he checked again in the store. Someone had turned the purse in shortly after we had called. Everything was there including $160 in cash.

I do not know who turned it in but I would like to give him my heartfelt thanks. The money was much needed and it's heartening to know that there are still honest people in the world. Again thank you and may God bless.

WE CAN'T UNDERSTAND EITHER

Editor,

Living in Coloma, and owning property in Watervliet, I try to walk a line of impartiality as far as local sports are concerned. But something happened two weeks ago that really has bewildered me.

Can the coaches in the Red Arrow Football Conference, or whoever is responsible for voting the all-conference, or whoever is responsible for voting the all-conference teams, explain how they could ignore an outstanding player like Frank Gargano of Watervliet?

Frank seemed to be the sparkplug of the team, playing offensively and defensively. He gained over 1,000 yards, both in his junior and senior years, and was one of the top scorers of all the leagues. Every post game article in your paper about Watervliet football certainly gave him the acclaim he earned.

I am sure all the boys who made the all-conference teams were excellent football players, but how can the people who voted for these teams justify an honorable mention for the Gargano boy?

I would like to hear the answer to this question: so would many of my sport-minded friends, and I am sure the Gargano family would.

Sincerely,
Mary Walther
2215 Boyer Rd.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald-Palladium sports staff is as mystified as Reader Walther. The four staffers feel Red Conference coaches who do the picking should have named Gargano All-Conference. Gargano made first team last year, appeared to do as well or better this year. Even if others excelled Gargano for first string, there's no explaining why he didn't at least make second team this year. He got only honorable mention.

The Camouflage Of Excellence

WASHINGTON — As the story goes, Ronald Reagan is walking through his campaign headquarters and comes across an aide who is preparing a promotional paper. The paper describes Reagan as honest, forthright, energetic, enthusiastic, candid and decisive. Reagan reads it and frowns. "Dammit, man," he says, "you forgot modest."

The story is only a story, of course, but it has some instructional value. With the formal addition of ex-actor Reagan the preliminary aspects of the 1976 presidential campaign have largely ended; now the real vaudeville begins.

From here to a year from now at least 10 Democratic and two Republican candidates will be spending millions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of man-hours in desperate attempts to convince the nation they are indeed honest, forthright, energetic — and modest. Before it's over Americans will be asked to choose much more than a President — in effect, a kind of supreme being.

This said, the story of Reagan in his campaign office is not actually far from the truth at that. Candidates do shamelessly bill themselves as more than mortal, the One Indispensable Hope. In this respect campaigns actually ask voters to canonize candidates, and strive mightily to present the justifications. Thus the nation is seldom allowed to see the aspirants in any other state than ascension, for the difference between winning and not is often how well a candidate and his staff are able to hide the candidate's human defects.

Take 1972 as illustration. That year George McGovern was transformed cosmetically from a quiet bumptkin to a man whose staff went regularly to Washington's most elaborate hair styling salon. Richard Nixon underwent daily sunlamp duty, in part to take the shadows from his jowls. Edmund Muskie is said to have once covered a pimple on his neck with tape and blamed it on a shaving accident. And some candidates had aides whose job it was, just before a campaign show, to brush the dandruff from the Indispensable Hope's shoulders.

beyond the physical, moreover, the need for cloaking candidates in the camouflage of excellence is even greater. Muskie might have been President today had he not broken down emotionally during the New Hampshire primary. Nixon might never have been President had the citizenry listened in on any of his earthy private conversations.

As history goes, the politics of Pan-cake makeup is largely latterday nonsense. In earlier America one could be flawed and still be President. Rutherford Hayes had what was considered to be an incestuous relationship with his sister, James Garfield, a Disciple of Christ preacher, once publicly argued against evolution. Andrew Jackson delivered his inaugural address to Congress in a state of inebriation (and thereby provoked a congressional rule against booze in the chambers that has allegedly lasted to this day).

Then there was Grover Cleveland, father of an illegitimate child, and target of doggerel that went: "Ma, Ma, where's my Pa? Gone to the White House, Ha, Ha, Ha!"

No more. It is safe to say that if a man with a pimple on his neck may not become President, one who romances his sister won't either. In an age of good guy-bad guy simplification, when public overexposure is unavoidable, candidates can not afford ties. Therefore watch this time for short candidates to avoid being photographed aside tall people, for turkey-necked Ronald Reagan to avoid open neck shirts, and for hired professionals to advise on proper dress. Watch also for a combined weight loss of 150 pounds: messiahs do not flab at the belt.

McGovern Tries To Board Bus

WASHINGTON — 1972 Presidential nominee George McGovern's generous offer to lead the Democrats down to defeat a second time has produced a chorus of angry boos from party officials and activists.

It was instant rejection. McGovern is finished; the only person who doesn't yet seem to realize that is McGovern.

After his no-compromise, pro-busing speech before the Democratic Issues Convention last week, McGovern volunteered that he would "like to be considered" as a Presidential possibility and suggested that he might enter some of the late primaries.

This was no sudden inspiration. McGovern has been trying to get Democrats to take him seriously as a candidate for several months, with no success. He wrote to his key former supporters, but, virtually unanimously, they told him to forget it. He has dropped hints everywhere (except in South Dakota, where he promised the voters only last year he would never run again). He has said he would even like to be a running mate for Sen. Hubert Humphrey, a man about whom he had nothing good to say three years.

McGovern's emotional speech at the convention was a blatant attempt to position himself once again as the rallying point for leftists on one controversial issue. It worked with Vietnam, but it didn't work last week. The speech merely reminded many Democrats that he is a divisive rather than a unifying figure.

"The gall of the man," sputtered an angry convention participant. "He wants us to give him the chance to prove he can lose Massachusetts too." (McGovern carried only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia in 1972. Considering the high anti-busing sentiment in the state, it is doubtful he could carry it again.)

Convention planners, who had tried to dissuade him from making the speech, were reportedly "furious" at McGovern. They had expected him to conclude the convention with a pep talk, not a strident lecture. "It was the wrong speech at the wrong time," an organizer said. "He took a hard line on a very complicated problem," a Democratic National Committee official observed. "That's exactly how he lost the election in 1972. He hasn't learned a thing."

Indeed, liberals appear to be deeply divided on the question of busing. A poll taken of convention participants, drawn mostly from the party's left-wing, indicated only slightly more than half favored busing as a solution to school segregation.

"Why doesn't he keep his mouth shut?" a former McGovern supporter sighed.

McGovern's headline-grab appeared to many Democrats as an opportunistic move by a man who was more interested in pushing himself than helping his party. Even some of his closest former advisers were dismayed. One confided that McGovern had originally intended to make a pacifying, unifying speech but changed his plans when he saw a chance to capitalize on the anti-busing demonstrations at the conference.

Theft Of CB Units Reach 'Epidemic' Stage

BERRIEN OFFICIAL SAYS 4 TO 6 STOLEN EVERY 24 HOURS

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Citizens' band radio sales are booming and so are CB radio thefts, according to police officers in Berrien county.

One officer of the Berrien County Metro Crime Unit called the CB theft rate "epidemic," estimating that four to six units are stolen every 24 hours in the county.

The radios are a two-way communications system that first became popular with long-distance truckers who use them to advise other truckers of weather and road conditions, reporting accidents and to warn against speeding where police cars are patrolling. Now individuals are installing them in their cars for the same reasons.

The big attractions for thieves, officials say, are the availability, they're easy to spot and steal and they're easily resalable. Unfortunately for CB owners they're nearly impossible to protect and the recovery rate is low.

According to metro officer Jim Siebenmark, who gave the theft rate estimate, an experienced thief can steal a CB unit in about three to five minutes. "That's what the people we've picked up tell us," he said. He added that thieves can easily spot their targets just by "cruising around and looking for CB antennas." The units require a separate antenna.

While Siebenmark didn't discount the possibility that some thieves may be organized into a ring, he said it appears most thefts are the work of individuals.

With units retailing anywhere from $75 to $450, they're easily sold at a fraction of the cost to "friends and relatives," said Capt. Ronald Immoos of the Berrien county sheriff's department. He added that many thieves keep the units themselves.

Immoos said owners can try to make it as difficult as possible to detach the units. Most, he said, are on a hanger-type clamp held by "a couple of wingnuts."

Both Immoos and Siebenmark said that recording of serial numbers is important. In the event of a theft it's the only way to identify the owner should the unit be recovered. Immoos said of the thefts reported to sheriff's officers, only about 10 per cent had the serial numbers. Siebenmark said metro officers have several units which they have not been able to return because owners did not have serial numbers recorded.

Siebenmark said that by recording serial numbers and reporting them to police when a theft occurs, officers may be able to recover radios brought to repair shops or shops selling antennas if shop owners are suspicious. Identifying radios with the owners driver's license number or social security number is also a big help, Siebenmark said.

Some police departments loan engraving pencils with which people can write their driver's license number on valuables.

TERMS APPROVED

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The government today approved terms for its purchase of the remaining holdings of British Petroleum and Gulf Oil in the Kuwait Oil Co. for between $60 and $65 million, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

CB OWNERS UNIDENTIFIED: These seven citizens' band radios, valued at between $1,000 and $1,400, remain at Berrien Metro Crime Unit office in Benton Harbor because owners did not record serial

BH Gift Salutes Lakes Historian

The Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund was near the $700 mark today as some fan mail came in saluting a Great Lakes historian whose sagas appear from time to time in The Herald-Palladium.

There was $20 from a Friend who said the gift to the Good Fellows is "In appreciation of George Vargo's stirring stories of the inland seas."

The contribution put the Benton Harbor Good Fellow total at $695.16.

Vargo's sketches extend from the early French voyageurs to the mammoth modern carriers on the Great Lakes. In between are tragedies, humor, the rise and decline of passenger traffic and even one story on a lake pirate.

"Saluting someone you admire is a good way to boost the Good Fellow cause," Santa Claus observed.

Many gifts to the fund are received every year as memorials while others show esteem for the living. Either way, they go to a worthy cause at Christmas.

Right now, St. Nick needs more Good Fellows to join his ranks.

"This is Dec. 1 and we're closing in on Christmas with still a long way to go to meet our goal of $7,500," said Santa.

Benton Car Fire Doused

Benton township firemen extinguished a fire that started in the carburetor of a car driven by William Stewart, 5611 Riverside road, Coloma. Firemen said the fire was confined to the carburetor of the 1965 Volkswagen. The fire started while Stewart was driving on US-33 North about 2:45 p.m. Sunday.

St. Joe Letters Ask, Donate Aid

There were two letters in the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow mail this morning—one started out: "my husband had a stroke..." and the other was addressed: "Merry Christmas to the Good Fellows" and contained $11.

Both will get immediate attention by the Good Fellow bookkeeping department.

Pleas for help come from many sources. A teacher will drop off a note that one of her pupils has good reason not to believe in Santa Claus. A neighbor will tip off the Good Fellows of a family that has run into unexpected difficulty.

All of the tips are checked out. Last year nearly 1,300 people got a gift at Christmas. The Good Fellow goal is that no one in the big area from St. Joseph to the south county line, west of the St. Joseph river, shall be forgotten at Christmas.

The $11 is "In memory of Grandma" and comes from the 2 K's and 9 M's. The gift was in cash so there is no way to thank the donors personally.

The $11 hikes the total to

ST. JOSEPH AREA Good Fellow FUND

$668.61 which leaves $4,331.39 to go to meet the $5,000 goal.

Downtown St. Joseph, where the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow headquarters is located, got a powerful reminder the Good Fellow campaign is underway. They turned on the lights on the community Christmas tree and the decorations on the light poles.

Six In Family Injured In Collision

Six members of a Stevensville family were treated and released at Memorial hospital after their car and another collided in Lincoln township at Cleveland avenue and Marquette Woods road over the weekend, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Injured were the driver, Adam F. Brauchler, 38, of 5914 Longhorn trail, and passengers, Anna Brauchler, 32, John Brauchler, 10, Tony Brauchler, 11, Fred Brauchler, 7, and Easter Brauchler, 5.

Deputies said the other driver, Kenneth L. Harper, 37, of 4361 Hollywood road, St. Joseph, received apparently minor injuries, but declined treatment. Harper was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way, officers reported. The collision occurred about 8:53 p.m. Friday.

Santa Is Due To Arrive In Coloma On Saturday

COLOMA — Santa Claus will arrive in Coloma Saturday, Dec. 6, at 1:30 p.m., and begin a full schedule of appearances here through Christmas eve.

Gene Rennhack, said the newly-formed Coloma Downtown Merchants association, the Coloma Lions club and the North Berrien County Chamber of Commerce, are sponsoring the visit.

Santa will travel through downtown Coloma, accompanied by Miss Coloma 1975, Cindy Meyers, and stop at the Loma theater, where they will be greeted by the Coloma high school marching band. Two free movies for the youngsters are slated Saturday with free candy canes distributed after the first performance.

Rennhack said Santa will be at his Coloma winter house in Baker park, Saturday, Dec. 13 and from Monday, Dec. 15 through Friday, Dec. 19 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. nightly. Beginning Saturday, Dec. 20 through Wednesday, Dec. 24, Santa will visit stores in the downtown Coloma business district between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., to talk with youngsters.

According to Rennhack, the Coloma high school choir will be caroling in and around the city limits on Dec. 22 while carolers from the Salem Lutheran church, Youth for Christ will be in the area Dec. 23.

Medical Science May Have Saved Galien Boy's Thumb

By TOM BRUNDRETT
STATE EDITOR

GALIEN — A Galien high school boy has undergone a rare and complicated emergency operation to re-attach his thumb to his left hand.

Jack Luckier Jr., 15, was reported in stable condition Friday in an Indianapolis hospital where the operation, lasting 11 hours, was performed.

His parents battled through the snowstorm which swept the midwest on Thanksgiving eve to reach the medical team called to perform the delicate operation.

Lucker cut the thumb off and sliced the palm of the left hand seriously while using a power table saw to cut a board at his home on Depot street about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. He is a sophomore at Galien high school.

A medical spokesman said doctors would not be certain the operation was successful for two and a half weeks.

"It was a nightmare," said Lucker's father, Jack Sr., a salesman for Ashley Ford in Benton Harbor.

The boy's father said it took 12 hours to make the 150-mile trip from Pawating hospital, Niles, to Indianapolis because of the storm. The hand could have started bleeding at any time.

"It was snowing heavy," he said. "The visibility was about 30 feet." We were one of the lucky ones to get through. There were cars and trucks in the ditch all the way down. We could only go 30 miles an hour."

Lucker said he and his wife, Dennis, were in the hospital room when they brought their son up after the operation. "When I saw the thumb, I just choked up," he said his wife cried.

Lucker said, "I've told him dozens of times not to use that saw."

A spokesman for the medical team said the operation involved sewing the nerves, arteries and blood vessels back together. He termed it an unusual operation although he said similar ones had been done previously.

The spokesman, who asked that the four members of the operating team not be named, said the work had to be done under a special microscope. The thread used in the operation, he said, is smaller than a human hair.

"We don't know for sure yet if the operation was successful," the spokesman said. "It will be two and a half weeks before we can be certain."

The doctor said the thumb had been cut off just below the joint nearest the hand. He said the boy, who was given a local anesthetic on his left arm, fell asleep during the operation.

It took seven hours to re-attach the thumb. The rest of the time was spent repairing the damaged palm.

The spokesman said the team would not have been able to perform the operation at all prior to March. It was then, he said, that one of the members returned with the knowledge and skill required to complete repair of the vessels and arteries. He also said that only three or four other places in the nation have the team required to perform such an operation.

The spokesman cautioned that the operation could only be attempted in certain kinds of amputation cases. He said lost members that have been crushed or are not recent could not be considered.

One of the four at the hospital told the boy's father that it would take a year before complete feeling returned. He also said he would be able to stay in the hospital for three weeks.

Lucker said the nerve-racking drive to Indianapolis began after a doctor at Pawating hospital, where they had taken Jack Jr. for treatment, began telephoning at his request to see if the thumb could be re-attached.

Lucker said his wife and son had found the thumb and brought it with them after the accident.

According to Lucker, he had asked about the possibility of re-attachment after being told at Pawating that nothing could be done there except to doctor the stub.

Lucker said the severed thumb was placed in a special container with a solvent around it to keep it cool on the trip down.

He said his son was given a pain killer for the trip but was awake. "He was in good spirits, even joking," Lucker said.

'No Foul Play Indicated' In Death Of Jail Inmate

A Berrien county deputy medical examiner's report on the death of a county jail inmate in September says no foul play was indicated and the Berrien sheriff's department said today the investigation is ended.

Lorenzo McCall, 56, Benton Harbor, died Sept. 14 at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, of a head injury, according to Dr. Richard Lininger, deputy medical examiner.

Dr. Lininger said he was unable to pinpoint the exact time of the head injury but examination indicated the injury was caused "by a fall, rather than a blow to the head" with some type of instrument. "There was nothing abnormal about the scalp area to indicate a blow," Dr. Lininger said. Capt. Ronald Immoos of the sheriff's department said there was no evidence to continue the investigation.

McCall was found by jail guards alone in his cell unconscious. He had been in jail for six days awaiting a hearing on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses.

The medical examiner's report was issued after reports on analysis of tissues had been received from a state laboratory.

Feeding Birds Can Be A Colorful Winter Hobby

By JIM KEEGSTRA
Associated Press Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With the first signs of winter gleaming whitely from the ground in most of the state, now might not be a bad time to give your family a new hobby — feeding the birds. The proper easily-built and stocked feeding and water stations set out in the yard can bring over 30 types of native Michigan birds to your windows.

Brilliant cardinals, redwings, woodpeckers, nuthatches and sparrows are only a few of the species which can be attracted, says Glenn Dudderer, a Michigan State University extension service wildlife specialist. Once the birds arrive, they can be identified by color markings and behavior with the aid of numerous books available at libraries or stores.

Feeders can be practically any size, but roofs should extend over the front opening at least six inches, Dudderer said. "The feed must be kept dry to avoid possible harmful fungus development," he said. "If the seed is frozen or wet, the bird might spend too much energy trying to loosen and digest it."

Distance from the front of the feeder to the back must be kept small since birds do not like to enter deep openings, Dudderer said. But there should be at least eight inches between the floor and roof at the feeder's front. An ideal mix of food contains small seeds such as millet, up through the larger corn, soybeans and peanuts, Dudderer said.

"Store-bought mixes are good but may be short on the sunflower seeds cardinals and bluejays prefer," he said. "If commercial mixes are too expensive, they can be extended with cracked corn, wheat, oats and peanut hearts sold as chicken scratch in feed stores. "The greater the variety of food, the more bird species that will be attracted," Dudderer said.

An extra feeding attraction is a ball of hardened cooking grease with table scraps mixed in that is hung from trees or the feeder station. To make these "lollipops," run a string through the bottom of a small paper cup and knot it, Dudderer said. Then fill the cup with dry food and pour melted grease over it.

When the grease hardens, peel away the cup sides, leaving the bottom for extra support, he said. "The table scraps could be bread crumbs; vegetables like peas, corn or beans; raisins, currants and chopped nuts," Dudderer said.

Popcorn balls or knotted bags of suet or ear corn can also be hung in trees, though high enough to frustrate rodents and neighborhood pets. Once you start feeding the birds, it's important to continue through the entire winter, Dudderer said.

"Birds will become dependent on this source," he said. "If feeding is stopped, many may die before finding food in their natural places."

Ford Makes Good Choice For U.S. Supreme Court

Bypassing his wife's hope he would choose a woman and scratching Lansing rumors of a Griffin-Milliken shift in jobs, President Ford last week nominated John Paul Stevens, a Chicago lawyer and jurist, to fill the vacancy on the U.S. Supreme Court caused by Justice William O. Douglas' resignation for health reasons.

The Senate's Judiciary Committee is expected to begin checking out Stevens' career and thought processes within a few days as a preliminary to the upper chamber's prerogative to accept or reject the appointment.

Stevens is totally unknown outside Chicago legal circles and that part of the federal judiciary which has some contact with the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals which is headquartered on the Windy City's near north portion of the Lake Shore Drive.

What is known is all to the good.

Illinois' Senator Charles Percy, who may be forgiven a friend's advocacy refers to Stevens as a lawyer's lawyer. Joining in for a bipartisan seconding of the idea is Senator Adlai Stevenson III.

Following three years of Navy service during World War II, Stevens enrolled in Northwestern University's law school from which he was graduated as the first ranking student in 1947.

He spent the next two years clerking for Justice Wiley Rutledge, a recognized liberal on the Supreme Court, and then went into private practice at Chicago.

Stevens gained a brief exposure in the news during a state-federal investigation in the late 1960s into the tangled affairs of Otto Kerner when governor of Illinois, and Theodore Isaacs, the state's revenue director.

He chaired a special Illinois courts commission to investigate complaints against two Illinois state supreme court justices acting improperly because of conflicting interests in cases against Kerner and Isaacs. The two judges resigned as a result of the commission's exposures.

Possible in recognition of that work, President Nixon appointed Stevens to his current position in 1970.

Lawyers and jurists familiar with his work rate Stevens as an outstanding professional.

Politically, he is considered a centrist in the words of one friend, equidistant between Justice Byron White and the conservative Lewis Powell.

If confirmed by the Senate, it indicates Stevens will decide a case on its merits and will eschew the flights into socio-economic theorizing so characteristic of the Supreme Court during Earl Warren's day as Chief Justice and the predilections of Douglas.

The legal profession has always maintained the law is a living, responsive organism, and not a crustacean unchanged from the 13th century when the barons at Runnemede forced King John I to sign the Magna Carta.

The claim is valid, contrary to what many laymen feel otherwise so much so that in recent decades the responsibility more aptly might be described as jet propelled. Many courts in the state-federal systems have made it a mission to blaze new trails ahead of the legislative branch law in the manner of a Daniel Boone carving a new road through the wilderness.

This activism carries the appeal of getting on with the job free from the political horse trading inherent in any legislative endeavor.

The error in the process is a non-elective branch in the government taking the public into uncharted seas before the people have had a chance to decide where they might want to go.

A centrist is one who reviews the maps sketched by the legislature to see if its enactments are within constitutional guide lines or are in outer space.

Congratulations are due Ford for picking a man who calls the shots where they fall.

Cancer Deaths On The Rise

Neither the National Cancer Institute nor any of the cancer researchers appear to have a ready answer for the apparent increase in cancer deaths in the United States. Figures compiled by the National Center for Health Statistics indicate the incidence of cancer deaths increased to 178.3 persons per 100,000 during the first seven months of 1975, from 167.6 per 100,000 in the same period last year.

That is better than a 5 per cent increase, sufficient to cause both the institute and the medical profession concern over the cause. Unless the growth is found to be due to conditions such as statistical quirk or better reporting information, the battle against the disease will have suffered a setback, however temporary it may prove to be.

Congress Doesn't Have Signals For Highballing

Advocates of spending as a sole means of correcting problems have received another jolt. After almost $4 billion in federal assistance spread over five years, the nation's railroads have made only slight improvements, operating losses continue high and in the case of some important lines the deterioration continues.

A General Accounting Office survey of the railroads reports to Congress that despite the outlay so far, very little is known about the needs of the railroads to arrest their deteriorating conditions. "In most cases," said the GAO report, "the assistance provided has been of a stopgap nature to help alleviate immediate crises."

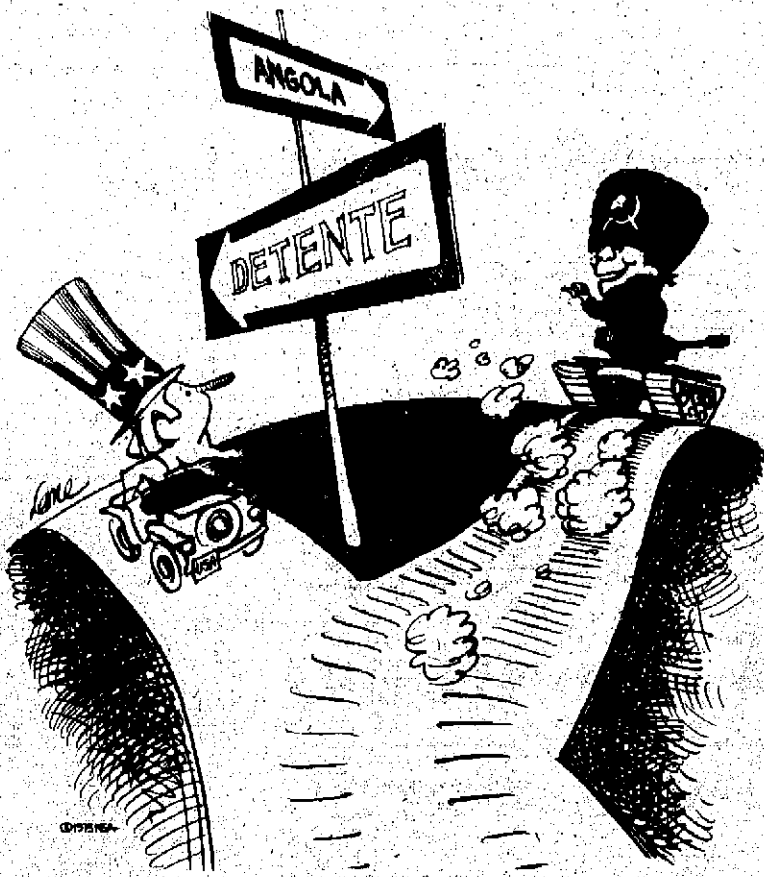

Shortly after the Thanksgiving recess, Congress is scheduled to debate an omnibus railroad bill. But according to its own investigative arm there is a lack of perspective on how to proceed.

Unless something better comes of the debate over the bill, the habits of the past will continue. That would mean Congress will continue to appropriate large sums to rescue parts of the industry from a terminal condition without any concept of how to bring the patient back to good health.

THANKS FOR RETURNING PURSE AND CONTENTS

Editor,

Last Friday upon returning home at 7:30 p.m. from getting groceries, I discovered that I did not have my purse. I called the last store where I had been, Jewel Food store on Napier avenue, but no one had turned it in. Deciding that I must have left it in the grocery cart when I put my groceries in the car, my husband and I rushed back to the store to look. Not finding the purse, he checked again in the store. Someone had turned the purse in shortly after we had called. Everything was there including $100 in cash.

I do not know who turned it in but I would like to give him my heartfelt thanks. The money was much needed and it's heartening to know that there are still honest people in the world. Again thank you and may God bless.

WE CAN'T UNDERSTAND EITHER

Editor,

Living in Coloma, and owning property in Watervliet, I try to walk a line of impartiality as far as local sports are concerned. But something happened two weeks ago that really has bewildered me.

Can the coaches in the Red Arrow Football Conference, or whoever is responsible for voting the all-conference teams, explain how they could ignore an outstanding player like Frank Gargano of Watervliet?

Frank seemed to be the sparkplug of the team, playing offensively and defensively. He gained over 1,000 yards, both in his junior and senior years, and was one of the top scorers of all the leagues. Every post game article in your paper about Watervliet football certainly gave him the acclaim he earned.

I am sure all the boys who made the all-conference teams were excellent football players, but how can the people who voted for these teams justify an honorable mention for the Gargano boy?

I would like to hear the answer to this question; so would many of my sport-minded friends, and I am sure the Gargano family would.

Sincerely,

Mary Walther

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald-Palladium sports staff is as mystified as Reader Walther. The four staffers feel Red Conference coaches who do the picking should have named Gargano All-Conference. Gargano made first team last year, appeared to do as well or better this year. Even if others excelled Gargano for first string, there's no explaining why he didn't at least make second team this year. He got only honorable mention.

The Camouflage Of Excellence

WASHINGTON — As the story goes, Ronald Reagan is walking through his campaign headquarters and comes across an aide who is preparing a promotional paper. The paper describes Reagan as honest, forthright, energetic, enthusiastic, candid and decisive. Reagan reads it and frowns. "Dammit, man," he says, "you forgot modest."

The story is only a story, of course, but it has some instructional value. With the formal addition of ex-actor Reagan the preliminary aspects of the 1976 presidential campaign have largely ended; now the real vaudeville begins.

From here to a year from now at least 10 Democratic and two Republican candidates will be spending millions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of man-hours in desperate attempts to convince the nation they are indeed honest, forthright, energetic — and modest. Before it's over Americans will be asked to choose much more than a President — in effect, a kind of supreme being.

This said, the story of Reagan in his campaign office is not actually far from the truth at that. Candidates do shamelessly bill themselves as more than mortal, the One Indispensable Hope. In this respect campaigns actually ask voters to canonize candidates, and strive mightily to present the justifications. Thus the nation is seldom allowed to see the aspirants in any other state than ascension, for the difference between winning and not is often how well a candidate and his staff are able to hide the candidate's human defects.

Take 1972 as illustration. That year George McGovern was transformed cosmetically from a quiet bumpkin to a man whose staff went regularly to Washington's most elaborate hair styling salon. Richard Nixon underwent daily sunlamp duty, in part to take the shadows from his jaws. Edmund Muskie is said to have once covered a pimple on his neck with tape and blamed it on a shaving accident. And some candidates had aides whose job it was, just before a campaign show, to brush the dandruff from the indispensable Hope's shoulders.

beyond the physical, moreover, the need for cloaking candidates in the camouflage of excellence is even greater. Muskie might have been President today had he not broken down emotionally during the New Hampshire primary. Nixon might never have been President had the citizenry listened in on any of his earthy private conversations.

As history goes, the politics of Pan-cake makeup is largely latterday nonsense. In earlier America one could be flawed and still be President. Rutherford Hayes had what was considered to be an incestuous relationship with his sister, James Garfield, a Disciple of Christ preacher, once publicly argued against evolution. Andrew Jackson delivered his inaugural address to Congress in a state of inebriation (and thereby provoked a congressional rule against booze in the chambers that has allegedly lasted to this day).

Then there was Grover Cleveland, father of an illegitimate child, and target of doggerel that went: "Ma, Ma, where's my Pa? Come to the White House, Ha, Ha, Ha!"

No more. It is safe to say that if a man with a pimple on his neck may not become President, one who romances his sister won't either. In an age of good guy-bad guy simplification, when public overexposure is unavoidable, candidates can not afford to. Therefore watch this time for short candidates to avoid being photographed aside tall people, for turkey-necked Ronald Reagan to avoid open neck shirts, and for hired professionals to advise on proper dress. Watch also for a continued weight loss of 150 pounds; messiahs do not flab at the belt.

McGovern Tries To Board Bus

WASHINGTON — 1972 Presidential nominee George McGovern's generous offer to lead the Democrats out to defeat a second time has produced a chorus of angry boos from party officials and activists.

It was instant rejection. McGovern is finished; the only person who doesn't yet seem to realize that is McGovern.

After his no-compromise, pro-busing speech before the Democratic Issues Convention last week, McGovern volunteered that he would "like to be considered" as a Presidential possibility and suggested that he might enter some of the late primaries.

This was no sudden inspiration. McGovern has been trying to get Democrats to take him seriously as a candidate for several months, with no success. He wrote to his key former supporters; but, virtually unanimously, they told him to forget it. He has dropped hints everywhere (except in South Dakota, where he promised the voters only last year he would never run again). He has said he would even like to be a running mate for Sen. Hubert Humphrey, a man about whom he had nothing good to say three years ago.

McGovern's emotional speech at the convention was a blatant attempt to position himself once again as the rallying point for leftists on one controversial issue. It worked with Vietnam, but it didn't work last week. The speech merely reminded many Democrats that he is a divisive rather than a unifying figure.

"The gall of the man," spluttered an angry convention participant. "He wants us to give him the chance to prove he can lose Massachusetts too." (McGovern carried only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia in 1972. Considering the high anti-busing sentiment in the state, it is doubtful he could carry it again.)

Convention planners, who had tried to dissuade him from making the speech, were reportedly "furious" at McGovern. They had expected him to conclude the convention with a pep talk, not a strident lecture. "It was the wrong speech at the wrong time," an organizer said. "He took a hard line on a very complicated problem," a Democratic National Committee official observed. "That's exactly how he lost the election in 1972. He hasn't learned a thing."

Indeed, liberals appear to be deeply divided on the question of busing. A poll taken of convention participants, drawn mostly from the party's left wing, indicated only slightly more than half favored busing as a solution to school segregation.

"Why doesn't he keep his mouth shut?" a former McGovern supporter sighed.

McGovern's headline-grab appeared to many Democrats as an opportunistic move by a man who was more interested in pushing himself than helping his party. Even some of his closest former advisers were dismayed. One confided that McGovern had originally intended to make a pacifying, unifying speech but changed his plans when he saw a chance to capitalize on the anti-busing demonstrations at the conference.

Theft Of CB Units Reach 'Epidemic' Stage

BERRIEN OFFICIAL SAYS 4 TO 6 STOLEN EVERY 24 HOURS

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Citizens' band radio sales are booming and so are CB radio thefts, according to police officers in Berrien county.

One officer of the Berrien County Metro Crime Unit called the CB theft rate "epidemic," estimating that four to six units are stolen every 24 hours in the county.

The radios are a two-way communications system that first became popular with long-distance truckers who use them to advise other truckers of weather and road conditions, reporting accidents and to warn against speeding where police cars are patrolling. Now individuals are installing them in their cars for the same reasons.

The big attractions for thieves, officials say, are the availability, they're easy to spot and steal and they're easily resalable. Unfortunately for CB owners they're nearly impossible to protect and the recovery rate is low.

According to metro officer Jim Siebenmark, who gave the theft rate estimate, an experienced thief can steal a CB unit in about three to five minutes. "That's what the people we've picked up tell us," he said. He added that thieves can easily spot their targets just by "cruising around and looking for CB antennas." The units require a separate antenna.

While Siebenmark didn't discount the possibility that some thieves may be organized into a ring, he said it appears most thefts are the work of individuals.

With units retailing anywhere from $75 to $450, they're easily sold at a fraction of the cost to "friends and relatives," said Capt. Ronald Immoos of the Berrien county sheriff's department. He added that many thieves keep the units themselves.

Immoos said owners can try to make it as difficult as possible to detach the units. Most, he said, are on a hanger-type clamp held by "a couple of wingnuts."

Both Immoos and Siebenmark said that recording of serial numbers is important. In the event of a theft it's the only way to identify the owner should the unit be recovered. Immoos said of the thefts reported to sheriff's officers, only about 10 per cent had the serial numbers. Siebenmark said metro officers have several units which they have not been able to return because owners did not have serial numbers recorded.

Siebenmark said that by recording serial numbers and reporting them to police when a theft occurs, officers may be able to recover radios brought to repair shops or shops selling antennas if shop owners are suspicious. Identifying radios with the owners driver's license number or social security number is also a big help, Siebenmark said.

Some police departments loan engraving pencils with which people can write their driver's license number on valuables.

CB OWNERS UNIDENTIFIED: These seven citizens' band radios, valued at between $1,000 and $1,400, remain at Berrien Metro Crime Unit office in Benton Harbor because owners did not record serial

BH Gift Salutes Lakes Historian

The Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund was near the $700 mark today as some fan mail came in saluting a Great Lakes historian whose sagas appear from time to time in The Herald-Palladium.

There was $20 from a Friend who said the gift to the Good Fellows is "In appreciation of George Vargo's stirring stories of the inland seas."

The contribution put the Benton Harbor Good Fellow total at $665.16.

Vargo's sketches extend from the early French voyageurs to the mammoth modern carriers on the Great Lakes. In between are tragedies, humor, the rise and decline of passenger traffic and even one story on a lake pirate.

"Saluting someone you admire is a good way to boost the Good Fellow cause," Santa Claus observed.

Many gifts to the fund are

received every year as memorials while others show esteem for the living. Either way, they go to a worthy cause at Christmas.

Right now, St. Nick needs more Good Fellows to join his ranks.

"This is Dec. 1 and we're closing in on Christmas with still a long way to go to meet our goal of $7,500," said Santa.

Benton Car Fire Doused

Benton township firemen extinguished a fire that started in the carburetor of a car driven by William Stewart, 5611 Riverside road, Coloma. Firemen said the fire was confined to the carburetor of the 1965 Volkswagen. The fire started while Stewart was driving on US-33 North about 2:45 p.m. Sunday.

St. Joe Letters Ask, Donate Aid

There were two letters in the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow mail this morning—one started out: "my husband had a stroke..." and the other was addressed: "Merry Christmas to the Good Fellows" and contained $11.

Both will get immediate attention by the Good Fellow bookkeeping department.

Please for help come from many sources. A teacher will drop off a note that one of her pupils has good reason not to believe in Santa Claus. A neighbor will tip off the Good Fellows of a family that has run into unexpected difficulty.

All of the tips are checked out. Last year nearly 1,300 people got a gift at Christmas. The Good Fellow goal is that no one in the big area from St. Joseph to the south county line, west of the St. Joseph river, shall be forgotten at Christmas.

The $11 is "In memory of Grandma" and comes from the 2 K's and 9 M's. The gift was in cash so there is no way to thank the donors personally.

The $11 likes the total to

ST. JOSEPH AREA Good Fellow FUND

$668.61 which leaves $4,331.39 to go to meet the $5,000 goal.

Downtown St. Joseph, where the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow headquarters is located, got a powerful reminder the Good Fellow campaign is underway. They turned on the lights on the community Christmas tree and the decorations on the light poles.

Six In Family Injured In Collision

Six members of a Stevensville family were treated and released at Memorial hospital after their car and another collided in Lincoln township at Cleveland avenue and Marquette Woods road over the weekend, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Injured were the driver, Adam F. Brauchler, 38, of 5914 Longhorn trail, and passengers, Anna Brauchler, 32, John Brauchler, 18, Tony Brauchler, 11, Fred Brauchler, 7, and Easter Brauchler, 5.

Deputies said the other driver, Kenneth L. Harper, 37, of 4361 Hollywood road, St. Joseph, received apparently minor injuries, but declined treatment. Harper was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way, officers reported. The collision occurred about 8:53 p.m. Friday.

Santa Is Due To Arrive In Coloma On Saturday

COLOMA — Santa Claus will arrive in Coloma Saturday, Dec. 6, at 1:30 p.m., and begin a full schedule of appearances here through Christmas eve.

Gene Rennhack, said the newly-formed Coloma Downtown Merchants association, the Coloma Lions club and the North Berrien County Chamber of Commerce, are sponsoring the visit.

Santa will travel through downtown Coloma, accompanied by Miss Coloma 1975, Cindy Meyers, and stop at the Loma theater, where they will visit stores in the downtown Coloma business district between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., to talk with youngsters.

According to Rennhack, the Coloma high school choir will be caroling in and around the city limits on Dec. 22 while carolers from the Salem Lutheran church, Youth for Christ will be in the area Dec. 23.

6:30 to 7:30 p.m. nightly. Beginning Saturday, Dec. 20 through Wednesday, Dec. 24, Santa will visit stores in the downtown Coloma business district between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., to talk with youngsters.

Medical Science May Have Saved Galien Boy's Thumb

By TOM BRUNDETT
STATE EDITOR

GALIEN — A Galien high school boy has undergone a rare and complicated emergency operation to re-attach his thumb to his left hand.

Jack Luckner Jr., 15, was reported in stable condition Friday in an Indianapolis hospital where the operation, lasting 11 hours, was performed.

His parents battled through the snowstorm which swept the Midwest on Thanksgiving eve to reach the medical team called to perform the delicate operation.

Luckner cut the thumb off and sliced the palm of the left hand seriously while using a power table saw to cut a board at his home on Depot street about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. He is a sophomore at Galien high school.

A medical spokesman said doctors would not be certain the operation was successful for two and a half weeks.

"It was a nightmare," said Luckner's father, Jack Sr., a salesman for Ashley Ford in Benton Harbor.

The boy's father said it took 12 hours to make the 150-mile trip from Pawating hospital, Niles, to Indianapolis because of the storm. The hand could have started bleeding at any time.

"It was snowing heavy," he said. "The visibility was about 30 feet." We were one of the lucky ones to get through. There were cars and trucks in the ditch all the way down. We could only go 30 miles an hour."

Luckner said he and his wife, Dennis, were in the hospital room when they brought their son up after the operation. "When I saw the thumb, I just choked up," he said, his wife cried.

Luckner said, "I've told him dozens of times not to use that saw."

A spokesman for the medical team said the operation involved sewing the nerves, arteries and blood vessels back together. He termed it an unusual operation although he said similar ones had been done previously.

The spokesman, who asked that the four members of the operating team not be named, said the work had to be done under a special microscope. The thumb used in the operation, he said, is smaller than a human hair.

"We don't know for sure yet if the operation was successful," the spokesman said. "It will be two and a half weeks before we can be certain."

The doctor said the thumb had been cut off just below the joint nearest the hand. He said the boy, who was given a local anesthetic on his left arm, fell asleep during the operation.

It took seven hours to re-attach the thumb. The rest of the time was spent repairing the damaged palm.

The spokesman said the team would not have been able to perform the operation at all prior to March. It was then, he said, that one of the members returned with the knowledge and skill required to complete repair of the vessels and arteries. He also said that only three or four other places in the nation have the team required to perform such an operation.

The spokesman cautioned that the operation could only be attempted in certain kinds of amputation cases. He said lost members that have been crushed or are not recent could not be considered.

One of the four at the hospital told the boy's father that it would take a year before complete feeling returned. He also said he would be have to stay in the hospital for three weeks.

Luckner said the nerve-racking drive to Indianapolis began after a doctor at Pawating hospital, where they had taken Jack Jr. for treatment, began telephoning at his request to see if the thumb could be re-attached.

Luckner said his wife and son had found the thumb and brought it with them after the accident.

According to Luckner, he had asked about the possibility of re-attachment after being told at Pawating that nothing could be done there except to doctor the stub.

Luckner said the severed thumb was placed in a special container with a solvent around it to keep it cool on the trip down.

He said his son was given a pain killer for the trip but "was awake." "He was in good spirits, even joking," Luckner said.

'No Foul Play Indicated' In Death Of Jail Inmate

A Berrien county deputy medical examiner's report on the death of a county jail inmate in September says no foul play was indicated and the Berrien sheriff's department said today the investigation is ended.

Lorenzo McCall, 56, Benton Harbor, died Sept. 14 at Berrien General Hospital, Berrien Center, of a head injury, according to Dr. Richard Lininger, deputy medical examiner.

Dr. Lininger said he was unable to pinpoint the exact time of the head injury but examination indicated the injury was caused "by a fall, rather than a blow to the head" with some type of instrument.

"There was nothing abnormal about the scalp area to indicate a blow," Dr. Lininger said. Capt. Ronald Immoos of the sheriff's department said there was no evidence to continue the investigation.

McCall was found by jail guards alone in his cell unconscious. He had been in jail for six days awaiting a hearing on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses.

The medical examiner's report was issued after reports on analysis of tissues had been received from a state laboratory.

Feeding Birds Can Be A Colorful Winter Hobby

By JIM KEEGSTRA
Associated Press Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With the first signs of winter gleaming whitely from the ground in most of the state, now might not be a bad time to give your family a new hobby — feeding the birds. The proper easily-built and stocked feeding and water stations set out in the yard can bring over 30 types of native Michigan birds to your windows.

Brilliant cardinals, redwings, woodpeckers, nuthatches and sparrows are only a few of the species which can be attracted, says Glenn Dudderer, a Michigan State University extension service wildlife specialist. Once the birds arrive, they can be identified by color markings and behavior with the aid of numerous books available at libraries or stores.

Feeders can be practically any size, but roofs should extend over the front opening at least six inches, Dudderer said. "The feed must be kept dry to avoid possible harmful fungus development," he said. "If the seed is frozen or wet, the bird might spend too much energy trying to loosen and digest it."

Distance from the front of the feeder to the back must be kept small since birds do not like to enter deep openings, Dudderer said. But there should be at least eight inches between the floor and roof at the feeder's front. An ideal mix of food contains small seeds such as millet, up through the larger corn, soybeans and peanuts, Dudderer said.

"Store-bought mixes are good but may be short on the sunflower seeds cardinals and bluejays prefer," he said. "If commercial mixes are too expensive, they can be extended with cracked corn, wheat, oats and peanut hearts sold as chicken scratch in feed stores. The greater the variety of food, the more bird species that will be attracted," Dudderer said.

An extra feeding attraction is a ball of hardened cooking grease with table scraps mixed in that is hung from trees or the feeder station. To make these "lollipops," run a string through the bottom of a small paper cup and knot it, Dudderer said. Then fill the cup with dry food and pour melted grease over it.

When the grease hardens, peel away the cup sides, leaving the bottom for extra support, he said. "The table scraps could be bread crumbs; vegetables like peas, corn or beans; raisins, currants and chopped nuts," Dudderer said.

Popcorn balls or knotted-bags of suet or ear corn can also be hung in trees, though high enough to frustrate rodents and neighborhood pets. Once you start feeding the birds, it's important to continue through the entire winter, Dudderer said.

"Birds will become dependent on this source," he said. "If feeding is stopped, many may die before finding food in their natural places."

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

May Have Been Just Words

Dear Ann Landers: I have been going around with a lump in my throat for two weeks. It's because of something I found in my son's room. No, it wasn't drugs, pornography or anything like that. It was a paper he had written for school. (He's a graduate student in psychology.) I was dusting his desk and accidentally read enough so that I wanted to read more. It made me sick. I went back later to copy the part that stunned me so I could send it to you.

This is what he wrote: "It stems largely from a feeling of distaste for the unique brand of arrogance and ignorance to which I was subjected throughout my childhood by various members of my nuclear and extended family, and which is, perhaps, exemplified lucidly by those dogmatic members of the Christian faith who begin every other sentence with, 'I know.'" His father would be amazed and heartbroken as I was if I showed this statement to him. I am mystified, Ann. We have not had as much education as our son, but we didn't realize we were "arrogant" or "ignorant." I can't believe he would write such a thing and sign his name to it.

Should I tell him I saw it and ask him to explain? Or should I try to forget and hope he didn't mean it? I'm in no condition to decide what is best and will take your advice. — Still In Shock

Dear S.I.S.: If you confront your son with what you saw it will put him on the defensive and nothing will be resolved — only more wounds inflicted.

Take my word for it, dear, when students write papers (especially psychology majors) they often dramatize, distort, and even fabricate, to illustrate a point.

Your son's extravagant and pretentious language leads me to believe that he wrote those words for effect and it didn't matter to him whether or not they reflected the real situation. Forget it.

Should Have Told

Dear Ann Landers: After nearly 25 years of marriage I have learned from a reliable source that my wife had a child out of wedlock before she married me. It was a tremendous shock. She professed complete innocence, feigned virginity and led me to believe that the deflowering procedure was extremely traumatic. When I think of her duplicity I become furious.

Please, Ann, tell me at once if I should confront her with what I know or is it none of my business? I have read often in your column that a woman need not tell her fiancé "the names and numbers of all the players." You seem to think a man should judge a woman on the basis of the way she conducts herself during their relationship and that past indiscretions ought not enter into the picture.

Please advise me. I'm — Deeply Distraught

Dear D.D.: A child out of wedlock is more than an "indiscretion." No woman should withhold information of this kind from the man she marries. By all means, tell your wife what you heard. There's a chance the story is not true. She deserves the opportunity to defend herself.

If it IS true, 25 years of a solid marriage should outweigh an early mistake and your wife's foolishness in trying to deceive you.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Hidden Price Tags

It could be one of the best kept secrets in the retailing business, but my suspicions have finally been confirmed.

There is a class in which a group of handpicked personnel is trained how to hide price tags from the customer.

The course lasts for six weeks and runs the gamut from "Illegibility: The Salesman's Friend" to "Booby-Trapping a Blouse Sleeve With Open Pins."

Retailers realized years ago that hiding price tags is not a job for amateurs. There is too much at stake. It could mean the difference between a customer not buying or making a purchase to avoid humiliation ("Advanced Lettering: How to Make a 9 Look Like a Dollar Sign").

A friend of mine sneaked me into a seminar one day last week while a lecture was in progress. "Do you see what Dorothy has just done?" asked the instructor. "She had made one of the classic boo-boos in ticketing a dress. Does anyone see it?"

A hand waved. "She put the ticket in the exact same spot as she put the tickets on the other dresses."

"Exactly," said the instructor. "Let me repeat. Never put the price tag in the same place of any garment twice. Now, you've hidden the tag well. You see, a woman would have to set down her packages and examine every single opening in the dress. This is great, Dorothy. The hem would be the last spot she'd look for a price tag. Can't you just see her on her knees becoming paranoid? I love it! Does anyone have any more suggestions as to how she can confuse the customer?"

A hand raised. "You can keep marking over a price like it has been marked down and each time smear it."

"I'm a lining man myself," said the instructor, but that's a good one. Once that little baby is sewed in the lining, they never find it... even with glasses.

"Moving right along, I've got some visuals here that might interest you. Get the lights, Buford. Here are some new price tags that put a hole in the material to get them out. Don't you love it! And here are some new tags for jewelry that you have to submerge in water to get a reading. However, if your department doesn't carry them, just remember, the price faces

Jim: "One of our readers has asked us to write about some of the best and worst hands of our careers. It looks like a good idea."

Oswald: "I have one standout bad hand. It was the final match of the 1930 Vanderbilt Cup. Ted Lightner, South, and Ely Culbertson had bid up to six hearts. This was back before any four notrump convention had been thought of and I was on lead against six hearts."

Jim: "You don't mean to say that you led a low spade and that your partner played the ten after dummy played low?"

Oswald: "Actually, the nine was played from dummy. Perhaps he should have played the king on the theory that I was then the sort of young genius (idiot) who might underlead an ace against a slam, but no one can really blame him."

Jim: "Culbertson really should have held the king of spades for his six-heart bid. Give him the king and East the queen and you would have been a genius."

ASK THE DOCTORS

A Michigan reader asks what happens when the wrong player leads and the normal declarer puts down his hand on the table while his partner who should have been dummy plays the hand.

They decided to play the hand out that way and they were correct in doing so. This doesn't happen often, but it does happen.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Is a flu epidemic expected this winter in the United States? Should we take the injections this year?

Mrs. J.R., III.

Dear Mrs. R.: Public Health officials have not issued any warnings that might indicate a particularly severe flu year.

Epidemiologists are adept at anticipating the spread of the flu. No new virus strains have been uncovered and incorporated into this year's flu vaccine.

This, of course, is heartening news, but should not cause carelessness in those who should be inoculated. The decision always must depend on your doctor's evaluation of your health status.

In general, the elderly, the infirm and those who have been chronically ill should be inoculated against influenza.

Many people will tell their doctors that they would rather not have the vaccine because when they were previously injected they developed the flu. This usually is a distortion of the truth.

A person may be allergic or highly sensitive to the ingredients in the vaccine and may therefore have some kind of temporary reaction.

Unless it is a severe one and unless the doctor decides against another injection, it is wise to have this added protection.

My friends tell me that sniffing cocaine is safer than heroin. Is this true?

Walter H., R.I.

Dear Walter:

I am going to give you an analogy and I hope you will understand it.

Dynamite and gunpowder can both be highly destructive. The misuse of either one can create such havoc that it doesn't matter much which one is used.

Cocaine and heroin can cause catastrophes to the lives of those who are entrapped in their use.

Your friends are dead wrong. Their ignorance about cocaine and heroin makes them poor teachers.

There is, in America, a new wave of "sophistication." Cocaine sniffers are increasing in numbers, despite the many warnings about the dangers of this practice.

A firm rule for young people is that they immediately separate themselves from a group of friends who tamper with their lives through the use of drugs — any drugs.

Add Listening Area

To Tape History

A new service and a new project have been announced for Maude Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, by Anne Stobbe, librarian.

The new service is a record players and listening area which has been added to the children's library. The headphones make listening possible for six children. The listening area was purchased with the proceeds from the book sale held last June.

The children's record collection of stories, songs and games is now located in the children's section.

Miss Stobbe also announced that children wishing to use the record player and check out records must be licensed by the children's librarian or staff. This includes all children through the six grade.

To earn a license, the child must demonstrate that he knows how to operate the record player and earphones and how to care for records.

Listening in the adult area will now be limited to those holding an adult library card.

Records may be checked out for one week with a fine of five cents per record per day to be charged for each overdue record.

Miss Stobbe has also announced that the library is

The library, in cooperation with the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission, is planning to collect stories, experiences and impressions of St. Joseph residents on cassette tapes.

The two-year project is part of a county-wide effort to broaden the scope of research material available on the history of the county.

Volunteers may sign up at the maid desk of the library. All ages are welcome.

Volunteers will interview community residents and their interviews will be recorded on the cassette tapes.

The library and the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission will furnish the tapes and tape recorders. The first organization and training session will be held in January.

After the tapes have been made, they will be available to the public through the library.

Sister Betty Gaiss To Speak

Sister Betty Gaiss, OP, will speak on "Person — Meaning and Mystery?" Wednesday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the social hall of Lake Michigan Catholic high school, St. Joseph.

This will be the third lecture in a series being offered to the public by the Catholic Tri-Parish Adult Enrichment Program.

Sister Gaiss will speak in general on persons of all ages and conditions, including retarded and seriously ill, and in particular on the child as a person, medical-ethical problems, legal problems and the child in the family.

She will also consider the questions: What are the ways society in the United States has promoted and revered the human person? How has society shown disrespect for and blocked the growth of the person? What are the personal and social values which are preserved in our social institutions? How well can you articulate your own personal values? To what extent are you in touch with your own personal values?

Sister Gaiss earned her master of arts degree in chemistry at Catholic University of America, and a master of arts degree in philosophy at St. Louis university, St. Louis, Mo. She has taught chemistry and physics in college and high school. BEFORE THE VOTE: U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan, left, gestures Sunday as he chats with Guerodot G. UN Buffer Force Gets New Life

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations buffer force on the Golan Heights had a new lease on life today and the Palestine Liberation Organization was promised an appearance before the Security Council as a result of an 11th-hour compromise.

By a 13-0 vote the council adopted a resolution Sunday night renewing for six months the mandate of the 1,192-man U.N. Disengagement Observer Force which for 18 months has separated Syrian and Israeli troops on the Golan Heights.

The resolution said the council would meet again Jan. 12 for a debate on "the Middle East problem including the Palestinian question."

Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union, the council president for November, then read out a compromise statement saying it was "the understanding of the majority" of the council that the PLO would be invited to participate in that debate.

The debate and PLO participation were Syria's conditions for its agreement to extension of the mandate for the U.N. force.

The mandate would have expired at midnight EST Sunday. Syria and the United States agreed to the compromise arrangements at 5:40 p.m. and the council approved the resolution at 6:50 p.m.

Israeli Ambassador Chaim Herzog called the resolution "a surrender to Syrian blackmail and Soviet dictates." He said the Israeli cabinet would meet today to discuss it.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told the council his government was not part of the council majority in favor of PLO participation in the debate in January. But he told reporters after the session that if an invitation to the Palestinians is proposed then, "we can't veto it."

An earlier draft of the resolution said the January debate would be held "taking into account all relevant General Assembly and Security Council resolutions." Moynihan opposed this because a recent assembly resolution says the PLO should be invited to all Middle East deliberations sponsored by the United Nations.

PRIESTHOOD FOR WOMEN

The'll Carry Fight Home

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Some 1,200 women ended a three-day Roman Catholic Women's Ordination Conference Sunday, many determined to pursue their fight for women priesthood on their home grounds.

As a sign of their determination, about 450 delegates signed an informal statement indicating they sought or supported the goal.

The statement, posted on a bulletin board, declared:

"We have been called to the priesthood, and we want to be ordained, not because we want to exercise power — but because we are motivated by love and concern for the church."

"Indeed, we are already functioning as ministers, but under limitations and handicaps, owing to lack of official recognition and authorization for our ministry, especially in the sacramental area."

Earlier, the convention was told by a Catholic theologian that American bishops cannot ordain women.

Father George Tavard, a Catholic theologian, pointed out that the Catholic church functions internationally.

"Therefore," he said, "in the present system, the American bishops have no authority to introduce women priests in the American church."

Such a decision, he said, almost certainly would have to be made by the Pope, in consultation with bishops and other persons, including women.

In the statement signed by 450 delegates, the women declared:

"A major focus of the love and concern that moves us is our firm conviction that we, as women, are indispensable to the full humanness and fullness of the priesthood."

"Unquestionably, new models of priesthood are needed; we believe that women in the priesthood will inevitably produce the sorely needed new models."

"We call on the People of God — and we include the hierarchy among the People of God — to engage in a dialogue on the nature of ministry and the priesthood."

One conference official said that one of the strongest themes underlying the meeting was the bond between lay and religious women.

But Father Tavard said the question of women priests is an issue which might not be welcomed in some countries.

"I'm quite sure that if there was any hint that Pope Paul VI was prepared to ordain women for Christmas, many African bishops would be quite upset, because of the social situation in which they work."

Fr. Tavard said he saw three problems in regard to ordination of women: "There is the cultural problem of what is the function of women, there is the philosophical problem of what is the priesthood, and then there is the psychological question, is the church ready for it?"

"On this point, I think at this moment the church is not ready; I don't know when it will be."

The three-day conference, which concluded Sunday, was subtitled: "Women in Future Priesthood Now: A Call for Action." It drew registrants from all across North America.

QUAKE CASUALTY: House at Punalu'u on Island of Hawaii came down when two earthquakes struck island Saturday. They touched off tidal waves and left one man dead, one missing, and property damage estimated as high as $2 million. (AP Wirephoto)

Hawaiians Tally Quake Damage

By BOB BARR
Associated Press Writer
HILO, Hawaii (AP) — The people on Hawaii's "Big Island" have learned to live with the threat of earthquakes, tidal waves and volcanic eruption.

The island of Hawaii, 200 miles southeast of Honolulu, was battered Saturday by two strong quakes — one of them the strongest in more than a century — which triggered tidal waves along the beaches and small eruption at Kilauea Volcano. One man was killed, one was missing, and property damage was estimated as high as $2 million.

Just seven hours after tidal wave warnings were lifted, the annual Christmas parade began as scheduled in Hilo, a waterfront town that has been battered by earthquakes and tidal waves time after time.

"People here know how to live with it," said Kiyoshi Shigeoka as he opened his vacuum cleaner store for business Sunday in Hilo, where a third of the island's 75,000 residents live. "You can't fight nature."

"I worry about it every day," said a woman at work in her gift shop. "But I wouldn't want to live any place else except Hilo."

While authorities totaled the damage, rangers at the Volcanoes National Park pressed their search for a camper reported missing after a section of beach collapsed below sea level. The missing man is Michael Cruz, 26, of Mountain View, Hawaii.

Dr. James A. Mitchel of Hilo was killed when water swept over the same beach.

Saturday's two earthquakes were measured at 5.5 and 7.2

on the Richter Scale — the second reading indicating a quake capable of causing major devastation. The quakes triggered tidal waves and small eruptions at Kilauea Volcano, but did not affect the other Hawaiian islands.

Both tremors were centered on the flank of Kilauea Volcano on the southeast side of the 4,000-square-mile island, the biggest in the chain.

"Fortunately, no tidal wave hit downtown," said Mitsue Shirasaki, a clerk in a drygoods store. "We've experienced two tidal waves and it's a lot of work."

George Jakahi, owner of a meat market, said, "While the quake was going, I was nervous. But as soon as it stopped I was okay."

'Seafarer' Report Is Questioned

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. William Leavitt wants to know if a secret Navy report was suppressed deliberately to boost the chances of Project Seafarer being adopted for Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The report concludes more research is needed on the potential effects of the project on human life.

A spokesman for the governor said on Sunday Milliken has had a basically negative view of the project, "and if it turns out the Navy deliberately suppressed the report, it would only reinforce that view."

The report was kept under wraps for two years, a Navy official has conceded.

Capt. James Naugle of the Navy's Office of Telecommunication in Washington said the report on the proposed U.P. project was still classified and was "an internal planning document."

But William Cooper, chairman of the Michigan Environmental Review Board (MERB), said Saturday he has seen the report and that it "spells out the need to do more research on human exposure (to Seafarer)."

Informed of the existence of the report, an Upper Peninsula organization opposing the project issued a news release demanding that Milliken ask the Navy to leave the Upper Peninsula immediately.

The news release from "People Against Sanguine-Seafarer (PASS)" charged the Defense Department with "fraud" for not revealing the existence of the document.

"I don't know how he (Cooper) got a copy of it because we in our office are awaiting action to get it cleared," said Naugle. "I don't think anybody would expect us to release all the memos we pass back and forth. People like to criticize us because we don't just open all of our safes and let everything out."

Asked why the report was kept under wraps for two years, Naugle replied, "Because it was an internal planning document, and we do a lot of internal planning in trying to come up with a program."

Seafarer is the Navy's proposal to bury thousands of miles of cable in the Upper Peninsula to keep in touch with submerged submarines. Controversy has developed, with some groups claiming Seafarer would damage the environment and some scientists saying the magnetic field could harm humans.

Democratic Mayors Attack Administration

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young joined with other leading Democratic mayors Sunday in calling for sweeping changes in the relationship between federal and local governments.

In a 64-page statement, the Democrats attacked what they called the Nixon-Ford administration's "state of undeclared war against America's cities."

The statement called for several programs similar to those which Young proposed in a meeting with the President last spring. They include massive public works projects for high-unemployment cities.

Following the Democratic caucus, Young told reporters: "The urban crisis is not restricted to New York City. There is no question that the federal government has failed to recognize the crisis."

Young said it was too early to predict which of the party's several potential presidential candidates would be nominated for next year's election.

He said the proposals reflect much of the views of Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Edward Kennedy.

"And they're not even announced candidates," he observed.

Whoever is the Democratic challenger in 1976, Young added, "the mayors are emerging as leaders in the decision-making process within the party."

Meanwhile, the nation's mayors are confident that no other city will seek the sort of federal aid which President Ford has proposed for New York.

Interviews with more than a dozen mayors at the annual convention of the National League of Cities in Miami Beach showed two reasons for the mayors' belief:

—No city, they say, would willingly surrender so much control over its finances.

—No other city's financial problems are so severe, particularly because none has borrowed for operating expenses to the extent New York has.

Musicians Voting Tuesday

DETROIT (AP) — Musicians will vote Tuesday on a tentative pact reached in the Detroit Symphony labor dispute which has forced suspension of the concert season since Sept. 30. Symphony officials said concerts could start Thursday if the pact is ratified. The proposed three-year agreement was worked out between management and bargainers for the musicians in a seven-hour session which ended early Saturday morning. It calls for musicians to receive a $400 weekly salary minimum in the 1976-77 season.

'Seafarer' Report Is Questioned

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. William Leavitt wants to know if a secret Navy report was suppressed deliberately to boost the chances of Project Seafarer being adopted for Michigan's Upper Peninsula.
"The report concludes more research is needed on the potential effects of the project on human life," a spokesman for the governor said on Sunday. Milliken has had a basically negative view of the project, "and if it turns out the Navy deliberately suppressed the report, it would only reinforce that view."
The report was kept under wraps for two years, a Navy official has conceded.

Democratic Mayors Attack Administration

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young joined with other leading Democratic mayors Sunday in calling for sweeping changes in the relationship between federal and local governments.
In a 64-page statement, the Democrats attacked what they called the Nixon-Ford administration's "state of undeclared war against America's cities."
The statement called for several programs similar to those which Young proposed in a meeting with the President last spring. They include massive public works projects for high-unemployment cities.
Following the Democratic caucus, Young told reporters:
"The urban crisis is not restricted to New York City. There

Harry Bridges Is Honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Harry Bridges was honored as a "red-blooded American patriot" during a dinner honoring the 74-year-old longshore boss whom the U.S. government once tried for 16 years to deport.
"Harry, you've come a long way, baby," said Helen Bentley, who recently stepped down as chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission.

Hawaiians Tally Quake Damage

By BOB BARR
Associated Press Writer
HILO, Hawaii (AP) — The people on Hawaii's "Big Island" have learned to live with the threat of earthquakes, tidal waves and volcanic eruption.
The island of Hawaii, 200 miles southeast of Honolulu, was battered Saturday by two strong quakes — one of them the strongest in more than a century — which triggered tidal waves along the beaches and small eruption at Kilauea Volcano. One man was killed, one was missing, and property damage was estimated as high as $2 million.
Just seven hours after tidal wave warnings were lifted, the annual Christmas parade began as scheduled in Hilo, a waterfront town that has been battered by earthquakes and tidal waves time after time.
"People here know how to live with it," said Kiyoshi Shigeoka as he opened his vacuum cleaner store for business Sunday in Hilo, where a third of the island's 75,000 residents live. "You can't fight nature."
"I worry about it every day," said a woman at work in her gift shop. "But I wouldn't want to live any place else except Hilo."
While authorities totaled the damage, rangers at the Volcanoes National Park pressed their search for a camper reported missing after a section of beach collapsed below sea level. The missing man is Michael Cruz, 28, of Mountain View, Hawaii.
Dr. James A. Mitchel of Hilo was killed when water swept over the same beach.
Saturday's two earthquakes were measured at 5.5 and 7.2

on the Richter Scale — the second reading indicating a quake capable of causing major devastation. The quakes triggered tidal waves and small eruptions at Kilauea Volcano, but did not affect the other Hawaiian islands.
Both tremors were centered on the flank of Kilauea Volcano on the southeast side of the 4,000-square-mile island, the biggest in the chain.
"Fortunately, no tidal wave hit downtown," said Mitsue Shirasaki, a clerk in a drygoods store. "We've experienced two tidal waves and it's a lot of work."
George Jakahi, owner of a meat market, said, "While the quake was going, I was nervous. But as soon as it stopped I was okay."

Congress Gets 3 Weeks For 'Work' Or 'Play' Title

By EDMOND LE BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress returns today from its Thanksgiving recess, the lawmakers will begin an intense three weeks which could influence the final verdict on this session of Congress before the election year begins.

The final rush before adjournment, tentatively set for Dec. 19, may help decide whether this session of the heavily Democratic 94th prospects in the Senate were less certain, with a filibuster promised.

In the first five working days this month, House Democratic leaders also have scheduled work on such legislation as tax cuts and revisions and the energy bill that has been in the works for most of this year.

Hardly anyone expects all this to be done in five days. But the scheduling illustrates the leaders' intention to leave as little as possible for the second session to have to sign it ... He doesn't tell the people he proposed nothing but to raise the price."

A separate bill, now in House-Senate conference, would authorize $5.8 billion for research and development in all forms of energy.

In the battle over government spending, Congress has rejected most of Ford's recommendations for recession — cancelling or reducing of appropriations already voted. It has ignored his call for a spending ceiling to be set in advance to reduce outlays by $28 billion in the next fiscal year to offset $28 billion in tax cuts taking effect earlier.

Democrats have argued the contemplated timing was political — tax cuts before the 1976 election, but with reductions in popular government programs to be felt only after the voting.

More broadly, they have accused Ford of a one-sided approach to the frustrating national dilemma of simultaneous inflation and recession. The Democrats say Ford has concentrated on reducing government spending to fight inflation, while proposing little in the direction of stimulating the economy to provide jobs for the unemployed.

The Democrats took the other course, and Ford retaliated, using the veto power more freely than other presidents of recent years.

Congress passed a $5.3 billion bill intended to create jobs. After it was vetoed, a $2.9 billion package was enacted.

A big housing bill was vetoed. Congress responded with one authorizing mortgage subsidies and protection against foreclosure for unemployed homeowners.

Congress overrode three of Ford's 12 vetoes this year, enacting health revenue sharing, education appropriations and school lunch measures he had opposed as too expensive.

Congress also rejected his proposal to limit increases in Social Security, civil service and military retirement payments, allowing a full cost-of-living raise to go into effect.

A bill still in Senate-House conference that may bring on another confrontation would authorize $5 billion for local public works.

The list of measures enacted includes amendments to the Securities Act intended to improve stock exchange operations and $347 million in emergency aid for some northeastern and midwestern railroads.

In addition, the House Banking Committee passed a resolution nudging the Federal Reserve Board to maintain an increase in the money supply. McFall and others contend the resolution has influenced the board, which traditionally guards its autonomy, and that Congress does not intend to let the influence lapse.

The executive and legislative branches agreed on an emergency unemployment bill extending federal payments for the long-term jobless and special benefits to workers not previously covered.

In foreign affairs, the administration's desire to ease the embargo on arms to Turkey was long frustrated, mainly by the determination of members sympathetic to the Greek side in the Cyprus controversy, but a compromise measure finally was passed.

Congress also approved the U.S. proposal for an early warning system in the Sinai where Israeli and Arab forces watch each other. The U.S. technicians' role was sought by Secretary of State Henry A.

Kissinger as the key provision of an agreement to avert fighting and foster hopes for a more lasting peace.

The foreign military aid bill, including funds for the Sinai program, is expected to be on the House floor in early December, along with a Senate-House compromise measure on economic foreign aid.

While accusing Ford of playing politics with the proposal for a tradeoff of a $28 billion tax cut in January against a similar spending reduction next fall, Democratic leaders contend their majority has shown fiscal responsibility by putting into effect earlier than the law required the mandatory part of the budget control bill enacted in 1974.

Each chamber has adopted its own version of a resolution that will limit appropriation actions. For the present fiscal year ending next June 30, the House version calls for a spending limit of $373.9 billion and a deficit of $72.1 billion; the Senate version calls for a $375 billion lid and a $74.8 billion deficit.

A conference is scheduled for next week to develop a compromise version that appears assured of passage. The Democrats say the deficit it will forecast, while higher than the target Ford originally set, is not far off from later administration estimates that took into account increases in uncontrollable spending.

On the tax front, the House Ways and Means Committee sent to the House a two-part revenue bill. It would extend and modify the short-term reductions in effect this year in individual and corporate income taxes. In what the committee has termed the reform area, the bill fell short of reformers' expectations.

It would, however, cut back somewhat on so-called artificial losses used as tax shelters and stiffen the minimum tax assessed on large incomes enjoying preferential tax treatment under the present code.

Several amendments to cut back further on alleged tax preferences will be offered when the House takes up the measure on the floor.

There is no prospect that the whole bill can be finally acted on by both the Senate and House before adjournment. At some stage, the tax cuts probably will be split off and passed as separate legislation.

The alternative would be a jump in tax withholding in January, a development that could impede economic recovery.

Lawmakers Facing Formidable Pile Of Unfinished Business

Congress was do-nothing, as the Republican President has been saying, or whether the session has been busy and productive, as the Democrats have been contending.

The lawmakers face a formidable pile of unfinished business.

One of the first items on the agenda is President Ford's proposal to grant short-term federal loans to New York City of up to $2.3 billion a year for each of the next three years.

After Ford announced his plan last week, Senate and House leaders said it was possible that Congress would act speedily to approve the plan before Dec. 11, when New York City faces a threat of default. The House was expected to give quick approval to the plan; session that begins in January and continues into campaign time.

Ford has accused Congress of showing itself unable to agree on a policy to guide the country through the energy crisis and of ignoring, when it did not actually block, his proposals for spending cuts to curbing inflation.

A House Democratic leadership "issue paper" contends that "Congress refused to knuckle under to the President's demands for higher fuel prices as a simplistic solution to the nation's energy problems."

Whatever else it may have been, the production of the energy bill now awaiting final congressional action was not simplistic. It was fought over, provision by provision, during long sessions in committee and on the floor.

Rep. Timothy E. Wirth, D-Colo., one of the more vocal of the first-term Democrats, says there are "good things in the bill" and that it helps establish that "this has been a productive Congress."

The bill would mandate a price rollback and then gradually decontrol petroleum prices. It has provisions intended to encourage energy efficiency in automobiles and other devices, stimulate coal production and use, and provide standby authority for gasoline rationing.

Ford has not said whether he would sign the bill.

House Democratic Whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., however, said in an interview, "It looks like the President is almost go-

Rail Cuts Endanger Cadillac

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — The manager of the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce says at least five businesses in this northern Lower Peninsula city have threatened to pull out if rail service to the town is shut down.

He didn't name the businesses, but Robert Jones said that discontinuation of rail service would drastically affect the economy of Cadillac and would result in the loss of hundreds — perhaps thousands — of jobs.

Jones said a number of prospective employers already have postponed establishing businesses in Cadillac because of the uncertainty of the railroad situation.

Bankrupt railroads have threatened to abandon 1,100 miles of track across the northern Lower Peninsula.

Five Hurt, Four Arrested In Alleged Fight At Party

Five women sustained injuries early Sunday allegedly inflicted during a fight at a house party in Benton Harbor, city police reported. Four of the five were arrested.

Treated at Mercy hospital for assorted lacerations were Jeanette Love, 17, of 307 Catalpa avenue; Zanette Moss, 22, of 630 Pearl street; Paulette Nesbitt, 22, and Nikki Harris, 21, both of 634 Pearl, all of Benton Harbor. Millar Long, 20, of 409 Urban-dale avenue, Benton township, was hospitalized with a stab wound in the stomach. She was later released to police custody.

Police said the incident at 307 Catalpa was reported at 2:07 a.m. The fight began after two women allegedly came to the party uninvited, police reported. Jeanette Love, Zanette

Moss, Paulette Nesbitt and Millar Long were booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. No charges were filed against Nikki Harris.

Avender Louder, 51, a Twin City Cab Co. driver, told Benton Harbor police Saturday he was robbed of $50 by a passenger who pulled a sawed-off shotgun from his coat and said: "You know the rules. Stop and give me all your money."

The robbery occurred in the 600 block of Washington street. Louder said he picked up the gunman and a male companion on Territorial road, then was ordered to get out of the cab after handing over $45 of cab company money and his wallet containing $5.

Louder said he ran to report the robbery. When police arrived, the cab was parked with the motor running and the bandits were gone.

Marie Nicholas, 52, of Fairplain, told Benton Harbor police Saturday she was knocked down by two men who stole her purse containing $186 on Catalpa, between Columbus avenue and Pearl street. Mrs. Nicholas said she had parked her car and was walking to St. John's church when attacked shortly before 5:45 p.m.

A Benton Harbor woman told city police personal property valued at $1,070 was stolen by three men who forced their way into her home, 424 Riford street about 10 p.m. Saturday.

Reported unhurt during the intrusion was Eppie McFadden, 26. She told police no weapons were used. Loot was listed as a portable television set, tape player, two men's leather coats and four men's suits.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested a Fairplain man Saturday on charges of attempted breaking and entering and vandalism at a Benton township restaurant. Booked at the Berrien county jail was Donald Ray George, 22, of 777 East Napier avenue.

An employee at Blossomland restaurant, 2295 M-139, told troopers a man came to the front door after the restaurant was closed shortly before 8 p.m. Francis DeVincent said when refused admittance, the man began kicking at the glass door, breaking a portion of it.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested seven people on various charges after stopping three vehicles in separate incidents Saturday and early Sunday.

Four Muskegon men were arrested at 3:55 p.m. Saturday after troopers stopped an auto on East Main street near Crystal avenue, Benton township.

The driver, Thomas Smith, 31, was booked on charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana), and transporting open intoxicants (whiskey). A passenger, Alvin Wyrick, 27, was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon when a loaded pistol was found. Other passengers, Willie J. Piggee, 50, and Thomas Wyrick, 24, were booked on charges of drunk and disorderly and possessing open intoxicants in an auto.

Booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon at 10:15 p.m. Saturday were Lee E. Williams, 38, of Box 113 Townline road, Benton township, and Emma Jean Parr, 20, Berrien Center. Troopers said a knife and pistol were confiscated after a car was stopped on M-140, Pipestone township.

On the same street, stereo equipment, power tools, watch and a radio were reported stolen from the home of Eugene Beale, at 6265 Lincoln.

John Brooks, route 1, box 480H, Blue Creek road, Benton township, told Benton Harbor police his 1970 Oldsmobile was stolen from a lot at the corner of Territorial road and Fair avenue. He said the black and brown car was locked.

Benton Harbor police also said property valued at $80 was reported stolen from the apartment of Maryann Richardson, 365 Territorial road.

St. Joseph police Sunday investigated two reports of slashed auto tires. Ruth Patzer, 1320 State street, told police two rear tires on her 1970 Pontiac had been punctured. Diane Watts, 918 Kingsley avenue, reported a front and rear tire on her 1974 Fiat were slashed.

Congress Gets 3 Weeks For 'Work' Or 'Play' Title

By EDMOND L. BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress returns today from its Thanksgiving recess, the lawmakers will begin an intense three weeks which could influence the final verdict on this session of Congress before the election year begins.

The final rush before adjournment, tentatively set for Dec. 19, may help decide whether this session of the heavily Democratic 94th prospects in the Senate were less certain, with a filibuster promised.

In the first five working days this month, House Democratic leaders also have scheduled work on such legislation as tax cuts and revisions and the energy bill that has been in the works for most of this year.

Hardly anyone expects all this to be done in five days. But the scheduling illustrates the leaders' intention to leave as little as possible for the second ing to have to sign it ... He doesn't tell the people he proposed nothing but to raise the price.

A separate bill, now in House-Senate conference, would authorize $5.8 billion for research and development in all forms of energy.

In the battle over government spending, Congress has rejected most of Ford's recommendations for recession — cancelling or reducing of appropriations already voted. It has ignored his call for a spending ceiling to be set in advance to reduce outlays by $28 billion in the next fiscal year to offset $28 billion in tax cuts taking effect earlier.

Democrats have argued the contemplated timing was political — tax cuts before the 1976 election, but with reductions in popular government programs to be felt only after the voting.

More broadly, they have accused Ford of a one-sided approach to the frustrating national dilemma of simultaneous inflation and recession. The Democrats say Ford has concentrated on reducing government spending to fight inflation, while proposing little in the direction of stimulating the economy to provide jobs for the unemployed.

The Democrats took the other course, and Ford retaliated, using the veto power more freely than other presidents of recent years.

Congress passed a $5.3 billion bill intended to create jobs. After it was vetoed, a $2.9 billion package was enacted.

A big housing bill was vetoed. Congress responded with one authorizing mortgage subsidies and protection against foreclosure for unemployed homeowners.

Congress overrode three of Ford's 12 vetoes this year, enacting health revenue sharing, education appropriations and school lunch measures he had opposed as too expensive.

Congress also rejected his proposal to limit increases in Social Security, civil service and military retirement payments, allowing a full cost-of-living raise to go into effect.

A bill still in Senate-House conference that may bring on another confrontation would authorize $5 billion for local public works.

The list of measures enacted includes amendments to the Securities Act intended to improve stock exchange operations and $347 million in emergency aid for some northeastern and midwestern railroads.

In addition, the House Banking Committee passed a resolution nudging the Federal Reserve Board to maintain an increase in the money supply. McFall and others contend the resolution has influenced the board, which traditionally guards its autonomy, and that Congress does not intend to let the influence lapse.

The executive and legislative branches agreed on an emergency unemployment bill extending federal payments for the long-term, jobless and special benefits to workers not previously covered.

In foreign affairs, the administration's desire to ease the embargo on arms to Turkey was long frustrated, mainly by the determination of members sympathetic to the Greek side in the Cyprus controversy, but a compromise measure finally was passed.

Congress also approved the U.S. proposal for an early warning system in the Sinai where Israeli and Arab forces watch each other. The U.S. technicians' role was sought by Secretary of State Henry A.

Lawmakers Facing Formidable Pile Of Unfinished Business

Congress was do-nothing, as the Republican President has been saying, or whether the session has been busy and productive, as the Democrats have been contending.

The lawmakers face a formidable pile of unfinished business.

One of the first items on the agenda is President Ford's proposal to grant short-term federal loans to New York City of up to $2.3 billion a year for each of the next three years.

After Ford announced his plan last week, Senate and House leaders said it was possible that Congress would act quickly to approve the plan before Dec. 11, when New York City faces a threat of default. The House was expected to give quick approval to the plan, session that begins in January and continues into campaign time.

Ford has accused Congress of showing itself unable to agree on a policy to guide the country through the energy crisis and of ignoring, when it did not actually block, his proposals for spending cuts to curb inflation.

A House Democratic leadership "issue paper" contends that "Congress refused to knuckle under to the President's demands for higher fuel prices as a simplistic solution to the nation's energy problems."

Whatever else it may have been, the production of the energy bill now awaiting final congressional action was not simplistic. It was fought over, provision by provision, during long sessions in committee and on the floor.

Rep. Timothy E. Wirth, D-Colo., one of the more vocal of the first-term Democrats, says there are "good things in the bill" and that it helps establish that "this has been a productive Congress."

The bill would mandate a price rollback and then gradually decontrol petroleum prices. It has provisions intended to encourage energy efficiency in automobiles and other devices, stimulate coal production and use, and provide standby authority for gasoline rationing.

Ford has not said whether he would sign the bill.

House Democratic Whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., however, said in an interview, "It looks like the President is almost go-

Rail Cuts Endanger Cadillac

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — The manager of the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce says at least five businesses in this northern Lower Peninsula city have threatened to pull out if rail service to the town is shut down.

He didn't name the businesses, but Robert Jones said that discontinuation of rail service would drastically affect the economy of Cadillac and would result in the loss of hundreds — perhaps thousands — of jobs.

Jones said a number of prospective employers already have postponed establishing businesses in Cadillac because of the uncertainty of the railroad situation.

Bankrupt railroads have threatened to abandon 1,100 miles of track across the northern Lower Peninsula.

AMA Is Meeting
HONOLULU (AP) — Malpractice insurance and national health insurance are two of the major topics today at the opening of the American Medical Association's annual clinical convention. Delegates were also told there is an increase in attacks on individual physicians.

Reagan Nixes Third Party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he has differences with President Ford but would support Ford's campaign if the President defeats him for the Republican nomination in 1976.

Reagan also flatly ruled out the possibility that he would launch a third party campaign for the presidency.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday, the former California governor repeated his pledge not to criticize Ford or do anything to divide the Republican party. But after the 30-minute telecast, he listed differences with Ford during an impromptu news conference.

"I differ with him over the negotiations to give away the Panama Canal. I differ ... on loosening the trade restraints with Cuba. I think there's a strange inconsistency in the secretary of state ... I do not believe enough is being done to fight inflation," he said.

During the television program, Reagan said: "If President Ford wins, I will support him."

But he refused to give a similar pledge of support to Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller or any other potential GOP nominee.

"That's a hypothetical question," Reagan told the panel of questioners.

RONALD REAGAN

Sen. Griffin's Crime Probe Resolution Lacks Support

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., apparently has run up against a political brick wall in his efforts to get the Senate to investigate organized crime infiltration of business and labor.

Griffin, in a visit to Detroit last week, said so far only five of his fellow senators have offered to co-sponsor a resolution under which a special committee would look into affairs of the Teamsters Union and the disappearance of former President James R. Hoffa.

The day after Griffin introduced his resolution, he noted, he and every other senator received a telegram from Frank Fitzsimmons, a former close friend of Hoffa and now Teamsters president.

The telegram urged defeat of the resolution, contending that vigilant enforcement of existing labor-reform laws, plus the Federal Criminal Code "has demonstrated very little need for their enactment in the first place, insofar as the labor movement generally and our organization specifically, are concerned."

Griffin scoffed at the Fitzsimmons statement, characterizing it as a lot of self-serving baloney.

In addition to the unsolved Hoffa case, the Senate should look into allegations of questionable loans, mob infiltration and frauds connected with the $1.5 billion Teamster pension fund, Griffin believes.

Some political observers view the situation as one of "politics as usual." Since 1976 is an election year, they point out, few politicians are willing to risk antagonizing a national union with some two million members.

Coffee, Butter Nudge Food Tab Up

By JUDITH RUSKIN
Associated Press Writer

Continuing increases in the cost of coffee and butter boosted the average price of groceries in November for the seventh consecutive month, according to the Michigan AP Marketbasket survey.

But the total cost of the 15 marketbasket items rose slightly less than one-half of 1 per cent, from $14.55 in October to $14.62 in November, compared with a 2 per cent increase in October.

The marketbasket has risen steadily since May when it totaled $13.66. The record high in the 14-month survey was a year ago, when the marketbasket cost an average of $15.06.

Five of the nine marketbasket cities showed a decrease in the marketbasket price, but the drop was not large enough to offset the increases in the other cities.

Record prices were set for coffee and butter for the third straight month. The average price of a pound of coffee was $1.49, up three cents from the previous high, set in October. A pound of quartered butter cost an average $1.16, up four cents from October's record price.

In all, six items increased, four decreased and five were unchanged.

The price of laundry detergent also continued to climb, with a 49-ounce box costing a record $1.24. The previous record was $1.23, also set in October.

The average price of a dozen medium eggs was up six cents from October to 77 cents last month. The cost of five pounds of sugar was up seven cents to $1.35.

A quart of milk cost one cent more this last month at 48 cents, while a bag of chocolate-chip cookies was down one cent at 96 cents.

The price of pork chops fell for the second straight month to $2.05 a pound, down from $2.12 in October. A pound of all beef franks was down six cents from the record $1.36 set in October. The cost of a pound of chopped chicken remained unchanged at $1.06.

Two rolls of paper towels cost 74 cents last month, down one cent from October. The price of a can of frozen orange juice remained the same at 28 cents, as did a jar of peanut butter at 68 cents and a can of tomato sauce at 20 cents.

Flint posted the biggest increase, a 33-cent climb hiked by hamburger and coffee price increases that brought the monthly total to $14.66. St. Joseph showed a hike of 31 cents for a November total $14.69, with eggs, butter and detergent leading the increase.

The Detroit marketbasket was $14.69, an increase of 24 cents, while Lansing reported a jump of 17 cents, bringing its total to $14.90.

Mount Clemens dropped 23 cents last month to $13.70, with pork chops and coffee showing the largest decreases. Grand Rapids posted a 21-cent decline, with decreases in hamburger, pork chop and sugar prices bringing the monthly total to $14.70.

Gaylord registered an 18 cent drop to $14.93. Pontiac was down 16 cents to $14.53 and Marquette dropped 11 cents to $14.24.

Here are the statewide averages for the 15 grocery items which comprise the AP Marketbasket for October and November:

1. One pound chopped chuck: Oct. $1.06, Nov. unchanged.
2. One pound center-cut pork chops: $2.12, $2.05.
3. Six-ounce frozen orange juice: 28 cents, unchanged.
4. One pound coffee: $1.46; $1.49.
5. Two rolls paper towels: 75

6. Dozen medium eggs: 71 cents, 77 cents.

7. One pound butter, quartered: $1.12, $1.16.

9. Fabric softener, size varies: 86 cents, unchanged.

10. 12-ounce peanut butter: 68 cents, unchanged.

11. Eight-ounce tomato sauce: 20 cents, unchanged.

12. 14½-ounce chocolate chip cookies: 97 cents, 96 cents.

13. One quart milk: 47 cents, 48 cents.

14. One pound all-beef franks: $1.36, $1.30.

15. Five pounds sugar: $1.28, $1.35.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Five Hurt, Four Arrested
In Alleged Fight At Party

Five women sustained injuries early Sunday allegedly inflicted during a fight at a house party in Benton Harbor, city police reported. Four of the five were arrested.

Treated at Mercy hospital for assorted lacerations were Jeanette Love, 17, of 307 Catalpa avenue; Zanelle Moss, 22, of 630 Pearl street; Paulette Nesbitt, 22, and Nikki Harris, 21, both of 634 Pearl, all of Benton Harbor. Millar Long, 20, of 409 Urbana avenue, Benton township, was hospitalized with a stab wound in the stomach. She was later released to police custody.

Police said the incident at 307 Catalpa was reported at 2:07 a.m. The fight began after two women allegedly came to the party uninvited; police reported. Jeanette Love, Zanelle Moss, Paulette Nesbitt and Millar Long were booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. No charges were filed against Nikki Harris.

Avender Louder, 51, a Twin City Cab Co. driver, told Benton Harbor police Saturday he was robbed of $50 by a passenger who pulled a sawed-off shotgun from his coat and said: "You know the rules. Stop and give me all your money."

The robbery occurred in the 600 block of Washington street. Louder said he picked up the gunman and a male companion on Territorial road, then was ordered to get out of the cab after handing over $45 of cab company money and his wallet containing $5.

Louder said he ran to report the robbery. When police arrived, the cab was parked with the motor running and the bandits were gone.

Marie Nicholas, 52, of Fairplain, told Benton Harbor police Saturday she was knocked down by two men who stole her purse containing $188 on Catalpa, between Columbus avenue and Pearl street. Mrs. Nicholas said she had parked her car and was walking to St. John's church when attacked shortly before 9:45 p.m.

A Benton Harbor woman told city police personal property valued at $1,070 was stolen by three men who forced their way into her home, 424 Riford street about 10 p.m. Saturday.

Reported unharmed during the intrusion was Eppie McFadden, 26. She told police no weapons were used. Loot was listed as a portable television set, tape player, two men's leather coats and four men's suits.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested a Fairplain man Saturday on charges of attempted breaking and entering and vandalism at a Benton township restaurant. Booked at the Berrien county jail was Donald Ray George, 22, of 777 East Napier avenue.

An employee at Blossomland restaurant, 2295 M-139, told troopers a man came to the front door after the restaurant was closed shortly before 8 p.m. Francis DeVincence said when refused admittance, the man began kicking at the glass door, breaking a portion of it.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested seven people on various charges after stopping three vehicles in separate incidents Saturday and early Sunday.

Four Muskegon men were arrested at 3:55 p.m. Saturday after troopers stopped an auto on East Main street near Crystal avenue, Benton township.

The driver, Thomas Smith, 31, was booked on charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana), and transporting open intoxicants (whiskey). A passenger, Alvin Wyrick, 27, was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon when a loaded pistol was found. Other passengers, Willie J. Piggee, 50, and Thomas Wyrick, 24, were booked on charges of drunk and disorderly and possessing open intoxicants in an auto.

Booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon at 10:15 p.m. Saturday were Lee E. Williams, 38, of Box 113 Townline road, Benton township, and Emma Jean Parr, 20, Berrien Center. Troopers said a knife and pistol were confiscated after a car was stopped on M-140, Pipestone township.

Troopers booked Columbus E. McKinley, 31, Chicago, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon after stopping a station wagon on I-94, Lincoln township, about 5:30 a.m. Sunday. Confiscated was a loaded pistol. McKinley also was booked for possessing open intoxicants.

Thefts reported to Berrien sheriff's officers were:

—Property valued at $1,014 and including a rifle, two shotguns, movie camera and projector from the home of Peter Falcone, Box 339 Bundy road, Lake Michigan Beach, Hagar township.

—A coin collection, other cash totaling $180, a watch and radio, valued at more than $700, from the home of George O'Brien at 6258 Lincoln street, Coloma township. On the same street, stereo equipment, power tools, watch and a radio were reported stolen from the home of Eugene Beale, at 6255 Lincoln.

John Brooks, route 1, box 480H, Blue Creek road, Benton township, told Benton Harbor police his 1970 Oldsmobile was stolen from a lot at the corner of Territorial road and Fair avenue. He said the black and brown car was locked.

Benton Harbor police also said property valued at $90 was reported stolen from the apartment of Maryann Richardson, 365 Territorial road.

St. Joseph police Sunday investigated two reports of slashed auto tires. Ruth Palzer, 1320 State street, told police two rear tires on her 1971 Pontiac had been punctured. Diane Watts, 918 Kingsley avenue, reported a front and rear tire on her 1974 Fiat were slashed.

Reagan Nixes Third Party

RONALD REAGAN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he has differences with President Ford but would support Ford's campaign if the President defeats him for the Republican nomination in 1976.

Reagan also flatly ruled out the possibility that he would launch a third party campaign for the presidency.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday, the former California governor repeated his pledge not to criticize Ford or do anything to divide the Republican party. But after the 30-minute telecast, he listed differences with Ford during an impromptu news conference.

"I differ with him over the negotiations to give away the Panama Canal. I differ ... on loosening the trade restraints with Cuba. I think there's a strange inconsistency in the secretary of state ... I do not believe enough is being done to fight inflation," he said.

During the television program, Reagan said: "If President Ford wins, I will support him."

But he refused to give a similar pledge of support to Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller or any other potential GOP nominee.

"That's a hypothetical question," Reagan told the panel of questioners.

Michigan Marketbasket

Coffee, Butter Nudge Food Tab Up

By JUDITH RUSKIN
Associated Press Writer

Continuing increases in the cost of coffee and butter boosted the average price of groceries in November for the seventh consecutive month, according to the Michigan AP Marketbasket survey.

But the total cost of the 15 marketbasket items rose slightly less than one-half of 1 per cent, from $14.55 in October to $14.62 in November, compared with a 2 per cent increase in October.

The marketbasket has risen steadily since May when it totaled $13.66. The record high in the 14-month survey was a year ago, when the marketbasket cost an average of $15.06.

Five of the nine marketbasket cities showed a decrease in the marketbasket price, but the drop was not large enough to offset the increases in the other cities.

Record prices were set for coffee and butter for the third straight month. The average price of a pound of coffee was $1.49, up three cents from the previous high, set in October. A pound of quartered butter cost an average $1.16, up four cents from October's record price.

In all, six items increased, four decreased and five were unchanged.

The price of laundry detergent also continued to climb, with a 48-ounce box costing a record $1.24. The previous record was $1.23, also set in October.

The average price of a dozen medium eggs was up six cents from October to 77 cents last month. The cost of five pounds of sugar was up seven cents to $1.35.

A quart of milk cost one cent more this last month at 48 cents, while a bag of chocolate-chip cookies was down one cent at 96 cents.

The price of pork chops fell for the second straight month to $2.05 a pound, down from $2.12 in October. A pound of all beef franks was down six cents from the record $1.36 set in October. The cost of a pound of chopped chuck remained unchanged at $1.06.

Two rolls of paper towels cost 74 cents last month, down one cent from October. The price of a can of frozen orange juice remained the same at 28 cents, as did a jar of peanut butter at 68 cents and a can of tomato sauce at 20 cents.

Flint posted the biggest increase, a 33-cent climb hiked by hamburger and coffee price increases that brought the monthly total to $14.68. St. Joseph showed a hike of 31 cents for a November total $14.63, with eggs, butter and detergent leading the increase.

The Detroit marketbasket was $14.69, an increase of 24 cents, while Lansing reported a jump of 17 cents, bringing its total to $14.90.

Mount Clemens dropped 23 cents last month to $13.70, with pork chops and coffee showing the largest decreases. Grand Rapids posted a 21-cent decline, with decreases in hamburger, pork chop and sugar prices bringing the monthly total to $13.70.

Gaylord registered an 18 cent drop to $14.93. Pontiac was down 16 cents to $14.53 and Marquette dropped 11 cents to $14.24.

Here are the statewide averages for the 15 grocery items which comprise the AP Marketbasket for October and November:

1. One pound chopped chuck: Oct. $1.06, Nov. unchanged.
2. One pound center-cut pork chops: $2.12, $2.05.
3. Six-ounce frozen orange juice: 28 cents, unchanged.
4. One pound coffee: $1.46, $1.49.
5. Two rolls paper towels: 75 cents, 74 cents.
6. Dozen medium eggs: 71 cents, 77 cents.
7. One pound butter, quartered: $1.12, $1.16.
8. 48-ounce laundry detergent: $1.23, $1.24.
9. Fabric softener, size varies: 86 cents, unchanged.
10. 12-ounce peanut butter: 68 cents, unchanged.
11. Eight-ounce tomato sauce: 20 cents, unchanged.
12. 14 1/2-ounce chocolate chip cookies: 97 cents, 96 cents.
13. One quart milk: 47 cents, 48 cents.
14. One pound all-beef franks: $1.36, $1.30.
15. Five pounds sugar: $1.28, $1.35.

Sen. Griffin's Crime Probe Resolution Lacks Support

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., apparently has run up against a political brick wall in his efforts to get the Senate to investigate organized crime infiltration of business and labor.

Griffin, in a visit to Detroit last week, said so far only five of his fellow senators have offered to co-sponsor a resolution under which a special committee would look into affairs of the Teamsters Union and the disappearance of former President James R. Hoffa.

The day after Griffin introduced his resolution, he noted, he and every other senator received a telegram from Frank Fitzsimmons, a former close friend of Hoffa and now Teamsters president.

The telegram urged defeat of the resolution, contending that vigilant enforcement of existing labor-reform laws, plus the Federal Criminal Code "has demonstrated very little need for their enactment in the first place, insofar as the labor movement generally and our organization specifically, are concerned."

Griffin scoffed at the Fitzsimmons statement, characterizing it as a lot of self-serving baloney.

In addition to the unsolved Hoffa case, the Senate should look into allegations of questionable loans, mob infiltration and frauds connected with the $1.5 billion Teamster pension fund, Griffin believes.

Some political observers view the situation as one of "politics as usual." Since 1976 is an election year, they point out, few politicians are willing to risk antagonizing a national union with some two million members.

The Instant It Happened

AND YET AGAIN

Boris Yaro, a reporter-photographer on the suburban section of the Los Angeles Times, has had too many tacos this day, June 4, 1968. So he leaves work early and, cuddled up to the TV with his Pepto-Bismol, he watches the Kennedy primary returns.

Robert Kennedy is clearly ahead and Boris is certain he will take it all — the primary, the nomination in Chicago, the White House. Recovered from his upset, the reporter-photographer picks up his camera and heads for the Ambassador, strictly on his own. No strobe unit. He will use only available light for something different, perhaps dramatic, to hang on his wall. He happens to like Bobby Kennedy.

A few minutes after midnight, the candidate delivers his victory statement in the Embassy Room of the hotel.

12:16 a.m. To avoid the crowd, the candidate moves toward the kitchen, where, among others in the crush, Boris Yaro waits. Also a dark little man named Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, a Jordanian Arab, who does not like the candidate's support of Israel.

Suddenly, people are pulling back and only 3 or 4 feet away Yaro sees Sirhan fire at

Robert Kennedy again and again and he watches in numbed horror and he begins to react only when someone yells, "Get him!" Two men grab Sirhan and shove him face down on a metal counter and the gun slips from his hand and Yaro grabs it and someone else takes it from him.

He first thinks about mechanical things. "The fire from the gun is orange. The color of the walls is . . ."

Then, the full thought erupts: "My God! My God! This is happening again — to another Kennedy!"

Robert Kennedy sinks to the floor and Boris Yaro begins shooting pictures and a lady next to him, in the hysteria of the instant, pulls him arm, shouting, "Don't take pictures. I'm a photographer and I'm not taking pictures." Boris Yaro yells, "Let go, lady. Goddammit, this is history!" and he shakes her loose and takes more pictures, six in all, and it is not until an hour and a half later, back in the office, all pictures processed, all information given to his news desk, that he goes alone into a tiny darkroom and, like many of his countrymen this night of revived shock and shame, he weeps.

Bottled Water Rapped By Expert

By JAMES R. HOOD
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — That little jug of water you buy at the corner store because it's "more healthful" than tap water could be doing more harm than good, a water quality expert says.

"It's unfortunate. People think they're doing themselves good and they may be doing themselves harm," said Dr. John Christman, director of research at Loyola University.

Christman, who has been studying water quality control for the Environmental Protection Agency, said forthcoming federal regulations may impose the same health standards on both bottled water and municipal water supplies.

"That's a fortunate thing and I hope it happens right away," he said. "Bottled water at this moment is real Russian roulette. You have no idea what's in it, you don't even know if it meets community standards — it may be worse."

The EPA is drawing up new standards for city water, and possibly bottled water, under the Water Quality Act of 1974. The standards are expected to be unveiled about Dec. 15.

The tightened regulations follow the discovery last year that many major cities' water supplies were contaminated by organic chemicals and metals capable of causing cancer in animals.

Those disclosures proved to be a boon for the bottled water industry, as cautious homeowners decided to play it safe and spend a few extra dollars for supposedly pure bottled water.

It may not have been a very good trade-off, Christman said. There are currently no federal regulations governing bottled water which is not sold in interstate commerce.

"Anybody could go out, buy a bunch of bottles and sell tap water," he said. As long as the water doesn't cross state lines, it is of no interest to federal agencies.

Nor is there any requirement that such water be dated.

"You could go to the store and buy a bottle of water that's been

because warm temperatures speed up the growth of bacteria.

After 16 months of study, Christman has concluded that home water purification systems, despite their expense and bother, may be the only feasible way of insuring that water is fit to drink.

UAW Hints It May Drop Pro-Busing Stand

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers Vice President Douglas Fraser, saying busing "is a losing issue politically," has hinted the union's political arm may be ready to abandon its stand favoring school busing for integration.

"You can argue its merits endlessly, but more and more of our people, including blacks, are beginning to question whether busing leads to quality education," Fraser said Sunday in an interview. "The two most important social issues revolving around busing are an integrated society and quality education."

Fraser said busing appears to have had the effect of "resegregation" by promoting white flight from central cities to suburbs. The UAW's Community Action Program (CAP), which Fraser directs, supports busing. But Fraser said the union's political leadership is "reassessing" the position because of internal debate over what he called "a major political problem." CAP is an influential power in Michigan and national politics. "While I'm not certain all of the evidence is in," said Fraser, "I think most Americans perceive that it (busing) isn't working."

Colonial Doctors: A Rugged Lot

To have been a physic im eighteenth century must have been a very frustrating experience. He was a man sworn to heal, to minister, to make well. Yet virtually his only remedy was a kind word. His scant and errant 18th-century knowledge of medicine fell far short of the critical need.

The 18th century is aptly styled the romantic period of American medicine, marked by imagination rather than reason. In a world where one's own mortality was painfully apparent, most people lived closer to death than to a doctor. For some it was a good thing, too. The underschooled and ill-equipped men who called themselves "physician" practiced a rugged brand of medicine.

The best of the colonial doctors knew how to set a broken limb and how to remove a bullet. Their doctor's bag contained a home-made bandages, few drugs, syringes, hot-water bottles of pewter and crockery, knives, saws and a mortar and pestle for mixing prescriptions according to exacting requirements like "a pretty draught" and "enough to lie on a jackknife's point."

Among a people who ardently believed in the doctrine of natural rights, there was considerable sentiment that the practice of medicine was an inherent right. One might as well be a doctor as anything else.

One resident of Huntington, L.I., during this period recalled being interrupted at his tavern dinner by "a band of the town politicians in short jackets and trousers. Among the rest," he said, "was a fellow with a worsted cap and great black fists. They stiled him doctor... he had been a shoemaker in town and was a notable fellow at his trade, but happening two years ago to cure an old woman of a pestilent mortal disease, he thereby acquired the character of a physician, was applied to from all quarters, and finding the practise of physick a more profitable business than cobbling, he laid aside his awls and leather, got himself some gallipots, and instead of cobbling of soles, fell to cobbling of human bodies."

Moreover, the healing trade offered opportunity for individual expression, something much jciated by nascent Americans. Among the various nostrums and panaceas available to the doctor were a whole army of depleting remedies: purges, vomits, sweats, blisters, bloodletting and poultices of garlic, onions, radishes, freshly chewed tobacco and gunpowder.

One might hold with the doctor who favored dispensing antimony, "that very active metal, and which, mild as it was, left ... patients very commonly with a petty strong conviction that they had taken something that did not exactly agree with them." Or, one might follow the pioneering practice of John Saffrin who advocated this remedy: "Take an egg and boil it very hard; then pull off the shell, and put it as hot as you can well endure, into the fundamnet of the patient grievied and when it is much abated of heat, put another egg in the same manner and it will cure."

America looked like a gold mine to any ambitious peddler of pills and panaceas. Poor nutrition, ill-constructed and crowded houses, elementary notions of sanitation, a life of exposure and toil left the colonists open to a host of afflictions. Epidemics of malaria, cholera, typhoid, scurvy, scarlet fever, yellow fever, diphtheria, smallpox, tuberculosis and influenza infected the countryside from Georgia to Maine.

Malaria was widespread and so endemic in America that it came to be perceived as a national trait. The disease gave Americans that gaunt look which now survives chiefly in the cartoonists' characterization of lean-visaged Uncle Sam.

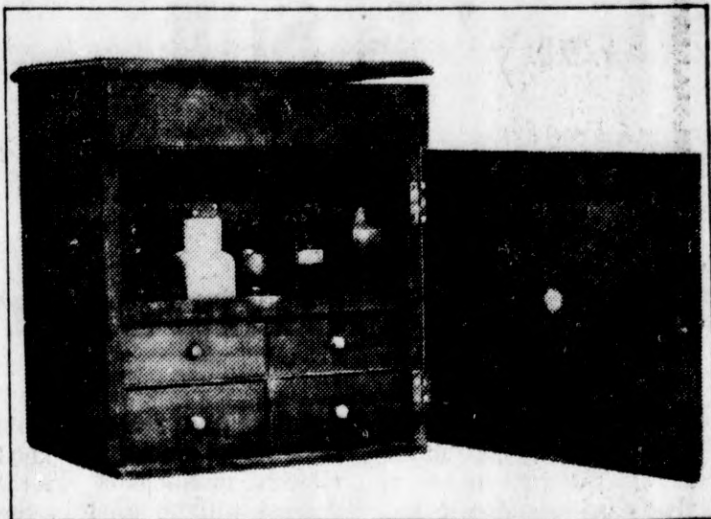

And war brought a more terrible enemy than the British. The mysterious and evil "bloody flux", which today we know as dysentery, stole silently throughout the country. Abigail Adams wept in Braintree, "The desolution of war is not so distressing as the havoc made by this pestilence. Some poor parents are mourning the loss of three, four and five children; and some families are wholly stripped of every member ... 'Tis a dreadful time with the whole province. Sickness and death are in almost every family."

The colonial army lost many soldiers to dysentery. In 1775, American forces bivouacked in Cambridge and British forces in Boston suffered. Throughout the war, the disease so tormented the contesting armies that it was familiarly called "camp distemper" by the troops. Considering the health of both armies, it is hard to imagine how they had any strength to fight at all. The American Revolution was won on the battlefield, but the revolution in medicine had yet to begin.

Police Trainee Slays Spouse, Probers Say

DETROIT (AP) — Investigators said a student police officer practicing the loading of her service revolver shot and killed her husband in their Detroit home Sunday. The trainee, Cecilia Bobo, 24, was due to graduate in two weeks, according to Sgt. John Roffey of a special homicide assignment squad investigating the shooting. Roffey said Mrs. Bobo told detectives she shot her husband, Milton, 27, as he lay in bed. She said she was practicing loading her .38-caliber revolver with two varieties of ammunition and got them mixed up. One kind was the so-called "wadcutter" used for target practice, while the other type had no powder in them. Mrs. Bobo and her husband had separated last spring but resumed living together in the summer.

Health News...

Shoulder, Arm & Neck Pain Can Be Back Aching

Nearly everybody has a friend nicknamed "Old Aches and Pains". He, or she, is seemingly always complaining of shoulder, neck and arm pain...and is not necessarily "old". What is this individual's problem?

We put this very question to Dr. Vince Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center.

"Let me draw you a picture first," says Dr. Ackerman. "And then I'll come back to specifics."

"When you see a person with badly rounded shoulders or stooped over, you are seeing 'old aches and pains' who has sought treatment for his or her condition, but who has rather let the condition grow progressively worse."

Dr. Ackerman points out that shoulder, neck and arm pains constitute some of the most deceptive problems known.

"People just don't seem to get excited about twinges of pain in the shoulder, neck and arm," says Dr. Ackerman. "They content themselves with self-treatments such as liniments and ointments and apparently figure their's is a problem one simply has to live with."

"Stoicism is hardly the answer, the good doctor points out, since the condition may be resulting from progressive spinal disorders and postural decay of the upper back and neck."

"As I've said, this is a deceptive condition," Dr. Ackerman notes. "In the very early stages symptoms are usually limited to soreness and a feeling of fatigue across the top of the shoulders. This well could be followed by burning pain across the shoulder with pain and stiffness of the neck." The early symptoms are considered to be due to tension and stretch-weakness of the "shawl" muscles of the upper back and neck.

What will happen if no treatment is effected?

"If the condition is allowed to continue development, the spine and associated shoulder structures become compressed and gradually shift to abnormal positions," according to Dr. Ackerman. "The victim then begins to assume a round-shoulder posture and the pain becomes prolonged and more intense."

As the spine becomes compressed and distorted, the tiny nerve openings between each pair of spinal segments become partially closed. Dr. Ackerman points out that this causes the nerves to be irritated and pinched as they exit the spine.

It is in this stage that the symptoms of nerve irritation develop. According to Dr. Ackerman these symptoms include numbness and tingling in the hands, arm pain, neck pain and painfully restricted shoulder movement. "Chest pain may develop and become so severe that heart disease is often suspected although the heart is not the culprit."

Experience has shown that shoulder, neck and arm pain syndromes which are due to structural spinal disorders respond readily to specialized care.

"If a person would only seize their opportunity for effective treatment of shoulder, neck and arm pain, many postural ailments could be averted," says Dr. Ackerman. "And it is needless pain. I might add. Yet some people seem to take joy at the pain and pity that come easily to them."

The Instant It Happened

AND YET AGAIN

Boris Yaro, a reporter-photographer on the suburban section of the Los Angeles Times, has had too many tases this day. June 4, 1968. So he leaves work early and, cuddled up to the TV with his Pepto-Bismol, he watches the California primary returns.

Robert Kennedy is clearly ahead and Boris is certain he will take it all — the primary, the nomination in Chicago, the White House. Recovered from his upset, the reporter-photographer picks up his camera and heads for the Ambassador, strictly on his own. No strobe unit. He will use only available light for something different, perhaps dramatic, to hang on his wall. He happens to like Bobby Kennedy.

A few minutes after midnight, the candidate delivers his victory statement in the Embassy Room of the hotel.

12:16 a.m. To avoid the crowd, the candidate moves toward the kitchen, where, among others in the crush, Boris Yaro waits. Also a dark little man named Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, a Jordanian Arab, who does not like the candidate's support of Israel.

Suddenly, people are pulling back and only 3 or 4 feet away Yaro sees Sirhan fire at

Robert Kennedy again and again and he watches in numbed horror and he begins to react only when someone yells, "Get him!" Two men grab Sirhan and shove him face down on a metal counter and the gun slips from his hand and Yaro grabs it and someone else takes it from him.

He first thinks about mechanical things. "The fire from the gun is orange. The color of the walls is . . ."

Then, the full thought erupts: "My God! My God! This is happening again — to another Kennedy!"

Robert Kennedy sinks to the floor and Boris Yaro begins shooting pictures and a lady next to him, in the hysteria of the instant, pulls him arm, shouting, "Don't take pictures. I'm a photographer and I'm not taking pictures." Boris Yaro yells: "Let go, lady. Goddammit, this is history!" and he shakes her loose and takes more pictures, six in all, and it is not until an hour and a half later, back in the office, all pictures processed, all information given to his news desk, that he goes alone into a tiny darkroom and, like many of his countrymen this night of revived shock and shame, he weeps.

Bottled Water Rapped By Expert

By JAMES R. BOOD

Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — That little jug of water you buy at the corner store because it's "more healthful" than tap water could be doing more harm than good, a water quality expert says.

"It's unfortunate. People think they're doing themselves good and they may be doing themselves harm," said Dr. John Christman, director of research at Loyola University.

Christman, who has been studying water quality control for the Environmental Protection Agency, said forthcoming federal regulations may impose the same health standards on both bottled water and municipal water supplies.

"That's a fortunate thing and I hope it happens right away," he said. "Bottled water at this moment is real Russian roulette. You have no idea what's in it, you don't even know if it meets community standards — it may be worse."

The EPA is drawing up new standards for city water, and possibly bottled water, under the Water Quality Act of 1974. The standards are expected to be unveiled about Dec. 15.

The tightened regulations follow the discovery last year that many major cities' water supplies were contaminated by organic chemicals and metals capable of causing cancer in animals.

Those disclosures proved to be a boon for the bottled water industry, as cautious homeowners decided to play it safe and spend a few extra dollars for supposedly pure bottled water.

It may not have been a very good trade-off, Christman said. There are currently no federal regulations governing bottled water which is not sold in interstate commerce.

"Anybody could go out, buy a bunch of bottles and sell tap water," he said. As long as the water doesn't cross state lines, it is of no interest to federal agencies.

Nor is there any requirement that such water be dated.

"You could go to the store and buy a bottle of water that's been sitting on the shelf for seven months or more," Christman said. "That's really dangerous, especially when it's warm, because warm temperatures speed up the growth of bacteria."

After 18 months of study, Christman has concluded that home water purification systems, despite their expense and bother, may be the only feasible way of insuring that water is fit to drink.

UAW Hints It May Drop Pro-Busing Stand

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers Vice President Douglas Fraser, saying busing "is a losing issue politically," has hinted the union's political arm may be ready to abandon its stand favoring school-busing for integration.

"You can argue its merits endlessly, but more and more of our people, including blacks, are beginning to question whether busing leads to quality education," Fraser said Sunday in an interview. "The two most important social issues revolving around busing are an integrated society and quality education," Fraser said busing appears to have had the effect of "resegregation" by promoting white flight from central cities to suburbs. The UAW's Community Action Program (CAP), which Fraser directs, supports busing. But Fraser said the union's political leadership is "reassessing" the position because of internal debate over what he called "a major political problem." CAP is an influential power in Michigan and national politics. "While I'm not certain all of the evidence is in," said Fraser, "I think most Americans perceive that it (busing) isn't working."

America looked like a gold mine to any ambitious peddler of pills and panaceas. Poor nutrition, ill-constructed and crowded houses, elementary notions of sanitation, a life of exposure and toil left the colonists open to a host of afflictions. Epidemics of malaria, cholera, typhoid, scurvy, scarlet fever, yellow fever, diphtheria, smallpox, tuberculosis and influenza infected the countryside from Georgia to Maine.

Malaria was widespread and so endemic in America that it came to be perceived as a national trait. The disease gave Americans that gaunt look which now survives chiefly in the cartoonists' characterization of lean-visaged Uncle Sam.

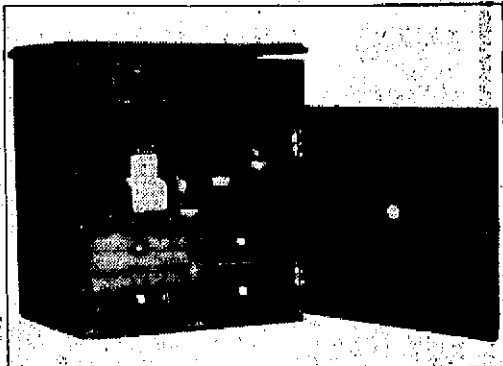

And war brought a more terrible enemy than the British. The mysterious and evil "bloody flux," which today we know as dysentery, stole silently throughout the country. Abigail Adams wept in Braintree: "The desolation of war is not so distressing as the havoc made by this pestilence. Some poor parents are mourning the loss of three, four, and five children; and some families are wholly stripped of every member ... 'Tis a dreadful time with the whole province. Sickness and death are in almost every family."

The colonial army lost many soldiers to dysentery. In 1775, American forces bivouacked in Cambridge and British forces in Boston suffered. Throughout the war, the disease so tormented the contesting armies that it was familiarly called "camp distemper" by the troops. Considering the health of both armies, it is hard to imagine how they had any strength to fight at all. The American Revolution was won on the battlefield, but the revolution in medicine had yet to begin.

Police Trainee Slays Spouse, Probers Say

DETROIT (AP) — Investigators said a student police officer practicing the loading of her service revolver shot and killed her husband in their Detroit home Sunday. The trainee, Cecilia Bobo, 24, was due to graduate in two weeks, according to Sgt. John Roffey of a special homicide assignment squad investigating the shooting. Roffey said Mrs. Bobo told detectives she shot her husband, Milton, 27, as he lay in bed. She said she was practicing loading her .38-caliber revolver with two varieties of ammunition and got them mixed up. One kind was the so-called "wadcuters" used for target practice, while the other type had no powder in them. Mrs. Bobo and her husband had separated last spring but resumed living together in the summer.

Shoulder, Arm & Neck Pain Can Be Back Aching

Nearly everybody has a friend nicknamed "Old Aches and Pains". He, or she, is seemingly always complaining of shoulder, neck and arm pain...and is not necessarily "old". What is this individual's problem?

We put this very question to Dr. Vince Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center.

"Let me draw you a picture first," says Dr. Ackerman. "And then I'll come back to specifics."

"When you see a person with badly rounded shoulders or stooped over, you are seeing 'old aches and pains' who has Ackerman not sought treatment for his or her condition, but who has rather let the condition grow progressively worse."

Dr. Ackerman points out that shoulder, neck and arm pains constitute some of the most deceptive problems known.

"People just don't seem to get excited about twinges of pain in the shoulder, neck and arm," says Dr. Ackerman. "They content themselves with self-treatments such as liniments and ointments, and apparently figure their's is a problem one simply has to live with."

"Stoicism is hardly the answer," the good doctor points out, "since the condition may be resulting from progressive spinal disorders and postural decay of the upper back and neck."

stiffness of the neck." The early symptoms are considered to be due to tension and stretch-weakness of the "shaw" muscles of the upper back and neck.

What will happen if no treatment is effected? "If the condition is allowed to continue development, the spine and associated shoulder structures become compressed and gradually shift to abnormal positions," according to Dr. Ackerman. "The victim then begins to assume a round-shoulder posture, and the pain becomes prolonged and more intense."

As the spine becomes compressed and distorted, the tiny nerve openings between each pair of spinal segments become partially closed. Dr. Ackerman points out that this causes the nerves to be irritated and pinched as they exit the spine.

It is in this stage that the symptoms of nerve irritation develop. According to Dr. Ackerman these symptoms include numbness and tingling in the hands, arm pain, neck pain and painfully restricted shoulder movement. "Chest pain may develop and become so severe that heart disease is often suspected although the heart is not the culprit."

Experience has shown that shoulder, neck and arm pain syndromes which are due to structural spinal disorders respond readily to specialized care.

"If a person would only seize their opportunity for effective treatment of shoulder, neck and arm pain, many postural ailments could be averted," says Dr. Ackerman. "And it is needless pain. I might add. Yet some people seem to take joy in the pain and pity that come easily to them."

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices 3918 Red Arrow Hwy. St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1708.)

Old Blue Eyes Holds Still For Interview

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Sinatra, who reacts to reporters as the mongoose does the cobra, is interviewed about as often as the sun rises in the West. But he recently sat for an hour-long TV chat here.

Alas, for Sinatra fans, it only was shown here on Saturday and is being repeated here today on WNEW-TV. He taped the interview, which contains nothing startling, on Sept. 22 while in town on a singing engagement.

But what makes the thing sort of interesting is that instead of going the national TV talk show route, he chose to lay his thoughts on a relatively obscure local lad who'd met him but twice before. The lad is Bill Boggs, who hosts a midday talk show on WNEW. Boggs said he met the 59-year-old singer last Easter while visiting Las Vegas, Nev., and again in September during a telethon here.

He said he'd never asked Old Blue Eyes to appear on his show, figuring that'd be presumptuous, but that Sinatra apparently liked him and decided on his own to tape a 60-minute interview with him.

He said Sinatra set no ban against discussing things like his stormy marital life, or his acid from-the-stage comments about various gossip columnists or his fabled rows with the press in general.

But Boggs said he didn't ask about such things "because I know he didn't want to talk about it ... and I don't really see myself as a journalist interviewing Frank Sinatra. I sat down and had a conversation with him from the standpoint of somebody who really cares about him and somebody who knows enough about him to know what not to ask. Hence, if you really want to be logical, that's probably why he came (on the show) in the first place."

For Sinatraologists, here are a few things The Voice told Boggs:

As a youth, he'd planned to study civil engineering, but was trying his hand at singing. His late father "got a little fed up with me because I just wasn't going out, looking for (nonsinging) work."

Whereupon the elder Sinatra, apparently despairing his boy ever would go to college, one morning said: "Why don't you just get out of the house and go out on your own?"

On how he felt after ending his "retirement" of less than two years in 1973: "... I was struggling, I was really fighting my way out of the doldrums, because when I quit, I let everything go."

On the preference of his son, Frank Jr., for singing Cole Porter and Rodgers and Hart songs in his own night club act: "... I say fine, but there's also (Bert) Bacharach and Jimmy Webb and a whole bunch of other guys that are writing good things."

"And he says, no, he says, 'I want to do this stuff.' I said, 'Yeah, but they're not buying that now, not always buying it. You've got to mix it in some way.' But he's pretty hardheaded about that."

On his own future: "I guess I'll just keep working until I get just weary enough not to work anymore or the minute a vibrato (a reference to vocal shakiness) shows up in my singing."

"That's the time to go home, when it begins to go like that, that's the time to go home."

Building To Be Renamed?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says the FBI's new headquarters dedicated in September as the J. Edgar Hoover building should be renamed because of "the abuse of investigative and police powers under" the late FBI director.

Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md., said over the weekend he will introduce legislation to change the name of the building. Gude referred to what he said was a "smear campaign" under Hoover's direction against civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. Gude said the building "should not become a permanent reminder of actions taken in bad faith."

'Misty' Is Still Winning Awards For Its Composer

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What song has hit the charts 12 different times in varying renditions since it was written 21 years ago? Erroll Garner's "Misty" is the song. The writer just got another award from ASCAP for the Ray Stevens' country-western rendition of this great classic.

Q: My favorite actress is Goldie Hawn. I met her in Colorado earlier this year where she was making a film and she seemed so nice. Is she married or living with anyone? — R.L., Denver, Colo.

A: Goldie's marriage to Gus Trikonis has ended but she is very involved with Bill Hudson of the popular Hudson Brothers.

Q: I think the idea of a father and daughter making a movie is kind of strange and wondered how Liza Minnelli and her dad are doing? — E.H., Grahamsville, N.Y.

A: The movie is off to a shaky start in Rome and everybody says that's because Vincente VINCENTE: Working with Liza.

PEOPLE
By Robin Adams Sloan

Minnelli hasn't done a movie in several years and Liza is a pro and maybe the production problems will sort themselves out.

Q: Does Truman Capote care that nobody in High Society is ever going to speak to him again after his incredible revelations in his book fragment, "Answered Prayers"? — X.T., N.Y., N.Y.

A: Word drifts our way from the West Coast, where Truman is acting in a movie, that the writer is now getting pretty nervous over the adverse, indeed outraged, reaction of many of his suddenly ex-best friends among the Beautiful People.

Q: I hear there's a book that has Hollywood big shots all upset. Do you know what it is, and why? — J.X., Teaneck, N.J.

A: Film industry insiders say that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences is very unhappy about the behind-the-scenes segment in Irving Wallace's new "The People's Almanac," written with son David Walchewski. The Oscar chapter names names and tells the inside story on how and why each Oscar-winner won (and who REALLY should have won) from 1927 right through last year.

Q: Is American style football catching on in other countries? — Y.O., Pine Bluff, Ark.

A: There is some stirring of interest reported from Europe and Japan but changing the sports habits of a nation is slow going. However, British Airways is touting the spectacle of American professional football as one of the wonders of the United States in an effort to entice English tourists to fly over for a visit. The NFL may yet turn out to be one of our great natural resources.

Filibuster Promised

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., has promised to use his filibustering talents to block President Ford's plan to provide federal loans to avert default by New York City.

"The only way they're going to stop me is to vote cloture," said Allen, who is considered one of the Senate's most skilled members in the parliamentary art of burying legislation in filibusters.

Time Just Wasn't Right

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fred Thompson, who was minority counsel for the Senate Watergate Committee, says recent disclosures about the FBI and CIA could have come out during the Watergate investigation but the time wasn't right.

"You've got to put yourself at that point in time," Thompson said Sunday in an interview. "The big game was Nixon and the White House."

Tip Leads To Arrest Of 3 Teens

BARODA — Two Baroda juvenile boys and a third from Stevensville were arrested by Berrien sheriff's deputies as the result of a break-in here early Sunday morning.

Deputies from the Galien substation said the boys, ages 14 to 16, were taken into custody near a car found parked near the house where the alleged break-in occurred.

According to officers, they had waited by the car after neighbors alerted authorities that someone had entered the Casini Kaitis house at 9500 Cleveland avenue.

Deputies said nothing was reported missing.

The boys were to be petitioned to juvenile court, deputies said.

state residents applying for food stamps.

The federal act was intended to protect the rights of the individual, but state officials say that's not the way it's working out in practice.

The Social Services Department says the act temporarily adds to the hardships faced by many of the aged, blind and disabled who need state and county support while waiting to qualify for the federal support.

Officials say the act, which took effect two months ago, has blocked the Social Security Administration's ability to supply required financial information to the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Many of the persons applying to the state for food stamps or seeking general assistance from counties must now go to Social Security offices in person to pick up statements verifying that their income qualifies them for local programs. Previously this was handled by telephone or letter.

As a result, Social Security offices all over Michigan now are jammed with crowds of people they aren't geared to handle.

Ford's Red China Welcome Is Quiet

An hour later, Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, making one of her rare appearances, joined Chu Teh in posing for a group photograph at the Great Hall prior to the elaborate Chinese banquet.

The Chinese people learned of Ford's impending arrival from a four-paragraph dispatch by Hsinhua, the official news agency. It reported he left Washington on Saturday and said as he departed: "We will stand for our own views, as we always have, but we will seek — in the American tradition — to foster mutual understanding."

There was a long article in the official Peking People's Daily on Soviet villainy but no attempt to link the attack to Ford's visit.

The United States was as usual pictured as a superpower resisting the Third World in the United Nations, but the Russians got the brunt of the blame.

Ford's plane also made a one-hour refueling stopover at the Tokyo airport, and the President and Kissinger were greeted there by Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa and a representative of Emperor Hirohito.

A senior member of Ford's party emphasized that the visit to Tokyo was entirely ceremonial and that neither the United States nor Japan wanted to give any impression of substantive discussions before the visit to China.

On the way back from Peking, Kissinger will stop off in Japan to brief the Japanese government on the talks between the President and the Chinese.

Consumer Loses Ground

By Associated Press

Prices gained slightly on the consumer at grocery stores in November, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. The shopper found lower prices for such items as pork chops and sugar, but they were more than offset by higher ones for eggs, butter and coffee. During November, the marketbasket total at the checklist store was up in seven cities, with an average hike of 3.7 per cent, and down in six cities, with an average drop of 2.6 per cent. Overall, the bill near the start of December was eight-tenths of 1 per cent more than a month earlier. During October, the marketbasket bill increased in six cities and dipped in seven, and the change in prices overall for the month was an increase of three-tenths of 1 per cent.

Hurricanes Fewer, Weaker

MIAMI (AP) — Despite the killer hurricane Eloise, the 1975 Atlantic season continued a trend that has seen fewer and weaker hurricanes than in the past, the head of the National Hurricane Center says. "In the past few years, there hasn't been a super hurricane, but we don't know when the lull will end," Neil Frank said as the season officially closed Sunday after spawning six hurricanes and two other tropical storms. Frank said the season kept up the pattern of the past four or five years during which the major storms formed in the Gulf of Mexico instead of coming to life in the deep tropics and strengthening in a race across the Atlantic.

Artillery Barrage Heavy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Soviet-backed Angolan forces defending Luanda are firing massive artillery barrages of as much as 1,000 rounds an hour, the Rand Daily Mail reported today. The leading Johannesburg newspaper said its information came from members of the Western-backed Total Liberation Movement, or UNITA, which with the National Front, or FNLA, is battling the Soviet-backed Popular Movement, or MPLA. The sources said the saturation shelling of single targets has been mainly responsible for halting the advance on Luanda of joint UNITA and FNLA forces.

REUNION: Arthur Werthaus and Hedwig Neumann were reunited recently at St. Paul, Minn., 26 years after she saved him from Auschwitz extermination camp. Werthaus, then a boy, was destined for the camp along with his parents during World War II. Real Estate In Manhattan Like Cocktail-On The Rocks

By PETER ARNETT AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Those involved in the multi-million dollar New York City real estate market say that things can't get any worse for them even if the city defaults.

"We're at rock bottom. There's no market at all," said Jack Weprin, a New York real estate lawyer.

With choice buildings in Manhattan's finest neighborhoods unsold at even half the prices paid four and five years ago, real estate dealers seem almost relieved that the city's financial crisis has finally come to a head.

"The city has to come to terms with all its problems; this must inevitably help the property market," said D. Kenneth Patton, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, Inc.

A federally-approved plan to rescue New York "will bring new forces into the picture with enormous powers to change the archaic old ways," Patton said.

The city's landlords say the "old ways" are the maze of rent control and rent stabilization regulations that govern as much as 75 per cent of the city's residential apartments. New York is the only city in the nation with continuous rent controls since World War II.

Other observers blame other factors for the decline of the property market, including the flight of capital to other, more profitable investments.

But whatever the reason, New York City is in the throes of "the worst real estate market since the depression," according to Aaron Ziegelman, a residential building investor.

Here's a rundown on the situation:

LARGE APARTMENT BUILDINGS — Lawyer Jack Weprin said he recently purchased a large apartment building in mid-Manhattan "for half of what I would have paid three years ago." But he advised an elderly woman who wanted to sell a six-story, elevator apartment building in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan, to wait. He told her: "You would be lucky if you sold it for as much as the rents you collect in one year."

What is worse for the city, some large residential buildings are selling at even less than the assessed value placed on them by the city. The new owner can expect an eventual reduction in his assessment, meaning less taxes for the city. This could amount to millions of dollars if the market doesn't pick up, the experts say.

Marine Veteran Information Will Be Ready In BH

Richard Close, Muskegon-based service officer for the Marine Corps League, will be available to discuss veterans benefits at the Naval Armory, 475 Cass street, Benton Harbor, on Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Any veteran may contact Close regarding benefits. Also, any widow of a veteran may obtain information on benefits for her and dependent children.

average price 92 per cent of city assessments. Real estate men are proposing that the city allow factories and loft buildings to be converted to residential buildings. This has been done in Soho, a section of the Lower East Side where a residential community has risen among the ruins of a commercial area.

COOPERATIVE APARTMENTS — The cooperative market is depressed because all cost factors are up. These include fuel costs, maintenance, labor and taxes. "People bought a lot of cooperatives in the late 1960s and early 1970s when they thought rents would be decontrolled and prices would go sky high," said Patton. "But rents stayed controlled, and the owners of the cooperatives have to bear the increased costs."

Cooperative owners get their apartments by purchasing shares in the cooperative organization that owns the building. Operating costs are shared.

Lawyer Weprin said he knew of one cooperative apartment in the East Side of Manhattan "which anyone could have for free — as long as they contracted to pay the $1,500 monthly maintenance costs."

What little movement in the market there is concentrated in the most desirable parts of Manhattan. Real estate men say the comparatively small brownstone market is moving as usual. Brownstones are small buildings with four or five floors.

"There is a substantial demand for these buildings for people wanting to move back into the city, and they are selling because they are largely, or partially, rent decontrolled," said Real Estate Board president Patton.

The award winners were among some 20 floats or marching units in the parade.

Pittsburgh Teachers Strike Third Time In Eight Years

PITTSBURGH (AP) — School teachers went on strike today for the third time in eight years, but the city's 62,000 public school pupils were told to report to class this afternoon.

Representatives of the city's 3,700 teachers and 700 para-professionals cheered their approval Sunday night when Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers President Albert Fondy asked for a vote to strike.

The union, unmoved by the school board's 11th hour offer of $1,000 across-the-board annual raises, rejected the board's third request to extend the contract through December. The old contract expired at midnight Sunday.

"That offer was based on the assumption that the only thing that can prevent a strike is salary, which isn't the case," said Fondy.

"There are a whole lot of issues to be settled, none of which were dealt with during the months of negotiations. It would have been foolish of us to extend the contract," he said.

School Supt. Jerry C. Olson ordered non-striking employees to report to work as scheduled at the city's 104 schools today. Under state law, they are required to cross teacher picket lines.

Although students were told to report to class at 1 p.m., unless otherwise advised by the news media, there were no plans to provide bus transportation or hot lunch service. Pre-school programs and day care services were canceled.

The union predicted its strike may last two months.

"The gap between us is very great. The chances of a settlement are very slim," said Fondy.

Although Fondy has said he wants to discuss professional issues before he bargains for money, salary appears to be the main stumbling block in negotiations which began in July.

Teachers now earn between $8,700 and $16,700 a year. Fondy asked for increases of $1,300 to $3,500, beginning Jan. 1, 1976.

In a last minute effort to avert a strike, the board offered $1,000 in annual raises for all teachers, effective in September. Earlier board proposals had called for $1,000 the first year, $900 the second and $800 the third year.

But the board also wanted to increase the number of years of service required to receive top scale from 11 to 12. The teachers union wanted it reduced to seven.

The union wants 15 per cent wage hikes for its para-professional members. The board offered 7 per cent.

The board says it only has $1 million to work with in negotiating a contract. The teachers say their demands will cost $10 million.

Non-economic issues under discussion include class size, pupil discipline and working hours. The board considers these policy decisions and wants to eliminate them from negotiations.

City teachers also struck in 1968 and 1971.

FRANK SINATRA

Old Blue Eyes Holds Still For Interview

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Sinatra, who reacts to reporters as the mongoose does the cobra, is interviewed about as often as the sun rises in the West. But he recently sat for an hour-long TV chat here. Alas, for Sinatra fans, it only was shown here on Saturday and is being repeated here today on WNEV-TV. He taped the interview, which contains nothing startling, on Sept. 22 while in town on a singing engagement.

But what makes the thing sort of interesting is that instead of going the national TV talk show route, he chose to lay his thoughts on a relatively obscure local lad who'd met him but twice before. The lad is Bill Boggs, who hosts a midday talk show on WNEV. Boggs said he met the 50-year-old singer last Easter while visiting Las Vegas, Nev., and again in September during a telethon here. He said he'd never asked Old Blue Eyes to appear on his show, figuring that'd be presumptuous, but that Sinatra apparently liked him and decided on his own to tape a 60-minute interview with him. He said Sinatra set no ban against discussing things like his stormy marital life, or his acid from-the-stage comments about various gossip columnists or his fabled rows with the press in general. But Boggs said he didn't ask about such things "because I know he didn't want to talk about it ... and I don't really see myself as a journalist interviewing Frank Sinatra. I sat down and had a conversation with him from the standpoint of somebody who really cares about him and somebody who knows enough about him to know what not to ask. Hence, if you really want to be logical, that's probably why he came (on the show) in the first place." For Sinatraologists, here are a few things The Voice told Boggs: As a youth, he'd planned to study civil engineering, but was trying his hand at singing. His late father "got a little fed up with me because I just wasn't going out, looking for (moneysing) work." Whereupon the elder Sinatra, apparently despairing his boy ever would go to college, one morning said, "Why don't you just get out of the house and go out on your own?" On how he felt after ending his "retirement" of less than two years in 1973: "... I was struggling. I was really fighting my way out of the doldrums, because when I quit, I let everything go." On the preference of his son, Frank Jr., for singing Cole Porter and Rodgers and Hart songs in his own night club act: "... I say fine, but there's also (Bert) Bacharach and Jimmy Webb and a whole bunch of other guys that are writing good things." "And he says, no, he says, 'I want to do this stuff.' I said, 'Yeah, but they're not buying that now, not always buying it. You've got to mix it in some way.' But he's pretty hardheaded about that." On his own future: "I guess I'll just keep working until I get just weary enough not to work anymore or the minute a vibrator (a reference to vocal shakiness) shows up in my singing." "That's the time to go home, when it begins to go like that, that's the time to go home."

Building To Be Renamed?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says the FBI's new headquarters dedicated in September as the J. Edgar Hoover building should be renamed because of "the abuse of investigative and police powers under" the late FBI director.

Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md., said over the weekend he will introduce legislation to change the name of the building. Gude referred to what he said was a "smear campaign" under Hoover's direction against civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. Gude said the building "should not become a permanent reminder of actions taken in bad faith."

Michigan Teen Bounces To World Record

EDMORE, Mich. (AP) — Mark Andersen, 17, a junior at Edmore's Montabella High School, climbed down from the trampoline at 2:37 a.m. Sunday after setting a new world bouncing record. Andersen, complete with a pit crew of classmates and enough fans to keep him awake, started jumping at 8 a.m. Thanksgiving Day on a trampoline on the stage at his high school. He didn't quit until 66 hours and 37 minutes — and 316,800 bounces — later, easily smashing the old world trampoline bouncing record, 64½ hours. The old record shared by three Australians was set 2½ years ago, according to the Guinness Book of World Records.

"I got the idea off the side of those new Dixie Cups they have out now," Andersen said. "The one's with all the world records printed on the side." The youth, 5-foot-6 and 120 pounds, said he wants to go to trade school and become a carpenter after he completes high school. "I can't stay awake anymore," Andersen said as his pit crew escorted him to a hot shower in the school locker room after his record-setting performance.

His pit crew gave him rubdowns or cold showers once each hour during five-minute breaks. The world record-holders in 1973 took five-minute breaks each hour, too. To keep Andersen alert, his classmates and friends played catch, tossing a volleyball back and forth to Mark as he bounced. During one break, his handlers rubbed snow on him to keep him alert. Spectators kept him awake with conversation. "I'm fine. I'm okay," Andersen told his fans as he bounced. "I'm gonna get the record." Peter Injasoulia, the school athletic director and assistant principal who became Andersen's unofficial manager, said his star was drowsy at times, especially in the early morning hours.

At the 58-hour mark, Injasoulia reported, "He's not bouncing high, but he's bouncing, sometimes on his feet, and other times on his back. Doc says he's relaxed, his pulse is down and he ought to make it." "Doc" was Dr. Thomas Deurloo, a private physician and also doctor for some of the school's athletic teams, who checked Andersen's condition every four hours during breaks.

The Guinness record book says tops for trampolining was set between May 21-24, 1973, by three Australians — Roger Weddall, Michael Tyler and Michael Hamman in North Bolwyn, Australia. Andersen's trampolining drew more than $1,200 in pledges from parents, merchants and classmates anxious to support the school's athletic department, said Injasoulia. He jumped in blue shorts, a pair of white sweat socks which he changed every few hours and a white T-shirt with blue lettering saying "Super Tramp."

Compromise On Compensation Bill Is Up For Test

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and legislative Democrats will begin this week efforts to untangle the latest issue placing them at partisan loggerheads — workers' compensation. Milliken already has threatened to veto a labor-oriented bill, written by majority Democrats, pending in the Senate. With lawmakers hoping to adjourn by mid-December, this week may determine whether a compromise can be reached or a standoff will result over increasing benefits to Michigan's injured workers.

The issue recalls the dispute over unemployment compensation earlier this year. The Democrats want to do right by the working man — their traditional constituent — and the Republicans warn that the bill will cost so much that it will drive business, thus jobs, out of the state.

The unemployment compensation battle took weeks to resolve, and a second bitter battle, over teacher strikes, drew a gubernatorial veto. But so far, both sides sound ready to seek an agreement on workers' compensation and avoid a stalemate.

One reason is the time element. Under the complex constitutional rules of when a law takes effect, the bill must be passed by Dec. 31 or it won't go into effect until a year from next April.

Giving it "immediate effect" would solve that, but the bill is so controversial nobody believes that a two-thirds vote can be rounded up for that action.

In an attempt to move toward Senate passage of the bill this week, Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, prompted a high-level meeting between Democrats and Milliken's aides last week.

The meeting — to be continued today — outlined the differences of opinion over the issue.

"I'm prepared to get an agreement in the Senate," Fitzgerald said. "But if the Republicans don't get off dead center, it will be difficult."

His GOP counterpart, Sen. Robert Davis of Gaylord, said Fitzgerald's timetable is "impractical." He warned — as did the governor — that Republicans "are going to very adamant — we're not going to cave in."

Milliken says he won't accept very many changes in the bill he proposed to the legislature. The Democratic bill in the Senate couldn't be much farther from his suggestions.

First of all, Republicans say they won't agree to anything which costs much more than Milliken's bill.

Michigan businesses paid roughly $535 million in workers' compensation insurance premiums last year, GOP aides say, and the governor's bill would add some 4.6 per cent, or about $25 million.

The Democratic bill, however, would add 30 to 40 per cent, or between $160 million and $210 million. That, the GOP says, would cripple business and further erode the state's business climate.

The cost differences stem from the following points of conflict:

— Democrats want to continue basic benefits at the current two-thirds of the worker's gross weekly wage. Milliken wants to change them to 80 per cent of take-home pay.

— Democrats want to raise the maximum possible benefit to the state average weekly wage and then increase the maximum in steps to double that level by 1979. Republicans want to limit the ceiling to the average weekly wage.

— Democrats want to provide retroactive benefit increases to those already receiving payments. Benefits for a recipient would go up by the same percentage the average weekly wage has increased since his injury. Milliken opposes such retroactivity.

— Democrats want to tie all future benefits — including those brought up to date by retroactivity — to the cost of living, thus providing for automatic increases for inflation. Republicans want to coordinate benefits with Social Security payments, freezing the portion paid through Workers' Compensation.

— Democrats want to add two injuries — hearing loss and serious, permanent disfigurement — to the list of injuries for which a worker can receive a flat grant in addition to wage-loss payments. Republicans don't want to include such injuries.

"I've got to have cost of living, and I've got to have retroactivity, because it's fair," Fitzgerald said. A Milliken aide responded that "it's humane, but it just costs too much money."

Another battle will shape up over the retiree issue — the problem in which a worker retires and then files a claim for a work-related injury.

The Democrats' left this out of their bill. Milliken wants to end abuses of the system by eliminating lump-sum benefits for retirees, providing only weekly benefits, and limiting benefits to those based on whatever wage the worker could earn under Social Security or pension restrictions.

In other action this week, the legislature expects to receive Milliken's second executive order to cut the budget some $125 million to help avert a deficit of about $280 million. Democrats rejected the first cutback order of $150 million, and have talked Milliken's deficit forecast down from $298 million to $280 million.

The Senate has a key open meetings bill to thrash out, while the House is expected to take up legislation to put part of the new political reform law in effect next month.

A two-thirds vote is needed to allow rapid appointment of the political ethics commission to allow it to begin implementing the complex law so it covers next August's primary election.

Pullman Resident Is Killed When Car Strikes Tree

KALAMAZOO — A Pullman man was killed yesterday when the car he was a passenger in struck a tree about four miles northeast of Kalamazoo. Kalamazoo sheriff's deputies said Robert E. Foley, 22, of Pullman, a community in Allegan county, was pronounced dead at the scene of the 2:10 a.m. accident by a deputy medical examiner.

The driver of the car, Charles M. Miller, 22, route 4, Allegan, was arrested on a charge of negligent homicide and was lodged in the Kalamazoo county jail pending arraignment today, officers said.

Miller received a cut chin in the accident and another passenger, Quinton D. Kennedy, 24, also of Pullman, was not injured, according to officers.

Officers said the Miller car was travelling west on G avenue near Gull road when the car ran off the road and slammed into a tree. Mr. Foley was born May 15, 1953, in South Haven. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Lorraine Foley, South Haven and his father, Robert Foley, Apalachicola, Fla.; three sisters, Mrs. Nancy Canada, South Haven and June and Sally Foley, both of Pullman, and two grandmothers, Mrs. Kate Folley and Mrs. Eleanor Schultz, both of South Haven. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today at the Calvin funeral home, South Haven.

LAYOFFS PROTESTED

Allegan Sheriff's Deputies Picketing

ALLEGAN — Allegan sheriff's deputies were picketing the county building here this morning and were handing out leaflets protesting recent county board actions which have resulted in three deputies being laid off.

Sheriff Robert Whitcomb said about 20 deputies were picketing today, representing their bargaining unit, the Fraternal Order of Police lodge 151.

"All they're doing is trying to make the people aware of what the county board of commissioners is doing," said Whitcomb. "The board is lying to the public," he added.

Whitcomb said he was forced to lay off three deputies from his 41-man department on Oct. 31 after the county board's finance committee cut $8,000 from the sheriff's payroll account.

Whitcomb said statements recently made by board members that they did not order the layoffs were false.

"The finance committee chairman (John Vogelezang) claims he didn't order us or tell us to fire anybody. But, they cut off our money, so what else could we do?", Whitcomb said.

He cited a letter he received from the finance committee on Oct. 27 which said $8,000 had been transferred from the permanent salaries account to various other accounts within the sheriff's department.

Whitcomb said he had earlier requested fund transfers to pay bills, but he said he did not want the funds to be transferred from the salaries account.

The deputies have threatened to picket not only county facilities, but also the homes and businesses of the board of commissioners.

In an open letter to county residents, the deputies claim the board of commissioners has dictated the layoffs, and in so doing, usurped the statutory authority of the sheriff, which is to hire and fire at his pleasure."

$60,000 Michiana Home Is Destroyed

MICHIANA — Fire of undetermined origin early yesterday destroyed a Michiana house valued at $60,000 by its owner.

State police from the New Buffalo post said Julius Tockman, Chicago, set the value when contacted about the fire.

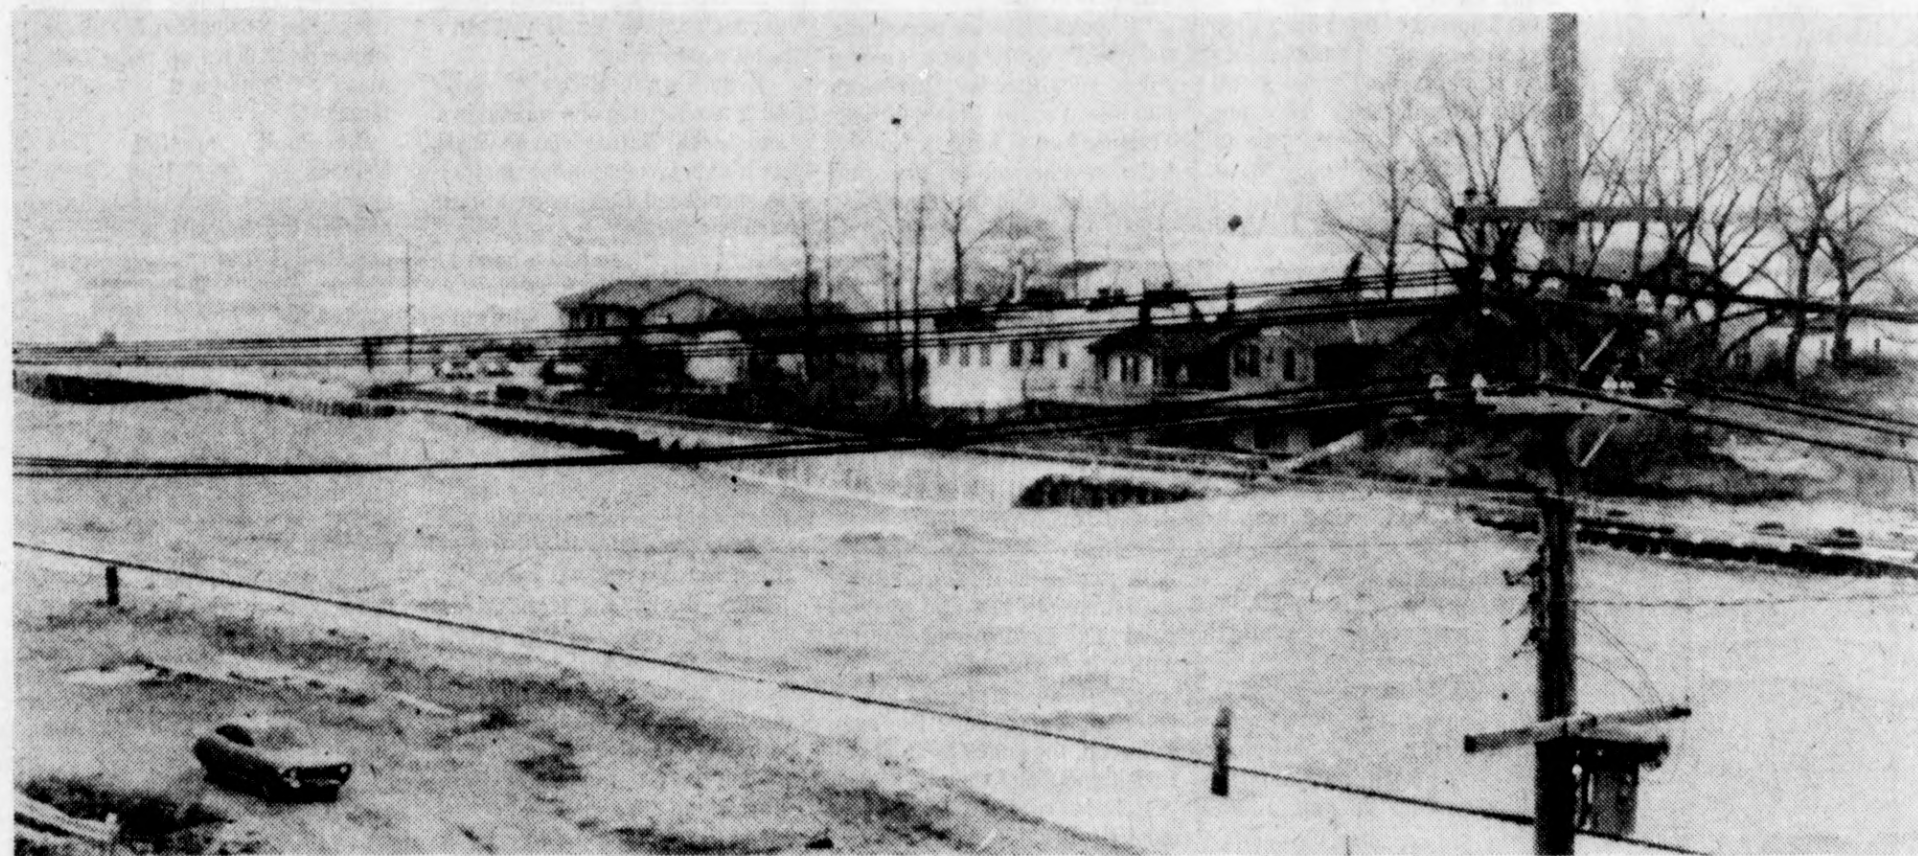

According to police, the house at 21 Pokagon street was being rented by four men but that no one was in the house when the fire was discovered about 12:05 a.m.

Police said the four were believed to have been at work in Indiana. Their names were not immediately determined, police said.

Officers said the fire apparently started in a bedroom of the 1½ story structure and then spread to the rest of it. New Buffalo township firemen who battled the blaze said the cause had not yet been determined.

New Privacy Act 'Has Us In Bind'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sources within the Michigan Department of Social Services say the new federal Privacy Act is inconveniencing thousands of state residents applying for food stamps.

The federal act was intended to protect the rights of the individual, but state officials say that's not the way it's working out in practice.

The Social Services Department says the act temporarily adds to the hardships faced by many of the aged, blind and disabled who need state and county support while waiting to qualify for the federal support.

Officials say the act, which took effect two months ago, has blocked the Social Security Administration's ability to supply required financial information to the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Many of the persons applying to the state for food stamps or seeking general assistance from counties must now go to Social Security offices in person to pick up statements verifying that their income qualifies them for local programs. Previously this was handled by telephone or letter.

As a result, Social Security offices all over Michigan now are jammed with crowds of people they aren't geared to handle.

As one embittered state official put it: "The feds really have us in a bind."

Tip Leads To Arrest Of 3 Teens

BARODA — Two Baroda juvenile boys and a third from Stevensville were arrested by Berrien sheriff's deputies as the result of a break-in here early Sunday morning.

Deputies from the Galien station said the boys, ages 14 to 16, were taken into custody near a car found parked near the house where the alleged break-in occurred.

According to officers, they had waited by the car after neighbors alerted authorities that someone had entered the Casimiri Kallis house at 9500 Cleveland avenue.

Deputies said nothing was reported missing.

The boys were to be petitioned to juvenile court, deputies said.

Ford's Red China Welcome Is Quiet

Standing Committee, appeared at the government guest house to have tea with the Fords.

An hour later, Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, making one of her rare appearances, joined Chu Teh in posing for a group photograph at the Great Hall prior to the elaborate Chinese banquet.

The Chinese people learned of Ford's impending arrival from a four-paragraph dispatch by Hsinhua, the official news agency. It reported he left Washington on Saturday and said as he departed: "We will stand for our own views, as we always have, but we will seek — in the American tradition — to foster mutual understanding."

There was a long article in the official Peking People's Daily on Soviet villainy but no attempt to link the attack to Ford's visit.

Consumer Loses Ground

Prices gained slightly on the consumer at grocery stores in November, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. The shopper found lower prices for such items as pork chops and sugar, but they were more than offset by higher ones for eggs, butter and coffee. During November, the marketbasket total at the checkout stand was up in seven cities, with an average hike of 3.7 per cent, and down in six cities, with an average drop of 2.6 per cent. Overall, the bill near the start of December was eight-tenths of 1 per cent more than a month earlier. During October, the marketbasket bill increased in six cities and dipped in seven, and the change in prices overall for the month was an increase of three-tenths of 1 per cent.

Hurricanes Fewer, Weaker

MIAMI (AP) — Despite the killer hurricane Eloise, the 1975 Atlantic season continued a trend that has seen fewer and weaker hurricanes than in the past, the head of the National Hurricane Center says. "In the past few years, there hasn't been a super hurricane, but we don't know when the lull will end," Neil Frank said as the season officially closed Sunday after spawning six hurricanes and two other tropical storms. Frank said the season kept up the pattern of the past four or five years during which the major storms formed in the Gulf of Mexico instead of coming to life in the deep tropics and strengthening in a race across the Atlantic.

Artillery Barrage Heavy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Soviet-backed Angolan forces defending Luanda are firing massive artillery barrages of as much as 1,000 rounds an hour, the Rand Daily Mail reported today. The leading Johannesburg newspaper said its information came from members of the Western-backed Total Liberation Movement, or UNTA, which with the National Front, or FNLA, is battling the Soviet-backed Popular Movement, or MPLA. The sources said the saturation shelling of single targets has been mainly responsible for halting the advance on Luanda of joint UNTA and FNLA forces.

Real Estate In Manhattan Like Cocktail-On The Rocks

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Those involved in the multi-million dollar New York City real estate market say that things can't get any worse for them even if the city defaults.

"We're at rock bottom. There's no market at all," said Jack Weprin, a New York real estate lawyer.

With choice buildings in Manhattan's finest neighborhoods unsold at even half the prices paid four and five years ago, real estate dealers seem almost relieved that the city's financial crisis has finally come to a head.

"The city has to come to terms with all its problems; this must inevitably help the property market," said D. Kenneth Patton, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, Inc.

A federally approved plan to rescue New York City, which brings new forces into the picture with enormous powers to change the archaic old laws, Patton said.

The city's landlords say the "old ways" are the maze of rent control and rent stabilization regulations that govern as much as 75 per cent of the city's residential apartments. New York is the only city in the nation with continuous rent controls since World War II.

Other observers blame other factors for the decline of the property market, including the flight of capital to other, more profitable investments.

But whatever the reason, New York City is in the throes of "the worst real estate market since the depression," according to Aaron Ziegelman, a residential building investor.

Here's a rundown on the situation:

LARGE APARTMENT BUILDINGS — Lawyer Jack Weprin said he recently purchased a large apartment building in mid-Manhattan "for half of what I would have paid three years ago." But he advised an elderly woman who wanted to sell a six-story, elevator apartment building in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan, to wait. He told her: "You would be lucky if you sold it for as much as the rents you collect in one year."

What is worse for the city, some large residential buildings are selling at even less than the assessed value placed on them by the city. The new owner can expect an eventual reduction in his assessment, meaning less taxes for the city. This could amount to millions of dollars if the market doesn't pick up, the experts say.

OFFICE BUILDINGS — Three years ago the going rate for land was $500 a square foot in prime city business real estate. With sales "pretty much limited to businesses wanting to expand into the building next door," Patton said, there is no data available to determine prices.

What is true of nearly every other city in the country, is also true of New York: the city overbuilt commercial office space. "There is around 28 million square feet of vacant space in New York City today," Patton said. That's 15 per cent of all space available. The vacancy rate in Atlanta is 28 per cent, in Los Angeles 20 per cent and Chicago 18 per cent. "Only Washington and Houston are exceptions," said Patton.

FACTORY BUILDINGS — All sales in Manhattan so far this year have been under "distress circumstances," with the

Pittsburgh Teachers Strike Third Time In Eight Years

PITTSBURGH (AP) — School teachers went on strike today for the third time in eight years, but the city's 62,000 public school pupils were told to report to class this afternoon.

Representatives of the city's 3,700 teachers and 700 para-professionals cheered their approval Sunday night when Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers President Albert Fondy asked for a vote to strike.

The union, unmoved by the school board's 11th hour offer of $1,000 across-the-board annual raises, rejected the board's third request to extend the contract through December. The old contract expired at midnight Sunday.

"That offer was based on the assumption that the only thing that can prevent a strike is salary, which isn't the case," said Fondy.

"There are a whole lot of issues to be settled, none of which were dealt with during the months of negotiations. It would have been foolish of us to extend the contract," he said.

School Supt. Jerry C. Olson ordered non-striking employees to report to work as scheduled at the city's 104 schools today. Under state law, they are required to cross teacher picket lines.

Although students were told to average price 92 per cent of city assessments. Real estate men are proposing that the city allow factories and loft buildings to be converted to residential buildings. This has been done in Soho, a section of the Lower East Side where a residential community has risen among the ruins of a commercial area.

COOPERATIVE APARTMENTS — The cooperative market is depressed because all cost factors are up. These include fuel costs, maintenance, labor and taxes. "People bought a lot of cooperatives in the late 1960s and early 1970s when they thought rents would be decontrolled and prices would go sky high," said Patton. "But rents stayed controlled, and the owners of the cooperatives have to bear the increased costs."

Cooperative owners get their apartments by purchasing shares in the cooperative organization that owns the building. Operating costs are shared. Lawyer Weprin said he knew of one cooperative apartment in the East Side of Manhattan "which anyone could have for free — as long as they contracted to pay the $1,500 monthly maintenance costs."

What little movement in the market there is concentrated in the most desirable parts of Manhattan. Real estate men say the comparatively small brownstone market is moving as usual. Brownstones are small buildings with four or five floors.

"There is a substantial demand for these buildings for people wanting to move back into the city, and they are selling because they are largely, or partially, rent decontrolled," said Real Estate Board president Patton.

Bangor Troop Wins Yule Trophy

BANGOR — Explorer Scout troop 200 of Bangor won the Mayor's Trophy as the best float entry in the Bangor Christmas parade here Saturday afternoon.

The Lions President's trophy went to Cub Scout den 5 and the Lawrence high school band was selected as best among band units, according to parade officials.

The award winners were among some 20 floats or marching units in the parade.

FLORIN FUNERAL SERVICE

The union wants 15 per cent wage hikes for its para-professional members. The board offered 7 per cent.

The board says it only has $1 million to work with in negotiating a contract. The teachers say their demands will cost $10 million.

Non-economic issues under discussion include class size, pupil discipline and working hours. The board considers these policy decisions and wants to eliminate them from negotiations.

City teachers also struck in 1968 and 1971.

Top-Ranked Hoosiers Make Believers Of Bartow, UCLA

From Associated Press

Indiana proved they deserved their No. 1 ranking," said UCLA Coach Gene Bartow. "I only hope we have another match with Indiana in March."

Bartow was referring to the NCAA Tournament and it may take his second-ranked Bruins that long to recover from Saturday night's 84-64 loss to Indiana. The Hoosiers, top-ranked in the Associated Press pre-season poll, broke on top 15-8 after 6½ minutes, led 36-28 at the half and were never seriously threatened over the last 20 minutes.

Only a strong performance by the Bruins' Richard Washington, netting 20 of his 28 points in the second half, kept the game from becoming a complete rout. Scott May led the Hoosiers with 33 points and Kent Benson added 17. Washington and Marques Johnson, who had 18 points, were the only Bruins who could score more than six points against the tenacious Indiana defense.

"We're feeling our way a little," admitted Bartow after his rocky debut as John Wooden's successor. "It's obvious we're not in mid-season form. Indiana is a super team that already is in form."

Elsewhere, as many of the nation's top teams got underway, Kansas State became the first ranked team to get upset, dropping a 66-58 decision to Texas Tech. Tech's Rick Bullock was a one-man gang against the 14th-ranked Wildcats with 32 points, nine rebounds and a pair of blocked shots.

No. 3 Maryland overpowered East Carolina 127-84; No. 5 North Carolina bombed Howard University 115-75; No. 7 Notre Dame whipped Kent State 90-61; No. 8 Louisville beat No. 19 Memphis State 79-74; No. 9 Tennessee downed Biscayne 81-63; No. 10 Cincinnati topped Cleveland State 98-65; No. 13 North Carolina State clubbed The Citadel 103-75; No. 15 San Francisco defeated UC-Davis 90-70; No. 17 Providence cruised by Brown 71-51, and No. 20 Syracuse defeated Harvard 83-70.

Steve Sheppard pumped in 28 points and John Lucas added 24 as Maryland set a school scoring record. The Torps sank 58 per cent of their shots from the field.

Mitch Kupchak had 24 points and 14 rebounds for North Carolina. The Tar Heels outbounded Howard 54-21.

Forward Adrian Dantley contributed 25 points to Notre Dame's victory over Kent State. The Irish led by just five points at the half but broke it open with 52 points after intermission.

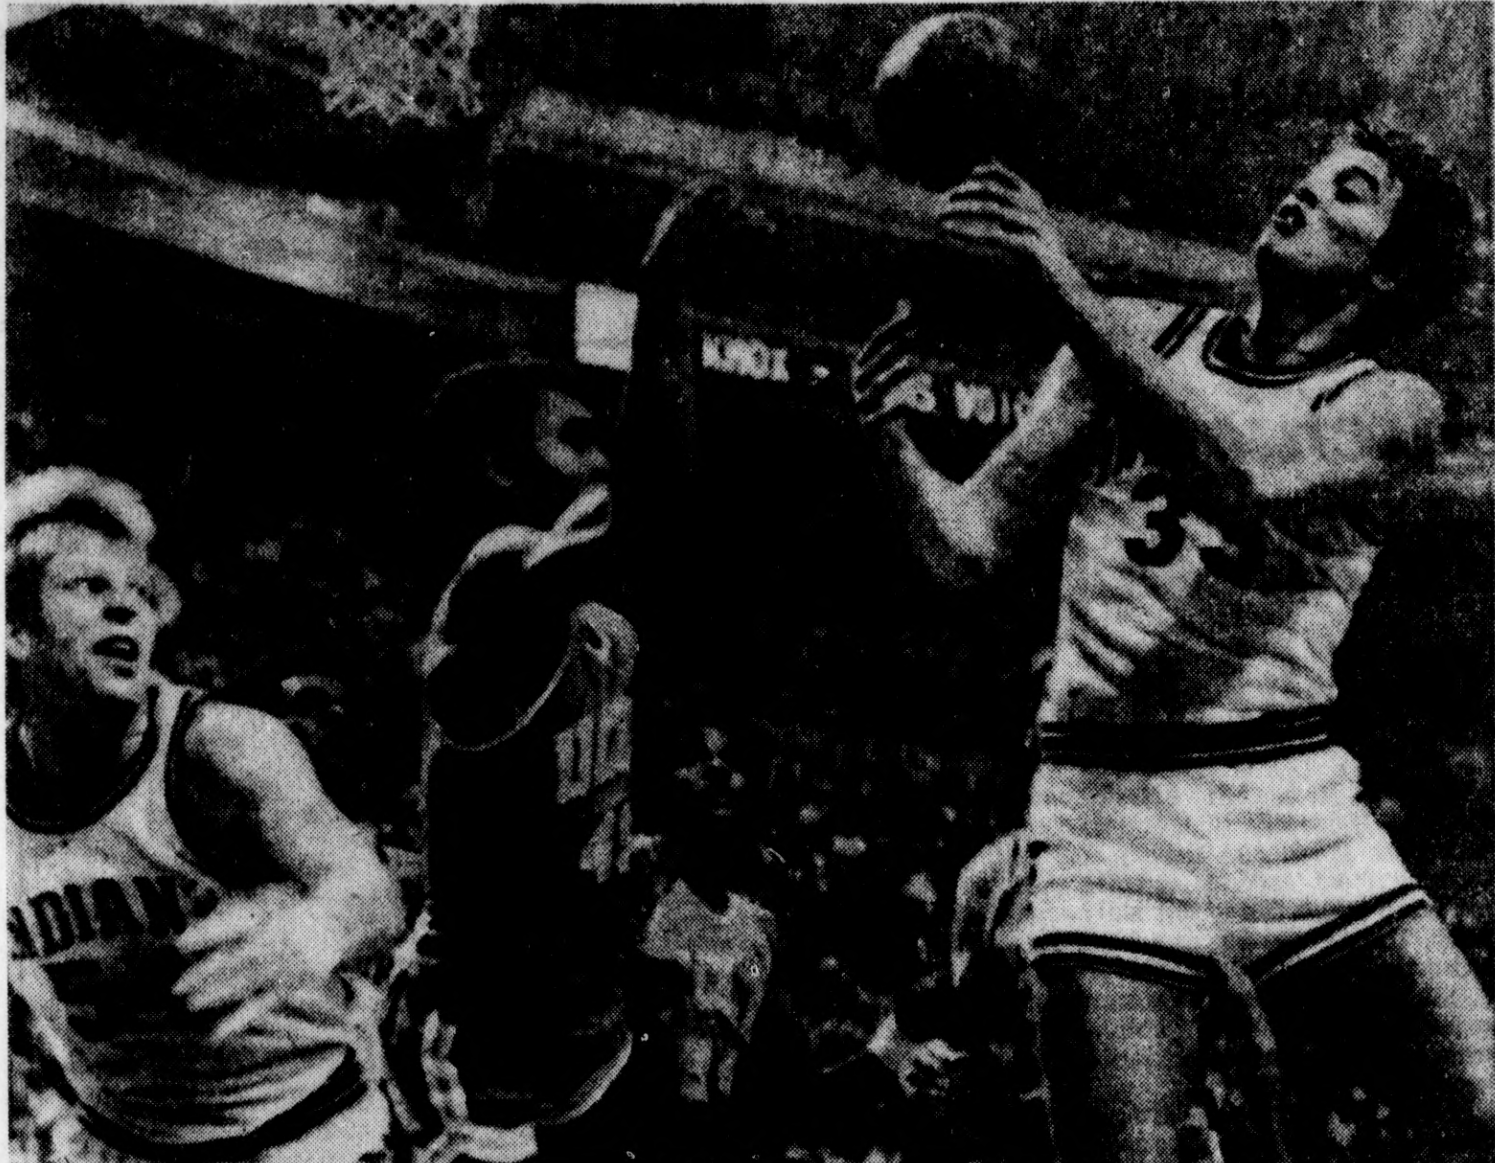

Phillip Bond drove for three layups in the final two minutes to insure Louisville's victory over Memphis State. Tennessee rolled to a 19-4 lead in the first eight minutes and held on behind Ernie Grunfeld's game-high 28 points.

Robert Miller scored 22 points, hitting 11 of 13 shots from the field, and Steve Collier added 20 in Cincinnati's romp over Cleveland State. Phil Spence scored 21 points and had 15 rebounds for North Carolina State. The Wolfpack led 52-35 at the half and coasted home.

Reserve Jeff Randall's 21 points was tops for San Francisco in the 49ers victory over Cal-Davis. Joe Hassett scored 18 points and Bruce Campbell added 16 for Providence in the Friars triumph over Brown.

Marty Byrnes led a balanced Syracuse attack with 19 points as the Orangemen beat Harvard in the consolation game of the IPTAY Invitation Tournament at Clemson. Austin Peay won the tourney by beating Clemson 87-81 behind Charlie Fishback's 27 points.

In other tourneys, Glenn Williams scored 24 points to help St. John's beat Manhattan 79-72 in the finals of the Joe Lapchick Memorial Tournament in New York; Mark Donoghue's 21 points led Massachusetts over Niagara 91-82 in the finals of the Naismith Hall of Fame tourney in Springfield, Mass.; and Kenny Higgins netted 30 points to lead LSU past California 85-68 in the finals of the Louisiana Classic.

Boise Fumbles Give NMU Playoff Victory

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—"I've got a problem. I've got to figure out how to play in cold weather," Boise State Coach Tony Knap says.

The white-haired Knap made the comment shortly after his Broncos lost for the third straight year a chance for the NCAA Division II football championship.

Northern Michigan capitalized on nine Boise State fumbles, recovering six, to win 24-21.

Plane Crash Kills Racer Graham Hill

LONDON (AP) — Investigators probing the air crash which killed former world motor racing champion Graham Hill and five of his team were trying to find answers today to two questions as they examined the burnt-out wreckage of the light airplane he had been piloting.

The first question was why Hill, an experienced pilot, chose in heavy fog to continue to head for an airport with only minimal navigational aids instead of diverting to another nearby airport with full radar landing facilities.

The other question was whether ice forming on the wings of his red and white, twin-engined, six-seat Piper Aztec plane weighed it down and was responsible for sending it crashing into trees near a golf course 10 miles north of London Saturday night.

The plane crashed on the course three miles from Elstree Airport after leaving Mar-seilles, France, and burst into flames. Hill and his team had been testing a new car on a French Riviera racing circuit.

The bodies of Hill, 46 and his five passengers, who included his protegee driver Tony Brise, a 23-year-old Briton, were badly burnt.

Hill was the only man to have won racing's Big Three — the World Championship, which he captured twice, the Indianapolis 500 and the Le Mans 24-hour endurance test. The dapper Englishman retired from Grand Prix racing last July to concentrate on building and sponsoring Formula 1 cars.

Airport authorities at Mar-seilles listed the other persons aboard the plane as engineer Ray Brimble, who designed Hill's latest racing car, and mechanics Andy Smallman, Terry Richards and Tony Halcock. Brimble, Smallman and Richards were all British, Halcock was Australian.

Brockington, Hadl Power 28-7 Rout Green Bay Chills Chicago

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — That winter carnival at Lambeau Field Sunday was a rollicking good time for all—except the Chicago Bears.

The tailgaters partied with gusto, despite 32 mile per hour wind gusts which created a minus 2 degree chill factor. Nor did the swirling snow bother transplanted Californian John Hadl, who completed 11 of 20 passes for 127 yards.

John Brockington powered for 111 yards and three touchdowns in 26 carries, complementing Hadl's passing on a field gradually swept over by an inch of snow. Teammate Dave Purefory recovered one fumble and forced another, setting up two Green Bay touchdowns as the Packers buried the Bears 28-7.

"I really feel good. Everything was working despite the conditions," said Brockington, who had rushed for more than 1,000 yards in three of his previous four National Football League seasons but had shown only 280 for this year before Sunday.

"It was a lot of fun today because the line did a job," he said. "They fired in and moved them out. You don't need big holes—just enough to slash through. And three touchdowns—well, that's just a bonus."

The Packers, held to 41 yards rushing in a 27-14 Chicago victory three weeks earlier, consumed 84 yards in 12 plays on their first series for their longest scoring march of the season.

Hadl passes of 14 and 15 yards to Ken Payne and a 19-yard burst by Brockington, matching his longest run of the season, set up a one-yard scoring plunge by Brockington. The Packers (3-8) led for good at 70 as the Bears (2-9) won nothing but sole possession of last place in the National Conference Central Division.

Mike McCoy stripped the ball from Chicago rookie Walter Payton moments later and Purefory lumbered 11 yards with the recovery to the Bear 11, setting up Brockington's second touchdown.

Brockington also caught three passes for 33 yards, including a 21-yarder from Hadl early in the second quarter. Six plays later, rookie halfback Willard Harrell completed his third touchdown pass in his last three games, a 14-yarder to Steve Odom.

Chicago rookie quarterback Bob Avellini, making his first NFL start, was hammered by Purefory and Dave Roller late in the first half. Packer end Al-den Roche returned the fumble recovery nine yards to the Bear eight, and Brockington scored from there on the next play.

That made it 28-0, and coaches Bart Starr of the Packers and Jack Pardee of the Bears admitted the game was over.

"The first half summed up the ball game," Starr said. "We played very conservatively after that, a little more conservatively than we had anticipated. But if that's what it takes to win, fine. I thought our people played quite well today."

"The weather was a disadvantage when we were behind like that in the second half," Pardee said. "We have had a lot of new experiences this year, and this was one of them. Credit the Packers for playing well in the first half, but in the end, our line was seriously affected by injuries."

The Bears lost star defensive tackle Wally Chambers with arch and knee injuries, defensive end Mike Hartenstein with a sore shoulder, defensive tackle Roger Stillwell with bruised ribs and middle linebacker Larry Ely with a leg injury.

The Bears were held to minus 10 yards passing in the first half and Avellini finished with just nine completions in 25 attempts while being sacked four times.

Still, Avellini connected with Payton for a 40-yard gain in the third period. An ensuing 16-yard interference penalty on Ken Ellis set up Payton's one-yard run for the Bears' touchdown.

"We fought back in the second half and saved some embarrassment," Pardee said. "Avellini was under a lot of pressure when we fell behind as early as we did. When he sees himself under pressure on film, he'll learn a lot about the game and about himself."

The Bears lost three fumbles and had three passes intercepted, despite what seemed to be general agreement that field conditions gave what advantage there was to the offensive teams.

"I have never, ever played in anything like this, but this was fun," said a grinning Hadl, who had spent most of his 14-year NFL career in San Diego and Los Angeles.

"The ball was a little slick, but not bad," he said. "On a wet field, the defense has to protect against the deep pass, so we went to medium and short stuff. It made it tough for their defense to react to our receivers' moves."

Kilmer Stops Viking Streak Blanda FG Gives Raiders AFC West Title

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

All good things have to come to an end some time. For the Minnesota Vikings, it was the end of a perfect season. For the American Conference West, it was the end of a race that never really was.

On Thursday, the Vikings enjoyed not only Thanksgiving dinner but also Los Angeles' 200 victory over Detroit. That not only gave the Rams the title in the National Conference West but also enabled Minnesota to back into the NFC's Central championship.

But on Sunday, with the pressure of a divisional race off, the Vikings stumbled and fell 31-30 to Washington on Billy Kilmer's third touchdown pass of the game, a 15-yarder to Frank Grant with 40 seconds to play.

Oakland, meanwhile, squeezed into its eighth divisional title in nine years by beating Atlanta 37-34. But getting the AFC West crown wasn't easy. First, George Blanda kicked an 18-yard field goal with three seconds left in regulation play to send the game into overtime. Then, on the last play of the extra period, the Raiders' ageless wonder kicked a 36-yarder.

The Raiders needed some help to lock up their title — and they got it from Baltimore. The Colts knocked off the Western runnerup, Kansas City, by a 28-14 score.

By doing so, Baltimore tightened up its own race. The Colts pulled back into a second-place tie with Buffalo in the AFC East, half a game back of Miami, which hosts New England tonight. The Bills played the National Football League's other Thanksgiving Day game, beating St. Louis 32-14.

In the rest of Sunday's action, Pittsburgh whipped the New York Jets 20-7, Cincinnati edged

Houston 23-19, Dallas beat the New York Giants 14-3, Cleveland tripped New Orleans 17-16, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 27-17, Green Bay dumped Chicago 28-7 and Denver slipped past San Diego 13-10 in overtime.

"It looked like we were going to lose," said Coach George Allen, recalling how hiedskins had blown a 21-0 first-half lead. "But we had to have it. Now we have a chance to play the Vikings again in the playoffs."

Kilmer's game-winning drive was keyed by short, over-the-middle passes to Charley Taylor, Mike Thomas and Grant. "We worked that pattern several times against Bobby Bryant," said Kilmer. "He played it pretty tough, but I decided to keep throwing it until he took it away from us."

Bryant never did.

It wasn't really over, though, until Ron McDole charged past the Minnesota line and blocked Fred Cox' 45-yard field goal try with five seconds to go. "Everything seemed to be good," Cox moaned. "The snap was good, the hold was good and I hit it good. But then..."

McDole said he was "was surprised that I got to him so easily. They usually protect the kicker very well."

For the second straight week it was Blanda, Oakland's 48-year-old place-kicker, to the rescue. Last Sunday he'd beaten Washington with a sudden-death field goal.

"That's two in a row like this," said Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler, who threw four touchdown passes against the Falcons. "It sure makes for an exciting game, but I wouldn't want a steady diet of it."

Lydell Mitchell ran 70 yards on a handoff for one touchdown and Jackie Wallace ran 42 yards with an interception for another to spearhead Baltimore's sixth straight victory.

Bert Jones also had a hand in the proceedings against Kansas City. He passed 17 yards to Raymond Chester for a TD and set up Bill Olds' one-yard scoring plunge with a 58-yard pass to Glenn Doughty. Len Dawson passed to Doug Dressler and Larry Brunson for the Chiefs' fourth-quarter touchdowns.

Terry Bradshaw threw touchdown passes of 44 yards to Franco Harris and eight yards to Frank Lewis and Pittsburgh intercepted four Joe Namath passes to beat the Jets and stay one game ahead of Cincinnati in the AFC's Central Division.

John Reaves, making his first start since 1972 in place of injured Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson, threw second-period touchdown passes of 34 and 18 yards to Chip Myers to beat the Oilers. Reaves, fighting both Houston and a steady downpour, clicked on 13 of 23 passes for 162 yards.

Dallas rode a pair of Roger Staubach bombs past the Giants and into a first-place tie with St. Louis in the NFC East. Staubach hit Jean Fugett on a 54-yard TD pass play and clicked on a 62-yarder to Golden Richards that set up Doug Dennison's one-yard scoring plunge.

Cleveland spotted New Orleans a 16-3 lead, then charged back with two fourth-quarter touchdowns to squeeze past the Saints. Mike Phipps' 22-yard pass to Reggie Rucker started the comeback and Greg Pruitt's eight-yard run capped it.

Mike Boryla threw touchdown passes of five yards to James McAlister, 11 yards to Harold Carmichael and 42 to Charlie Young to carry Philadelphia past San Francisco.

Jim Turner, whose 23-yard field goal attempt with four seconds left in regulation play was blocked, made up for it with a 25-yarder in overtime to carry Denver past San Diego and keep the Chargers winless.

Michigan Teen Bounces To World Record

EDMORE, Mich. (AP) — Mark Andersen, 17, a junior at Edmore's Montabella High School, climbed down from the trampoline at 2:37 a.m. Sunday after setting a new world bouncing record. Andersen, complete with a pit crew of classmates and enough fans to keep him awake, started jumping at 8 a.m. Thanksgiving Day on a trampoline on the stage at his high school. He didn't quit until 66 hours and 37 minutes — and 318,800 bounces — later, easily smashing the old world trampoline bouncing record, 64½ hours. The old record shared by three Australians was set 2½ years ago, according to the Guinness Book of World Records.

"I got the idea off the side of those new Dixie Cups they have out now," Andersen said. "The one's with all the world records printed on the side." The youth, 5-foot-6 and 120 pounds, said he wants to go to trade school and become a carpenter after he completes high school. "I can't stay awake anymore," Andersen said as his pit crew escorted him to a hot shower in the school locker room after his record-setting performance.

His pit crew gave him rubdowns or cold showers once each hour during five-minute breaks. The world record-holders in 1973 took five-minute breaks each hour, too. To keep Andersen alert, his classmates and friends played catch, tossing a volleyball back and forth to Mark as he bounced. During one break, his handlers rubbed snow on him to keep him alert. Spectators kept him awake with conversation. "I'm fine, I'm okay," Andersen told his fans as he bounced. "I'm gonna get the record." Peter Injasoulian, the school athletic director and assistant principal who became Andersen's unofficial manager, said his star was drowsy at times, especially in the early morning hours.

At the 58-hour mark, Injasoulian reported, "He's not bouncing high, but he's bouncing, sometimes on his feet, and other times on his back. Doc says he's relaxed, his pulse is down and he ought to make it." "Doc" was Dr. Thomas Deurloo, a private physician and also doctor for some of the school's athletic teams, who checked Andersen's condition every four hours during breaks.

The Guinness record book says tops for trampolining was set between May 21-24, 1973, by three Australians — Roger Weddall, Michael Tyler and Michael Hannan in North Bolwyn, Australia. Andersen's trampolining drew more than $1,200 in pledges from parents, merchants and classmates anxious to support the school's athletic department, said Injasoulian. He jumped in blue shorts, a pair of white sweat socks which he changed every four hours and a white T-shirt with blue lettering saying "Super Tramp."

Compromise On Compensation Bill Is Up For Test

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and legislative Democrats will begin this week efforts to untangle the latest issue placing them at partisan loggerheads — workers' compensation. Milliken already has threatened to veto a labor-oriented bill, written by majority Democrats, pending in the Senate. With lawmakers hoping to adjourn by mid-December, this week may determine whether a compromise can be reached or a standoff will result over increasing benefits to Michigan's injured workers.

The issue recalls the dispute over unemployment compensation earlier this year. The Democrats want to do right by the working man — their traditional constituent — and the Republicans warn that the bill will cost so much that it will drive business, thus jobs, out of the state.

The unemployment compensation battle took weeks to resolve, and a second bitter battle, over teacher strikes, drew a gubernatorial veto. But so far, both sides sound ready to seek an agreement on workers' compensation and avoid a stalemate.

One reason is the time element. Under the complex constitutional rules of when a law takes effect, the bill must be passed by Dec. 31 or it won't go into effect until a year from next April.

Giving it "immediate effect" would solve that, but the bill is so controversial nobody believes that a two-thirds vote can be rounded up for that action.

In an attempt to move toward Senate passage of the bill this week, Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, prompted a high-level meeting between Democrats and Milliken's aides last week.

The meeting — to be continued today — outlined the differences of opinion over the issue.

"I'm prepared to get an agreement in the Senate," Fitzgerald said. "But if the Republicans don't get off dead center, it will be difficult."

His GOP counterpart, Sen. Robert Davis of Gaylord, said Fitzgerald's timetable is "impractical." He warned — as did the governor — that Republicans "are going to very adamant — we're not going to cave in."

Milliken says he won't accept very many changes in the bill he proposed to the legislature. The Democratic bill in the Senate couldn't be much farther from his suggestions.

First of all, Republicans say they won't agree to anything which costs much more than Milliken's bill.

Michigan businesses paid roughly $335 million in workers' compensation insurance premiums last year, GOP aides say, and the governor's bill would add some 4.6 per cent, or about $25 million.

The Democratic bill, however, would add 30 to 40 per cent, or between $190 million and $210 million. That, the GOP says, would cripple business and further erode the state's business climate.

The cost differences stem from the following points of conflict:

— Democrats want to continue basic benefits at the current two-thirds of the worker's gross weekly wage. Milliken wants to change them to 80 per cent of take-home pay.

— Democrats want to raise the maximum possible benefit to the state average weekly wage and then increase the maximum in steps to double that level by 1978. Republicans want to limit the ceiling to the average weekly wage.

— Democrats want to provide retroactive benefit increases to those already receiving payments. Benefits for a recipient would go up by the same percentage the average weekly wage has increased since his injury. Milliken opposes such retroactivity.

— Democrats want to tie all future benefits — including those brought up to date by retroactivity — to the cost of living, thus providing for automatic increases for inflation. Republicans want to coordinate benefits with Social Security payments, freezing the portion paid through Workers' Compensation.

— Democrats want to add two injuries — hearing loss and serious, permanent disfigurement — to the list of injuries for which a worker can receive a flat grant in addition to wage-loss payments. Republicans don't want to include such injuries.

"I've got to have cost of living, and I've got to have retroactivity, because it's fair," Fitzgerald said. A Milliken aide responded that "it's humane, but it just costs too much money."

Another battle will shape up over the retiree issue — the problem in which a worker retires and then files a claim for a work-related injury.

The Democrats' left this out of their bill. Milliken wants to end abuses of the system by eliminating lump-sum benefits for retirees, providing only weekly benefits, and limiting benefits to those based on whatever wage the worker could earn under Social Security or pension restrictions.

In other action this week, the legislature expects to receive Milliken's second executive order to cut the budget some $125 million to help avert a deficit of about $280 million. Democrats rejected the first cutback order of $150 million, and have talked Milliken's deficit forecast down from $298 million to $280 million.

The Senate has a key open meetings bill to thrash out, while the House is expected to take up legislation to put part of the new political reform law in effect next month.

A two-thirds vote is needed to allow rapid appointment of the political ethics commission to allow it to begin implementing the complex law so it covers next August's primary election.

Pullman Resident Is Killed When Car Strikes Tree

KALAMAZOO — A Pullman man was killed yesterday when the car he was a passenger in struck a tree about four miles northeast of Kalamazoo. Kalamazoo sheriff's deputies said Robert E. Foley, 22, of Pullman, a community in Allegan county, was pronounced dead at the scene of the 2:10 a.m. accident by a deputy medical examiner.

The driver of the car, Charles M. Miller, 22, route 4, Allegan, was arrested on a charge of negligent homicide and was lodged in the Kalamazoo county jail pending arraignment today, officers said.

Miller received a cut chin in the accident and another passenger, Quinton D. Kennedy, 24, also of Pullman, was not injured, according to officers.

Officers said the Miller car was travelling west on G avenue near Gull road when the car ran off the road and slammed into a tree.

LAYOFFS PROTESTED

Allegan Sheriff's Deputies Picketing

ALLEGAN — Allegan sheriff's deputies were picketing the county building here this morning and were handing out leaflets protesting recent county board actions which have resulted in three deputies being laid off.

Sheriff Robert Whitcomb said about 20 deputies were picketing today, representing their bargaining unit, the Fraternal Order of Police lodge 151.

"All they're doing is trying to make the people aware of what the county board of commissioners is doing," said Whitcomb. "The board is lying to the public," he added.

Whitcomb said he was forced to lay off three deputies from his 41-man department on Oct. 31 after the county board's finance committee cut $8,000 from the sheriff's payroll account.

Whitcomb said statements recently made by board members that they did not order the layoffs were false.

"The finance committee chairman (John Vogelezang) claims he didn't order us or tell us to fire anybody. But, they cut off our money, so what else could we do?" Whitcomb said.

He cited a letter he received from the finance committee on Oct. 27 which said $8,000 had been transferred from the permanent salaries account to various other accounts within the sheriff's department.

Whitcomb said he had earlier requested fund transfers to pay bills, but he said he did not want the funds to be transferred from the salaries account.

The deputies have threatened to picket not only county facilities, but also the homes and businesses of the board of commissioners.

In an open letter to county residents, the deputies claim the board of commissioners has dictated the layoffs, and in so doing, usurped the statutory authority of the sheriff, which is to hire and fire at his pleasure.

$60,000 Michiana Home Is Destroyed

MICHIANA — Fire of undetermined origin early yesterday destroyed a Michiana house valued at $60,000 by its owner.

State police from the New Buffalo post said Julius Tockman, Chicago, net the value when contacted about the fire.

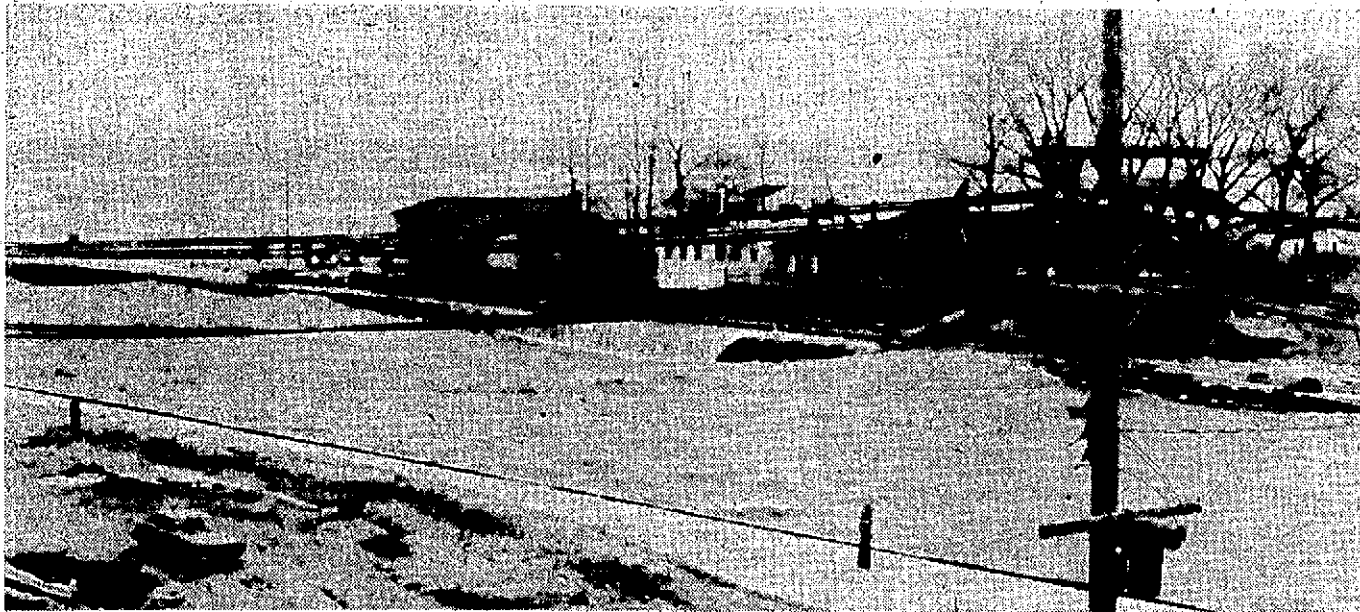

According to police, the house at 21 Pokagon street was being rented by four men but that no one was in the house when the fire was discovered about 12:05 a.m.

Police said the four were believed to have been at work in Indiana. Their names were not immediately determined, police said.

Officers said the fire apparently started in a bedroom of the 1½ story structure and then spread to the rest of it. New Buffalo township firemen who battled the blaze said the cause had not yet been determined.

St. Joe Wins Season Opener 68-45

Balanced Bears Bounce Lancers

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Beware Big Seven conference. St. Joseph has already served notice that it intends to be a title contender again this season.

The Bears combined balanced scoring and good shooting with a tenacious defense Saturday night to blast rival Lakeshore 68-45 before an overflow crowd of about 3,000 fans at Lakeshore.

The defense was what pleased Bear coach George Gaunder about the victory.

"We wanted to start out with a harassing defense which we did," he said. "That was probably the only bit of strategy we had. Although they did get a few cheap baskets, I felt the defense was pretty effective and set the tempo for us."

"We suspected that we were quicker than they were and that our defense could be one of our strong points. As it turned out it was."

The Bear defense never really allowed Lakeshore to get into the game, forcing 33 turnovers and causing a dismal 30 per cent Lancer shooting effort on 18 of 60 shots.

And as Lakeshore coach Lloyd

MacTavish said, "When you have a poor shooting night with a lot of turnovers you're in for a long night."

Only the shooting of forward Craig Shafer kept the Lancers in the game for most of the first quarter. Shafer finished with 19 points, including eight in the first period. His basket in the opening minute gave Lakeshore its only lead at 2-0. But the Bears reeled off three straight buckets and never fell behind again.

After a driving layup by Shafer cut the Bear lead to 10-8 midway through the quarter, St. Joe scored seven unanswered points to break the game open. The Bears led 22-12 at the end of the first period, and Lakeshore got no closer the rest of the night.

"We were weak where we thought we were going to be weak," MacTavish lamented. "We had an inexperienced backcourt. It wasn't that we had poor players, but just a lack of experience. They had trouble getting the ball inside."

MacTavish went with Kevin Campbell and Jim Rosenhagen at guards due to the absence of Jim Porter. Porter is still nursing an ankle injury suffered during football.

Even when the Lancers were able to penetrate the ball to its two big men, 6-7 Mike Mason and 6-4 Tom Jager, the two were both forced to take poor percentage shots. Mason hit on just two of 13 and finished with five points, while Jager connected on four of 16 and tallied nine.

St. Joe, meanwhile, combined all of the ingredients needed for a winning formula. Four Bears hit for double figures with Cory Benford and Dave Ziebart netting 15, Dale Wright 11 and Mike Collier 10.

The Bears committed just 13 turnovers which Gaunder said was "outstanding as far as I'm concerned."

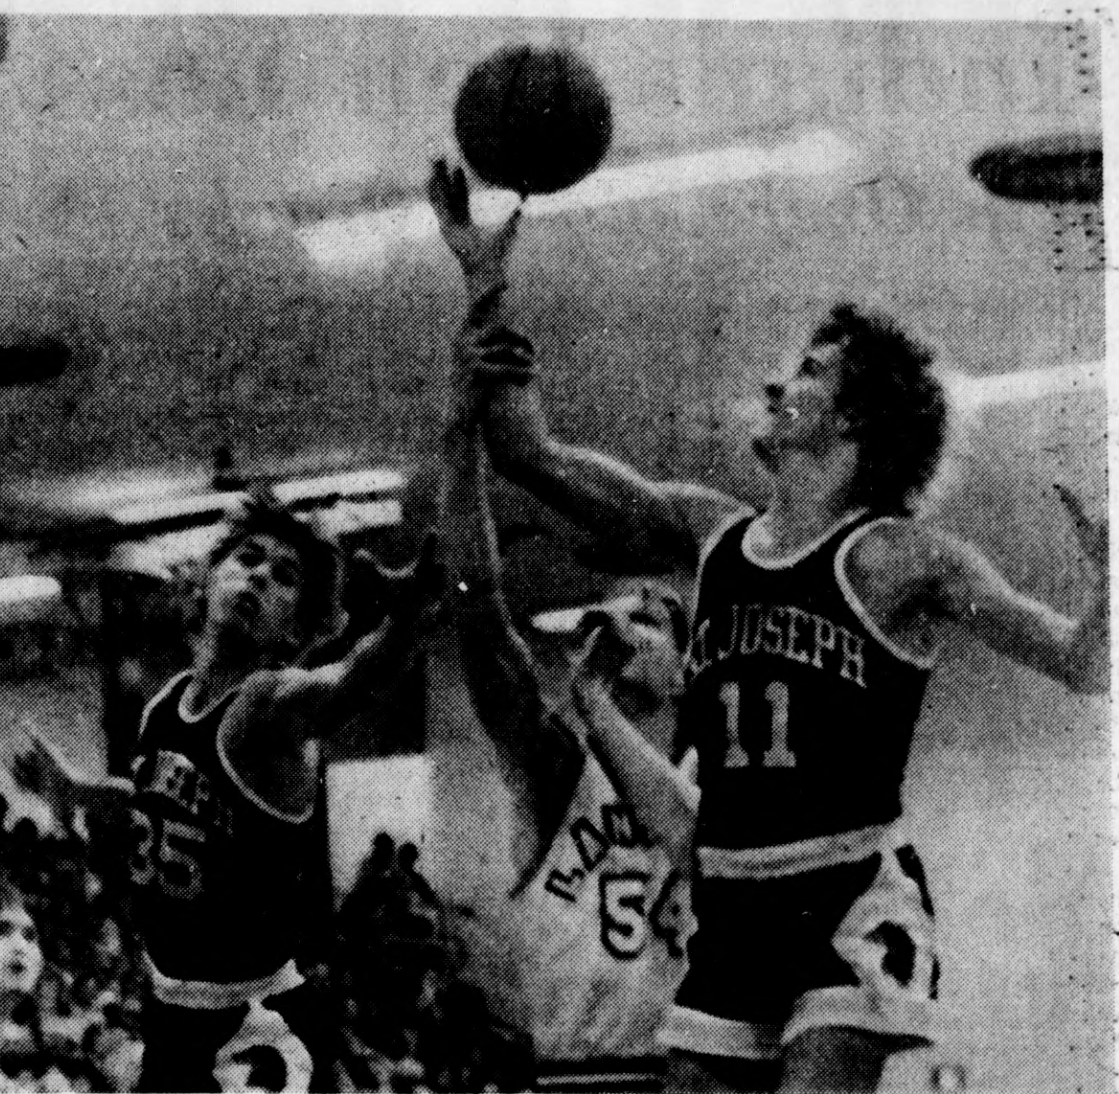

St. Joe hit on 28 of 65 for 43 per cent and also found the range on 12 of 14 from the charity stripe.

Lakeshore held the edge rebounding 41-28 with Jager grabbing 13. Wright paced the Bears with 10.

MacTavish was disappointed, but not disheartened by the loss.

"We have the nucleus for a good team," he said. "I believe this team can come back."

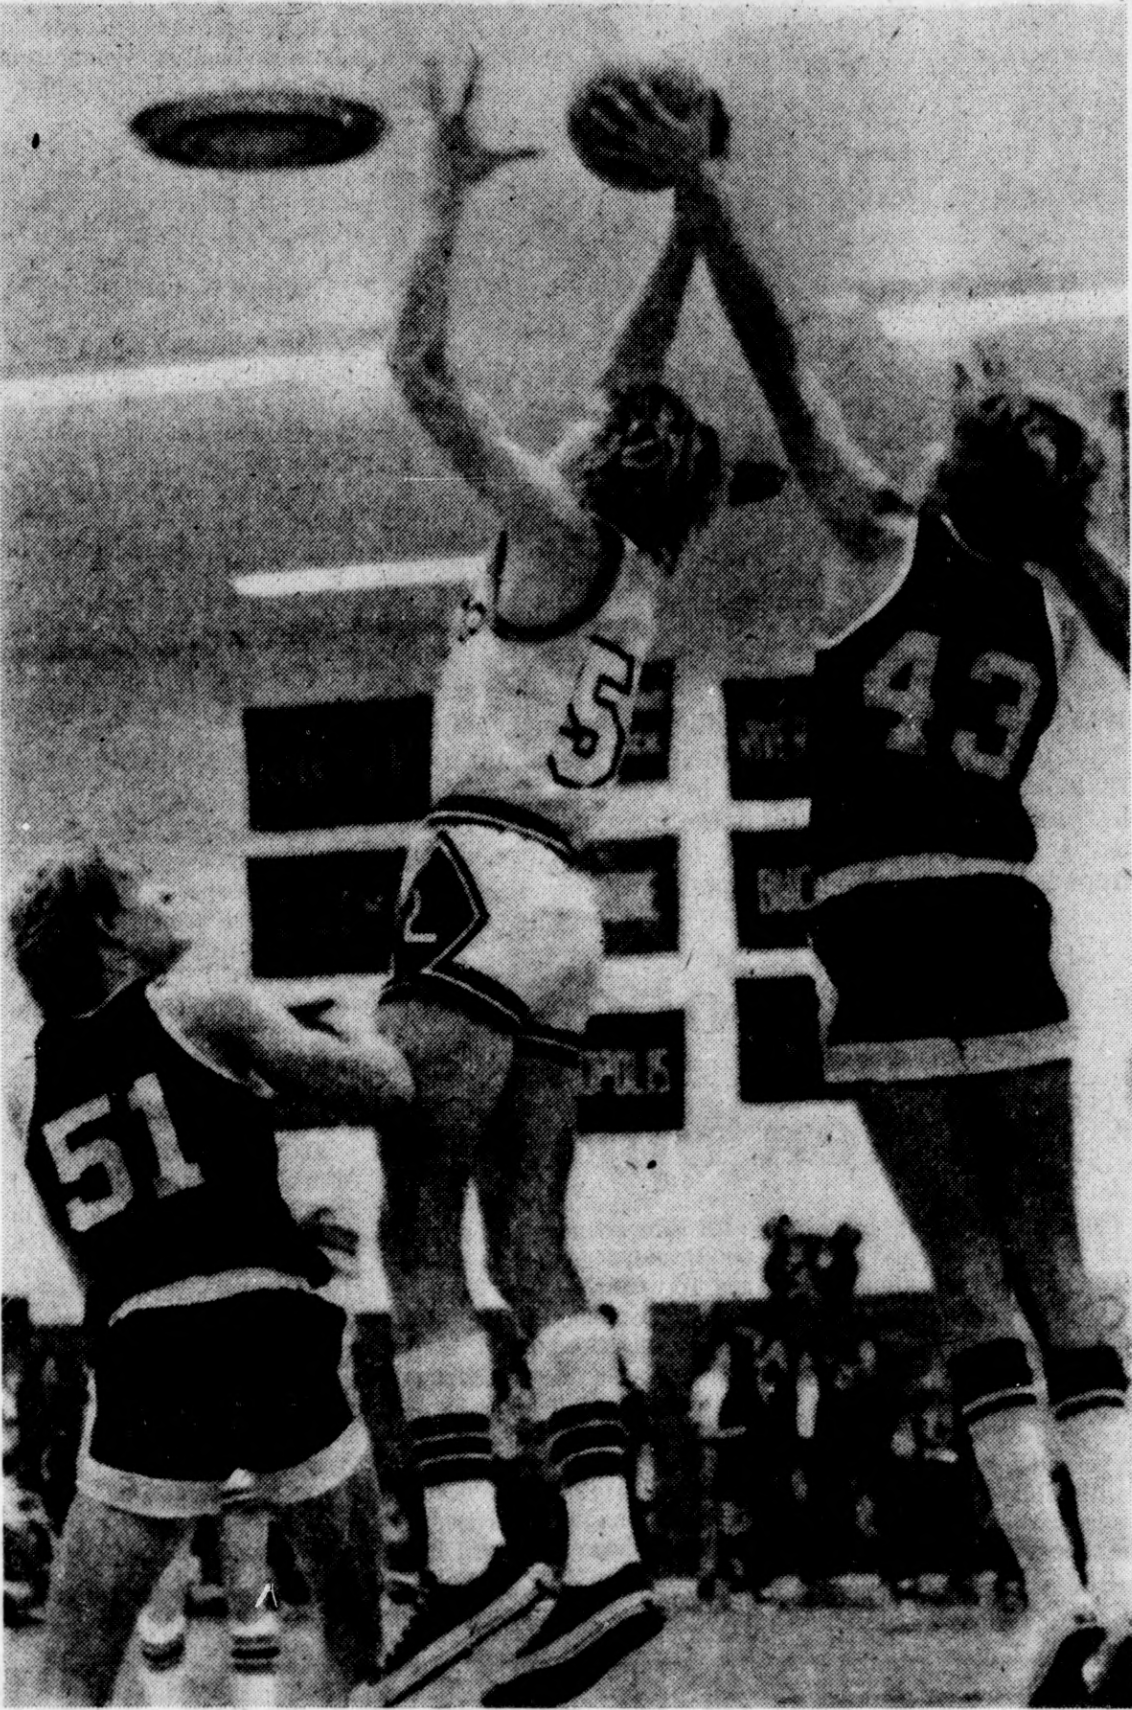

But the going won't be easy for the Lancers, who face four of the area's top teams in Cassopolis, South Haven, Dowagiac and Buchanan in its next four games.

DANCE ANYONE?: St. Joseph's Dave Ziebart (35) and Cory Benford (11) appear almost to be dancing as they struggle with Lakeshore's Tom Jager (54) for this loose ball in Saturday's game at Lakeshore. Ziebart and Benford each scored 15 points to spark the Bears to an easy 68-45 victory. (Carl Hartman photo)

Mustangs Beaten

By Free Throws

THREE OAKS — Michigan City Marquette built up a 28-13 halftime lead and coasted to a 43-38 victory over River Valley here Saturday night in the season opener for the Mustangs.

"We just got ourselves in too deep of a hole," River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer said. "We came back gradually but just couldn't get over the hump."

The Mustangs lost the game at the foul line where Michigan City hit 13 of 21. River Valley could connect on only four of 17.

River Valley hit 17 of 57 from the floor for a measly 30 per cent. Marquette meshed 15 of 37 for 41 per cent.

Michigan City held a 36-28 board advantage Paul Wiese pulling down 11 for Marquette. Kevin Griffendorf, who was the only Mustang to score in double figures with 10 points, also pulled down nine rebounds.

Greg Johnson, a two-year starter for the Mustangs, did not play disciplinary for reasons. He will return to the lineup Tuesday.

River Valley did win the junior varsity game 50-45 with Gary Schaffer scoring 20 for the winners.

Top-Ranked Hoosiers Make Believers Of Bartow, UCLA

From Associated Press
Indiana proved they deserved their No. 1 ranking, said UCLA Coach Gene Bartow. "I only hope we have another match with Indiana in March."

Bartow was referring to the NCAA Tournament and it may take his second-ranked Bruins that long to recover from Saturday night's 84-84 loss to Indiana. The Hoosiers, top-ranked in the Associated Press pre-season poll, broke on top 15-8 after 3 1/2 minutes, led 36-28 at the half and were never seriously threatened over the last 20 minutes.

Only a strong performance by the Bruins' Richard Washington, netting 20 of his 28 points in the second half, kept the game from becoming a complete rout. Scott May led the Hoosiers with 23 points and Kent Benson added 17. Washington and Marques Johnson, who had 18 points, were the only Bruins who could score more than six points against the tenacious Indiana defense.

"We're feeling our way a little," admitted Bartow after his rocky debut as John Wooden's successor. "It's obvious we're not in mid-season form. Indiana is a superb team that already is in form."

Elsewhere, as many of the nation's top teams got underway, Kansas State became the first ranked team to get upset, dropping a 66-58 decision to Texas Tech. Tech's Rick Bullock was a one-man gang against the 14th-ranked Wildcats with 32 points, nine rebounds and a pair of blocked shots.

No. 3 Maryland overpowered East Carolina 127-84; No. 5 North Carolina bombed Howard University 115-75; No. 7 Notre Dame whipped Kent State 90-61; No. 8 Louisville beat No. 19 Memphis State 79-74; No. 9 Tennessee downed Biscayne 81-63; No. 10 Cincinnati topped Cleveland State 96-85; No. 13 North Carolina State clubbed The Citadel 103-75; No. 15 San Francisco defeated UC-Davis 90-70; No. 17 Providence cruised by Brown 71-51; and No. 20 Syracuse defeated Harvard

Steve Sheppard pumped in 28 points and John Lucas added 24 as Maryland set a school scoring record. The Terps sank 58 per cent of their shots from the field.

Mich Kupchak had 24 points and 14 rebounds for North Carolina. The Tar Heels outrebounded Howard 54-21.

Forward Adrian Dantley contributed 25 points to Notre Dame's victory over Kent State. The Irish led by just five points at the half but broke it open with 32 points after intermission.

Phillip Bond drove for three layups in the final two minutes to insure Louisville's victory over Memphis State. Tennessee rolled to a 19-4 lead in the first eight minutes and held on behind Ernie Grunfeld's game-high 28 points.

Robert Miller scored 22 points, hitting 11 of 13 shots from the field, and Steve Collier added 20 in Cincinnati's romp over Cleveland State. Phil Spence scored 21 points and had 15 rebounds for North Carolina State. The Wolfpack led 52-35 at the half and coasted home.

Reserve Jeff Randall's 21 points was tops for San Francisco in the 49ers victory over Cal-Davis. Joe Hassett scored 18 points and Bruce Campbell added 16 for Providence in the Friars triumph over Brown.

Marty Byrnes led a balanced Syracuse attack with 19 points as the Orangemen beat Harvard in the consolation game of the IPTAY Invitation Tournament at Clemson. Austin Poy won the tourney by beating Clemson, 87-81 behind Charlie Fishback's 27 points.

In other tourneys, Glenn Williams scored 24 points to help St. John's beat Manhattan 79-72 in the finals of the Joe Lapchick Memorial Tournament in New York; Mark Donoghue's 21 points led Massachusetts over Niagara 91-82 in the finals of the Naismith Hall of Fame tourney in Springfield, Mass.; and Kenny Higgs netted 30 points to lead LSU past California 85-68 in the finals of the Louisiana Classic.

LOOSE BALL: Indiana's Tom Abernathy (33) and UCLA's Andre McCarter (45) scramble for a loose ball during the second half of the season opening game played at St. Louis University Saturday night. Boise Fumbles Give NMU Playoff Victory

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—"I've got a problem. I've got to figure out how to play in cold weather," Boise State Coach Tony Knap says.

The white-haired Knap made the comment shortly after his Broncos lost for the third straight year a chance for the NCAA Division II football championship.

Northern Michigan capitalized on nine Boise State fumbles, recovering six, to win 24-21

Saturday and advance to the semi-finals of the NCAA playoffs. Last year Boise State lost to Central Michigan 20-6 on another finger-numbing cold day in the playoffs.

It may have been Boise State's last chance for a shot at the Division II playoffs since the Big Sky Conference hopes to move up to Division IA in football next year—if that division is established by the NCAA.

Although Boise State lost six of its nine fumbles, the ball bounced better for the Wildcats, who lost only one of its nine fumbles.

Ironically, it was the lone recovery of a Northern Michigan fumble which gave the Broncos their first touchdown—and a 7-3 halftime lead. Midway in the opening period Alva Liles recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown.

But in the second half Steve Marlucci tossed for one touchdown and ran for another to tie the game for the Wildcats.

Northern Michigan's first touchdown came on a 33-yard pass to Zachary Fowler, but Boise State came right back with John Smith running 50 yards to put the Broncos back into the lead.

Then Northern Michigan capitalized on two fumble recoveries to score two more touchdowns. Randy Awrey plunged in from one yard out after Linebacker Randy Zimmerman recovered a fumble on the Boise State 32. Marlucci scored on a 16-yard run after the Wildcats bounced on another Boise State fumble early in the fourth quarter.

Greg Stern threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Mike Holton with only one minute 23 seconds left, but the Broncos weren't able to come back from behind Saturday as they had done twice earlier this season in the final minute of play.

Plane Crash Kills Racer Graham Hill

LONDON (AP)—Investigators probing the air crash which killed former world motor racing champion Graham Hill and five of his team were trying to find answers today to two questions: they examined the burnt-out wreckage of the light airplane he had been piloting.

The first question was why Hill, an experienced pilot, chose to fly in a small plane to head for an airport with only minimal navigational aids instead of diverting to another nearby airport with full radar landing facilities.

The other question was whether ice forming on the wings of his red and white, twin-engine, six-seat Piper Aztec plane weighed it down and was responsible for sending it crashing into trees near a golf course 10 miles north of London Saturday night.

The plane crashed on the course three miles from Elstree Airport after leaving Marcellis, France, and burst into flames. Hill and his team had been testing a new car on a French Riviera racing circuit.

The bodies of Hill, 46 and his five passengers, who included his protégé driver Tony Brise, a 23-year-old Briton, were badly hurt.

Hill was the only man to have won racing's Big Three—the World Championship, which he captured twice, the Indianapolis 500 and the Le Mans 24-hour endurance test. The dapper Englishman retired from Grand Prix racing last July to concentrate on building and sponsoring Formula 1 cars.

Airport authorities at Marcellis listed the other persons aboard the plane as engineer Ray Brimble, who designed Hill's latest racing car, and mechanics Andy Smallman, Terry Richards and Tony Halcock. Brimble, Smallman and Richards were all British, Halcock was Australian.

Brockington, Hadl Power 28-7 Rout Green Bay Chills Chicago

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—That winter carnival at Lambeau Field Sunday was a rollicking good time for all—except the Chicago Bears.

The tailgaters partied with gusto, despite 32 mile per hour wind gusts which created a minus 2 degree chill factor. Nor did the swirling snow bother transplanted Californian John Hadl, who completed 11 of 20 passes for 127 yards.

John Brockington powered for 111 yards and three touchdowns in 28 carries, complementing Hadl's passing on a field gradually swept over by an inch of snow. (Teammate Dave Purcell recovered one fumble and forced another, setting up two Green Bay touchdowns as the Packers buried the Bears 28-7.)

"I really feel good. Everything was working despite the conditions," said Brockington, who had rushed for more than 1,000 yards in three of his previous four National Football League seasons but had shown only 280 for this year before Sunday.

"It was a lot of fun today because the line did a job," he said. "They fired in and moved them out. You don't need big holes—just enough to slash through. And three touchdowns—well, that's just a bonus."

The Packers, held to 41 yards rushing in a 27-14 Chicago victory three weeks earlier, consumed 84 yards in 12 plays on their first series for their longest scoring march of the season.

Hadl passes of 14 and 15 yards to Ken Payne and a 18-yard burst by Brockington, matching his longest run of the season, set up a one-yard scoring plunge by Brockington. The Packers (3-8) led for good at 70 as the Bears (2-9) won nothing but sole possession of last place in the National Conference Central Division.

Mike McCoy stripped the ball from Chicago rookie Walter Payton moments later and Purcelly lumbered 11 yards with the recovery to the Bear 11, setting up Brockington's second touchdown.

Brockington also caught three passes for 33 yards, including a 21-yarder from Hadl early in the second quarter. Six plays later, rookie halfback Willard Harrell completed his third touchdown pass in his last three games, a 14-yarder to Steve Odom.

Chicago rookie quarterback Bob Avellini, making his first NFL start, was hammered by Purcelly and Dave Roller late in the first half. Packer end Alden Roche returned the fumble recovery nine yards to the Bear eight, and Brockington scored from there on the next play.

That made it 28-0, and coaches Bart Starr of the Packers and Jack Pardee of the Bears admitted the game was over.

"The first half summed up the ball game," Starr said. "We played very conservatively after that, a little more conservatively than we had anticipated. But if that's what it takes to win, fine. I thought our people played quite well today."

"The weather was a disadvantage when we were behind like that in the second half," Pardee said. "We have had a lot of new experiences this year, and this was one of them. Credit the Packers for playing well in the first half, but in the end, our line was seriously affected by injuries."

The Bears lost star defensive tackle Wally Chambers with arch and knee injuries, defensive end Mike Hartenstein with a sore shoulder, defensive tackle Roger Stillwell with bruised ribs and middle linebacker Larry Ely with a leg injury.

The Bears were held to minus 10 yards passing in the first half and Avellini finished with just nine completions in 25 attempts while being sacked four times.

"Still, Avellini connected with Payton for a 40-yard gain in the third period. An ensuing 16-yard interference penalty on Ken Ellis set up Payton's one-yard run for the Bears' touchdown."

"We fought back in the second half and saved some embarrassment," Pardee said. "Avellini was under a lot of pressure when we fell behind as early as we did. When he sees himself under pressure on film, he'll learn a lot about the game and about himself."

The Bears lost three fumbles and had three passes intercepted, despite what seemed to be general agreement that field conditions gave what advantage there was to the offensive teams.

"I have never, ever played in anything like this, but this was fun," said a grinning Hadl, who had spent most of his 14-year NFL career in San Diego and Los Angeles.

"The ball was a little slick, but not bad," he said. "On a wet field, the defense has to protect against the deep pass, so we went to medium and short stuff. It made it tough for their defense to react to our receivers' moves."

Kilmer Stops Viking Streak Blanda FG Gives Raiders AFC West Title

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
All good things have to come to an end some time. For the Minnesota Vikings, it was the end of a perfect season. For the American Conference West, it was the end of a race that never really was.

On Thursday, the Vikings enjoyed not only Thanksgiving dinner but also Los Angeles' 200 victory over Detroit. That not only gave the Rams the title in the National Conference West but also enabled Minnesota to back into the NFC's Central Championship.

But on Sunday, with the pressure of a divisional race off, the Vikings stumbled and fell 31-30 to Washington on Billy Kilmer's third touchdown pass of the game, a 13-yarder to Frank Grant with 40 seconds to play.

Oakland, meanwhile, squeezed into its eighth divisional title in nine years by beating Atlanta 37-34. But getting the AFC West crown wasn't easy. First, George Blanda kicked an 18-yard field goal with three seconds left in regulation play to send the game into overtime. Then, on the last play of the extra period, the Raiders' ageless wonder kicked a 36-yarder.

The Raiders needed some help to lock up their title—and they got it from Baltimore. The Colts knocked off the Western runnerup, Kansas City, by a 28-14 score.

By doing so, Baltimore tightened up its own race: The Colts pulled back into a second-place tie with Buffalo in the AFC East, half a game back of Miami, which hosts New England tonight. The Bills played the National Football League's other Thanksgiving Day game, beating St. Louis 22-14.

In the rest of Sunday's action, Pittsburgh whipped the New York Jets 20-7, Cincinnati edged

Houston 23-18, Dallas beat the New York Giants 14-3, Cleveland tripped New Orleans 17-16, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 27-17, Green Bay dumped Chicago 28-7 and Denver slipped past San Diego 13-10 in overtime.

"It looked like we were going to lose," said Coach George Allen, recalling how Redskins had blown a 21-0 first-half lead. "But we had to have it. Now we have a chance to play the Vikings again in the playoffs."

Kilmer's game-winning drive was keyed by short, over-the-middle passes to Charley Taylor, Mike Thomas and Grant. "We worked that pattern several times against Bobby Bryant," said Kilmer. "He played it pretty tough, but I decided to keep throwing it until he took it away from us." Bryant never did.

It wasn't really over, though, until Ron McDole charged past the Minnesota line and blocked Fred Cox's 45-yard field goal try with five seconds to go. "Everything seemed to be good," Cox moaned. "The snap was good, the hold was good and I hit it good. But then..."

McDole said he was "surprised that I got to him so easily. They usually protect the kicker very well."

For the second straight week it was Blanda, Oakland's 48-year-old place-kicker, to the rescue. Last Sunday he'd beaten Washington with a sudden-death field goal.

"That's two in a row like this," said Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler, who threw four touchdown passes against the Falcons. "It sure makes for an exciting game, but I wouldn't want a steady diet of it."

Lydel Mitchell ran 70 yards on a handoff for one touchdown and Jackie Wallace ran 42 yards with an interception for another to spearhead Baltimore's sixth straight victory.

Bert Jones also had a hand in the proceedings against Kansas City. He passed 17 yards to Raymond Chester for a TD and set up Bill Oks's one-yard scoring plunge with a 58-yard pass to Glenn Doughty. Left Dawson passed to Doug Dressler and Larry Brunson for the Chiefs' fourth-quarter touchdowns.

Terry Bradshaw threw touchdown passes of 44 yards to Franco Harris and eight yards to Frank Lewis and Pittsburgh intercepted four Joe Namath passes to beat the Jets and stay one game ahead of Cincinnati in the AFC's Central Division.

John Beaves, making his first start since 1972 in place of injured Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson, threw second-period touchdown passes of 34 and 18 yards to Chip Myers to beat the Oilers. Beaves, fighting both Houston and a steady downpour, clicked on 13 of 23 passes for 163 yards.

Dallas rode a pair of Roger Staubach bombs past the Giants and into a first-place tie with St. Louis in the NFC East. Staubach hit Jon Fugett on a 54-yard TD pass play and clicked on a 62-yarder to Golden Richards that set up Doug Denison's one-yard scoring plunge.

Cleveland spotted New Orleans a 16-3 lead, then charged back with two fourth-quarter touchdowns to squeeze past the Saints. Mike Phipps' 22-yard pass to Reggie Rucker started the comeback and Greg Pruitt's eight-yard run capped it.

Mike Boryla threw touchdown passes of five yards to James McAlister, 11 yards to Harold Carmichael and 42 to Charlie Young to carry Philadelphia past San Francisco.

Jim Turner, whose 23-yard field goal attempt with four seconds left in regulation play was blocked, made up for it with a 25-yarder in overtime to carry Denver past San Diego and keep the Chargers winless.

Indians Halt Loss Streak Win Over Coloma Breaks 19-Game Skid

COLOMA — For Hartford, the bitter streak is now over. The Indians snapped a 19-game losing string Saturday night by nipping Coloma 53-52 here.

It was a big third-quarter effort which sparked Hartford to the win. Trailing 36-25 at half-time, the Indians outscored Coloma 18-6 in the third quarter to take a narrow 43-42 edge into

and Karl Webb scored a basket to cut the deficit to one. Coloma got the ball back with five seconds to play, but a last-second shot failed to fall.

The win upped Hartford's record to 1-1 on the year, while the Comets are 0-2.

Hartford held a 43-38 edge in rebounding with Duane Toney pulling down 14 and Gary Fernham 12. Gregg Woodward, who finished as the game's high point man with 19, pulled down 14 rebounds for the Comets.

Joe Jones added 16 points to Woodward's total for Coloma. Dave Sexton sparked Hartford with 15 points, while Fernham added 12 and Toney 11.

Hartford won the game at the foul line, hitting on 19 of 23, while Coloma meshed just eight of 14. From the floor Coloma hit 22 of 55 for 40 per cent, while Hartford hit 17 of 48 for 36 per cent.

Each team committed 19 turnovers.

NASTASE, ASHE DISQUALIFIED: Ilie Nastase (left) looks away from Arthur Ashe Sunday during a news conference in Stockholm after both were disqualified from a tennis match in an incident that threw the first day of the $100,000 Masters Tournament into chaos. Bulldog Offense In High

ELLSWORTH — The Covert offensive machine continued in high gear again Saturday night. Jeff Maggett poured in 30 points as the Bulldogs posted their second straight easy win, this time bombing Ellsworth 95-48.

The Bulldogs, who rolled up 96 points Monday night against New Buffalo, outscored the hosts in every quarter to give coach Rod DeYoung his 100th coaching victory at Covert.

"Again it was our pressing defense which enabled us to pick up a lot of fast breaks," DeYoung said. "It was pretty much the same kind of game as we played Monday. We kept them off guard, but we had to because they were bigger than we were."

Maggett scored 10 points in both the second and third quarters to spark the Bulldogs. "Jeff got a lot of points coming off the fast break," DeYoung said. "He runs the one lane on the fast break and was just in the right spot at the right time."

Robert Maggard added 18 points for the Bulldogs and Phil Robinson and James DeBoe each had 13 with Rodney Barnes tossing in 12.

Randy Holacheck, a bulky 6-4, 220-pound center, paced Ellsworth with 18.

Covert also won the junior varsity game 71-41 with Jeff DeYoung scoring 23.

McCarthy Leads Bobcats' Win Over Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Steve McCarthy scored 32 points and pulled down 15 rebounds Saturday night to give Brandywine a stunning 81-69 win over Berrien Springs here.

The win in the season opener for the Bobcats snapped a four-game Brandywine losing streak. Berrien Springs, which opened its season with a win over Bridgman Friday night, fell to 1-1. The game marked the first time in eight outings that the Shamrocks had yielded more than 70 points.

McCarthy hit on 14 of 22 from the floor and dominated the backboards. Brandywine finished with a 46-37 rebounding edge.

Officials: Herb Phoenix (Buchanan) and Dillard Crocker (Niles).

Paulsen felt that the big win over Bridgman Friday night might have had something to do with his team's lackadaisical play.

The Bobcats led from the outset, grabbing a 17-14 first-quarter edge. Brandywine increased the lead to 42-32 at halftime and led 70-51 after three quarters before calling off the charges.

Ed Pilarski added 19 points for Brandywine. Rick Thiele and Terry Hossein led Berrien with 15 apiece. Thiele also grabbed 12 rebounds.

The Bobcats hit on a blistering 33 of 69 from the floor for 48 per cent. Berrien could find the range on only 28 of 82 for a miserable 34 per cent.

Berrien made 23 turnovers and Brandywine committed 15.

Bridgman's Press Topples Lutheran Wolf, Zilke Score 18 Each In 71-51 Win

BRIDGMAN — Using a man-to-man press, Bridgman broke open a close game in the second half in rolling past Michigan Lutheran 71-51 Saturday night here.

The Bees led just 30-25 at halftime but quickly exploded in the second half in evening their record at 1-1. Michigan Lutheran is 0-2.

"It was just a good solid man-to-man press all over the floor that did the job," Bridgman coach Doug Hendricks said.

Wolfgang Wolf and Dave Zilke led Bridgman with 18 points apiece. Bob Linke added 13 for the winners.

Bob Guse scored 12 and Warren Skoda 10 for Michigan Lutheran.

Bridgman dominated the backboards to a 49-28 advantage with Wolf and John Jones each pulling down 10. The Bees committed 23 turnovers and Michigan Lutheran had 21.

Lutheran found the range on 21 of 48 from the floor for 45 per cent. Bridgman hit on 29 of 62 for 47 per cent.

Bridgman also won the preliminary game 37-30 over Michigan Lutheran. Bill Moreland tossed in 13 for the Bees and Bruce Worris scored 12 for Lutheran.

St. Joe Wins Season Opener 68-45

Balanced Bears Bounce Lancers

By JACK WALKER

Staff Sports Writer
Beware Big Seven conference. St. Joseph has already served notice that it intends to be a title contender again this season.

The Bears combined balanced scoring and good shooting with a tenacious defense Saturday night to blast rival Lakeshore 68-45 before an overflow crowd of about 3,000 fans at Lakeshore.

The defense was what pleased Bear coach George Gaunder about the victory.

"We wanted to start out with a harrassing defense which we did," he said. "That was probably the only bit of strategy we had. Although they did get a few cheap baskets, I felt the defense was pretty effective and set the tempo for us."

"We suspected that we were quicker than they were and that our defense could be one of our strong points. As it turned out it was."

The Bear defense never really allowed Lakeshore to get into the game, forcing 33 turnovers and causing a dismal 30 per cent Lancer shooting effort on 18 of 60 shots.

And as Lakeshore coach Lloyd

MacTavish said, "When you have a poor shooting night with a lot of turnovers you're in for a long night."

Only the shooting of forward Craig Shafer kept the Lancers in the game for most of the first quarter. Shafer finished with 19 points, including eight in the first period, and Lakeshore got no closer the rest of the night.

Bears reeled off three straight buckets and never fell behind again.

After a driving layup by Shafer cut the Bear lead to 10-8 midway through the quarter, St. Joe scored seven unanswered points to break the game open. The Bears led 22-12 at the end of the first period, and Lakeshore got no closer the rest of the night.

"We were weak where we thought we were going to be weak," MacTavish lamented. "We had an inexperienced backcourt. It wasn't that we had poor players, but just a lack of experience. They had trouble getting the ball inside."

MacTavish went with Kevin Campbell and Jim Rosenhagen at guards due to the absence of Jim Porter. Porter is still nursing an ankle injury suffered during football.

Even when the Lancers were able to penetrate the ball to its two big men, 6-7 Mike Mason and 6-4 Tom Jager, the two were both forced to take poor percentage shots. Mason hit on just two of 13 and finished with five points, while Jager connected on four of 16 and tallied nine.

St. Joe, meanwhile, combined all of the ingredients needed for a winning formula. Four Bears hit for double figures with Cory Benford and Dave Ziebart netting 15, Dale Wright 11 and Mike Collier 10.

The Bears committed just 13 turnovers which Gaunder said was "outstanding as far as I'm concerned."

St. Joe hit on 28 of 65 for 43 per cent and also found the range on 12 of 14 from the charity stripe.

Lakeshore held the edge rebounding 41-28 with Jager grabbing 13. Wright paced the Bears with 10.

MacTavish was disappointed, but not disheartened by the loss. "We have the nucleus for a good team," he said. "I believe this team can come back."

But the going won't be easy for the Lancers, who face four of the area's top teams in Cassopolis, South Haven, Dowagiac and Buchanan in their next four games.

Mustangs Beaten By Free Throws

THREE OAKS — Michigan City Marquette built up a 28-13 halftime lead and coasted to a 43-38 victory over River Valley here Saturday night in the season opener for the Mustangs.

"We just got ourselves in too deep of a hole," River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer said. "We came back gradually but just couldn't get over the hump."

The Mustangs lost the game at the foul line where Michigan City hit 13 of 21. River Valley could connect on only four of 17.

River Valley hit 17 of 67 from the floor for a measty 26 per cent. Marquette meshed 15 of 37 for 41 per cent.

Michigan City held a 38-28 board advantage Paul Wiese pulling down 11 for Marquette. Kevin Griffendorf, who was the only Mustang to score in double figures with 10 points, also pulled down nine rebounds.

Greg Johnson, a two-year starter for the Mustangs, did not play disciplinary for reasons. He will return to the lineup Tuesday.

River Valley did win the junior varsity game 50-45 with Gary Schaffer scoring 20 for the winners.

LAWTON — New Lawton coach Bruce Bendix hasn't even ched his first game but he finds himself already with one loss on his record.

The Blue Devils had scheduled a game with White Pigeon for Saturday, or so they thought. White Pigeon had the game down for a Friday affair and since it had a game slated for Saturday night, the Blue Devils were forced to forfeit their game.

Purdue Paced By Scheffler

Big Ten Teams Go 6-2 Opening Weekend

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Purdue center Tom Scheffler, a junior center from St. Joseph, tallied 17 points while leading the Boilermakers to a season-opening 81-64 triumph over Xavier Saturday night.

Five other Big Ten teams also posted opening triumphs over the weekend to give the conference a 6-2 edge over inter-sectional foes.

Besides Purdue's triumph and Indiana's 84-64 victory over UCLA, Illinois topped Nebraska 60-58 to make Lou Henson's coaching debut a success, Wisconsin dumped DePauw 105-63, Minnesota defeated South Dakota State 96-74 for new coach Jim Dutcher and Iowa slammed Augustana, S.D., 111-81.

Northwestern and Ohio State were the losers.

Michigan State will make its debut tonight against Central Michigan while Northwestern takes on Kentucky and Illinois hosts Kent State.

Michigan opens its campaign Tuesday night against Vanderbilt while Iowa takes on Nebraska.

Purdue trailed 40-36 at half-time but took the lead for good four minutes into the second half when senior guard Bruce Parkinson found Scheffler open under the basket.

Purdue later reeled off 16 straight points, six of them on 20-foot jump shots by sophomore guard Eugene Parker, to take a 71-54 lead that Xavier was unable to overcome.

Forwards Walter Jordan and Mike Steele supported Scheffler with 13 points apiece, while Parker added 12 and Parkinson 11.

Indians Halt Loss Streak

Win Over Coloma Breaks 19-Game Skid

COLOMA — For Hartford, the bitter streak is now over. The Indians snapped a 19-game losing string Saturday night by nipping Coloma 53-52 here.

It was a big third-quarter effort which sparked Hartford to the win. Trailing 30-25 at half-time, the Indians outscored Coloma 18-6 in the third quarter to take a narrow 43-42 edge into the final period. Hartford built up a 53-48 lead with just 48 seconds left to play, but then very nearly let the game slip away. John Bertuca hit both ends of a one-and-one and Karl Webb scored a basket to cut the deficit to one. Coloma got the ball back with five seconds to play, but a last-second shot failed to fall.

The win upped Hartford's record to 1-1 on the year, while the Comets are 0-2.

Hartford held a 43-38 edge in rebounding with Duane Toney pulling down 14 and Gary Fernham 12. Gregg Woodward, who finished as the game's high point man with 18, pulled down 14 rebounds for the Comets.

Joe Jones added 16 points to Woodward's total for Coloma. Dave Sexton sparked Hartford with 15 points, while Fernham added 12 and Toney 11.

Hartford won the game at the foul line, hitting on 19 of 23, while Coloma meshed just eight of 14. From the floor Coloma hit 22 of 55 for 40 per cent, while Hartford hit 17 of 48 for 38 per cent.

Each team committed 19 turnovers.

Coloma won the junior varsity game 65-55 with Kurt Eschler scoring 18 for the winners.

Bulldog Offense

In High

ELLSWORTH — The Covert offensive machine continued in high gear again Saturday night. Jeff Maggett poured in 30 points as the Bulldogs posted their second straight easy win, this time bombing Ellsworth 95-61.

The Bulldogs, who rolled up 86 points Monday night against New Buffalo, outscored the hosts in every quarter to give coach Rod DeYoung his 100th coaching victory at Covert.

"Again it was our pressing defense, which enabled us to pick up a lot of fast breaks," DeYoung said. "It was pretty much the same kind of game as we played Monday. We kept them off-guard, but we had to because they were bigger than we were."

Maggett scored 10 points in both the second and third quarters to spark the Bulldogs. "Jeff got a lot of points coming off the fast break," DeYoung said. "He runs the one lane on the fast break and was just in the right spot at the right time."

Robert Muggard added 18 points for the Bulldogs and Phil Robinson and James DeBoe each had 15 with Rodney Barnes tossing in 12.

Randy Holacheck, a bulky 6-4, 230-pound center, paced Ellsworth with 18.

Covert also won the junior varsity game 71-41 with Jeff DeYoung scoring 23.

K-Wings Topple Saginaw

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was a night for scoring pairs of goals, as six International Hockey League players on three different teams each managed to score twice during games Sunday.

Mike Wanchuk and Mike Wong both scored twice to lead Kalamazoo to a 8-3 victory over the Saginaw Gears.

The triumph gave the Wings an 8-9-4 record for the season, while Saginaw is 9-7-4. Saginaw holds second place in the league's North Division, and Kalamazoo is in last place in the standings.

Three players — Mike Powers, Brian Kinseller, and Jack Patterson — each had a pair of goals to lead Dayton to a 7-2 victory over the Columbus Owls.

Steve Self rounded out the scoring for the Gems' 10th straight victory at home.

Jerry DeMarco and Jerry Eggars each scored for the Owls.

Dayton advanced to 13-6-2 on the season, while Columbus' mark slipped to 3-16-3.

Sunday's contest, unlike four previous roughhouse meetings of the two teams, was virtually free of scuffles. Only five penalties were called.

Don Westbrook had two goals to lead Toledo to a 5-1 victory over Fort Wayne. He also had two assists as the winners improved their season record to 10-6-6. Fort Wayne dropped its 10th game of the season compared to 8 victories and 3 ties.

Pierre Chagnon lost his shutout at 6:39 in the third period when Terry Bucyk scored the loser's only goal.

SJ Matmen Finish 2nd

FREMONT — St. Joseph wrestlers opened their season in impressive style here Saturday with a second place in the eight-team Fremont Invitational.

The Bears got individual titles from Jim Burkett at 132 pounds and Dick Goodman at 155 pounds while finishing with 101 team points. Fremont took the title at 152.

St. Joe also got seconds from Ben Cook (98 pounds), Dave Bock (145) and Rick Dyer (167) while heavyweight Jim Foulkes finished third and Brian Lannon fourth.

It was the highest finish ever for St. Joe in six years at the tournament.

State bears a strange similarity to the Bruins' last trip to Pasadena.

Back in early October, Ohio State thumped UCLA 41-20 on national television, ABC. The Rose Bowl will be on NBC and, if UCLA pulls an upset, perhaps CBS can arrange a rubber match.

For those who like precedents, just go back to 1965 when UCLA dropped a 13-3 regular-season decision to Michigan State, then turned around and kayaked the Spartans 14-12 in the Rose Bowl.

The 13th-ranked Bruins, who earned this Rose Bowl trip and a share of the Pacific-8 Conference title by defeating Southern California 25-22 Friday night, can only hope history repeats.

So do the logical pretenders to college football's national championship, who hope something happens to Ohio State so they can overhaul the Buckeyes ... like second-ranked Texas A&M, an impressive 20-10 winner over fifth-ranked Texas; idle third-ranked and Orange Bowl-bound Oklahoma; No. 4 and Sugar Bowl-bound Alabama, which trounced Auburn 28-0, and unbeaten, eighth-ranked Arizona State, which won the Western Athletic Conference conference crown and a Fiesta Bowl berth against Nebraska by shading No. 12 Arizona 24-21.

Elsewhere on the final big weekend of the regular season, No. 13 Florida needed Henry Davis' 63-yard punt return with less than four minutes left to overtake Miami, Fla. 15-11, No. 15 Georgia thrashed Georgia Tech 42-26, Hawaii jolted No. 20 San Jose State 30-20 and Navy trounced Army for the third year in a row 30-6. The rest of The Associated Press Top Twenty were idle.

Texas' loss to A&M sent the Longhorns to the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl against Colorado. The Aggies, however, must still beat or tie No. 19 Arkansas next Saturday to clinch the Southwest Conference championship and a spot in the Cotton Bowl against Georgia. The only other bowl berth still unsettled is the Liberty Bowl, which gets the A&M-Arkansas loser — Arkansas if they tie — against Southern Cal.

UCLA, which trailed Southern Cal 7-0 and 14-6, rallied on Wendell Tyler's 57-yard run and scoring passes of 18 and 19 yards from John Sciarra to Don Pederson to edge the Trojans. The defense helped the Bruins survive eight lost fumbles and an interception, holding national rushing leader Ricky Bell to 136 yards, leaving him six short of Ed Marinaro's all-time single-season mark of 1,881.

The top-rated defense belongs to Texas A&M, which did nothing to lessen its standing by holding Texas, one of the nation's leading rushing teams, to 113 yards on the ground and 179 over-all. Meanwhile, Mike Jay flipped a four-yard touchdown pass to Richard Osborne, George Woodard plowed a yard for another TD and Tony Franklin kicked a pair of field goals.

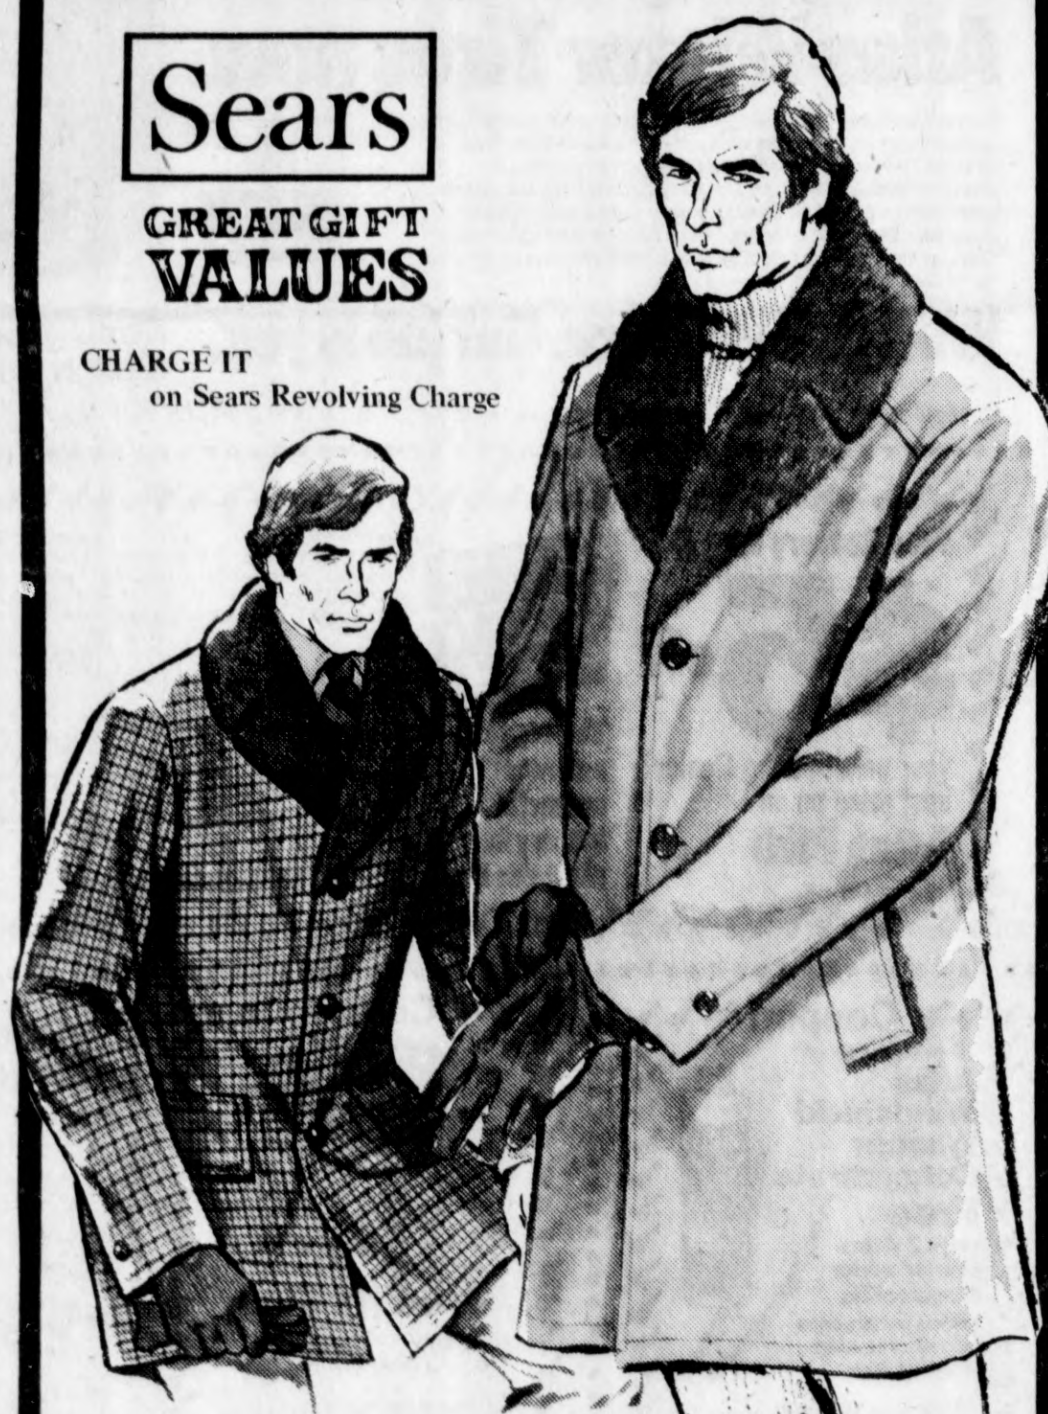

"They are for sure the most impressive defensive team I've seen in the conference in some time," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who refused to use a first-period injury to quarterback Marty Akins as an excuse.

Royal said he "would like to see something happen to Ohio State so that if they (A&M) take care of their business, we would have another national champion here."

Said A&M's Emory Bellard, "I think if we beat Arkansas we should have as good a shot at the No. 1 ranking as anyone."

Purdue Paced By Scheffler

Big Ten Teams Go 6-2 Opening Weekend

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Purdue center Tom Scheffler, a junior center from St. Joseph, tallied 17 points while leading the Bullmuckers to a season-opening 81-64 triumph over Xavier Saturday night.

Five other Big Ten teams also posted opening triumphs over the weekend to give the conference a 6-2 edge over inter-sectional foes.

Besides Purdue's triumph and Indiana's 84-64 victory over UCLA, Illinois topped Nebraska 60-58 to make Lou Henson's coaching debut a success. Wisconsin dumped DePaul 105-63, Minnesota defeated South Dakota State 86-74 for new coach Jim Dutcher and Iowa slammed Augustana, S.D., 111-81.

Northwestern and Ohio State were the losers.

Michigan State will make its debut tonight against Central Michigan while Northwestern takes on Kentucky and Illinois hosts Kent State.

Michigan opens its campaign Tuesday night against Vanderbilt while Iowa takes on Nebraska.

Purdue trailed 40-36 at half-time but took the lead for good four minutes into the second half when senior guard Bruce Parkinson found Scheffler open under the basket.

Purdue later reeled off 16 straight points, six of them on 20-foot jump shots by sophomore guard Eugene Parker, to take a 71-54 lead that Xavier was unable to overcome.

Forwards Walter Jordan and Mike Steele supported Scheffler with 13 points apiece, while Parker added 12 and Parkinson 11.

Prep Icer Dies

BOSTON (AP) — Authorities say James Dragne Jr., 18, of Watertown, fell on a skate and apparently cut an artery in his neck during a practice hockey game. He died at St. Elizabeth Hospital after being given 20 units of blood.

Wiese Scores 34

As Decatur Wins

BANGOR — Kurt Wiese pumped in 34 points Saturday night to lead Decatur to an easy 78-54 win over Bangor here.

Bangor led just 35-33 at half-time but pulled away in the second half.

Jim Overley added 17 points to Wiese's total for Decatur.

Carl Johnson led Bangor with 20, while John Densman added

Hand and Skyler Morgan had 11.

Decatur used a second-half press to break the game open.

"The press really hurt us," Bangor coach Mike Witt said.

"We began our offensive game at midcourt and were not doing any penetrating. They took the play right away from us."

Bangor did win the junior varsity game 52-46.

Clements Sparks

Gobles Comeback

GOBLES — Brian Clements scored eight of his game-high 14 points in the fourth quarter Saturday night to spark Gobles to a thrilling 43-42 victory over Galesburg-Augusta here.

It was Clements' basket with just over a minute to play which gave the winners the final one-point edge. Gobles then hung on for its second straight win of the young season.

Galesburg had a chance to win or at least tie the game in the final seconds. With just :23 seconds left to play, David Williams went to the line for a one-and-one. He missed the first shot and the ball rebounded out of bounds to Galesburg.

Ted Homan missed three close in shots and the ball again rebounded out of bounds to Galesburg. The inbounders play went to Williams this time, but Randy Arrasmith blocked his shot attempt and the clock ran out.

Gobles hit on just 16 of 48 from the floor for 33 per cent. Galesburg found the range on 17 of 50 for 34 per cent.

Gobles held a 39-33 rebounding edge with Jeff Price grabbing 14.

Gobles also won the junior varsity game 63-34.

Fouls On Jabbar Incense Sharman Lakers Perfect At Home

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
There's no place like home for the Los Angeles Lakers, especially when Portland is in town.

The Lakers beat the Trail Blazers 116-109 Sunday night for their 11th straight National Basketball Association victory without a loss this season before the home folks. It was the Blazers' ninth loss in 11 road games.

The Lakers had to win it down the stretch without star center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who fouled out with 6:47 remaining. It was the third time this season Jabbar has fouled out as compared to the last two campaigns when he fouled out just twice in each of them.

The Lakers seem to think Jabbar is getting called for fouls that other centers get away with.

"I guess I'm so prejudiced on the bench that I just don't know a foul when I see one," said Bill Sharman, the usually mild-mannered Los Angeles coach who was tagged with a rare technical foul for arguing over a call.

"We kept track on the bench of how many times (Portland center Bill) Walton had his hands on Abdul-Jabbar, and there was not one time tonight when he didn't have one or two hands on him."

"The league is starting to let a lot more things go on."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Kansas City downed New York 110-98 and Philadelphia trimmed New Orleans 113-96.

In American Basketball Association games, New York bombed Kentucky 113-84 and San Antonio topped St. Louis 127-115.

Los Angeles, which now trails

front-running Golden State by percentage points in the Pacific Division, built a 64-48 halftime lead and held on for the victory. After Jabbar left, the Blazers closed to within two points with 2½ minutes remaining. But a jumper by Gail Goodrich, a pair of free throws by Cornell Warner and a basket by Lucius Allen iced it for the home team.

Abdul-Jabbar and Goodrich scored 22 points apiece and Allen added 20 for the winners. Geoff Petrie and Lloyd Neal netted 21 points each for Portland.

Walt Frazier poured in 38 points for New York but it was enough to offset a balanced Kansas City attack led by Nate Archibald, 24 points, Jimmy Walker, 22, and Bill Robinson, 21. The Kings have won four of five, the Knicks have lost five of six.

Doug Collins scored 30 points and Fred Carter added 28 as Philadelphia increased its lead over second-place Boston to 1½ games in the Atlantic Division. New Orleans is 1-4 since losing high-scoring Pete Maravich with a shoulder separation.

Julius Erving — 28 points, 12 rebounds, eight assists, two steals, two blocked shots — led New York to its fourth straight victory. Brian Taylor added 19 points for the Nets, who took over first place in the East Division by a half-game over Kentucky.

James Silas scored 30 points and George Gervin and Billy Paulitz added 29 apiece for San Antonio. Maurice Lucas had 39 points and 18 rebounds for St. Louis. The Spirits played without Marvin Barnes and club officials had no explanation for his absence.

Bowl Tickets Gone

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma Athletic Department officials said Friday the school has sold out the 12,000 tickets allotted for the public to the New Year's night Orange Bowl.

Boston Proves It Can Win Without Orr And Esposito

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a strange sight for Boston Bruins fans. For the first time since the spring of 1966 the Bruins played without either Bobby Orr or Phil Esposito.

But it made little difference as the Bruins defeated the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2 Sunday night, running their National Hockey League unbeaten string 11 straight.

Esposito was traded to the New York Rangers for Park, while Orr underwent a knee operation last week.

In other NHL games Sunday, the New York Rangers defeated St. Louis 5-2, Montreal nipped the New York Islanders 3-2, Philadelphia stopped Vancouver 5-4, Atlanta downed California 4-1 and Kansas City and Chicago battled to a 1-1 tie. Wayne Cashman's goal at

Two goals by Phil Esposito gave the New York Rangers a victory over St. Louis. Steve Vickers' tip of a Larry Sacharuk shot boosted New York in front 2-0. Carol Vadnais and Bill Fairbairn completed the Rangers' scoring while the Blues got their goals from Floyd Thomson and Claude Larose.

came after Islanders goalie Glenn Resch had stopped an around-the-net sweep by Peter Mahovlich. But the puck was left lying at the corner of the goal and Shutt pushed it into the net.

Kansas earned a tie with Chicago when Wilf Paiement flipped in a five-footer midway in the final period. Grant Mulvey tallied the Black Hawks' goal. Chicago now has won six and tied eight games since last losing on Oct. 26.

Atlanta scored three goals within 11 minutes of the second period, snapping a 1-1 tie and downing California. Tom Lysiak led the Atlanta attack with two goals. Claude St. Sauveur and Roy Comeau completed the Flames' scoring while Gary Sabourin tallied for the Golden Seals.

UCLA Hopes For Upset Repeat

Texas A & M Stops Texas; Arizona State Wins WAC

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
UCLA is going to the Rose Bowl for the first time in 10 years but the scheduled rematch with No. 1-ranked Ohio

State bears a strange similarity to the Bruins' last trip to Pasadena.

Back in early October, Ohio State thumped UCLA 41-20 on national television, ABC. The Rose Bowl will be on NBC and, if UCLA pulls an upset, perhaps CBS can arrange a rubber match.

For those who like precedents, just go back to 1965 when UCLA dropped a 13-3 regular-season decision to Michigan State, then turned around and kayoed the Spartans 14-12 in the Rose Bowl.

The 13th-ranked Bruins, who earned this Rose Bowl trip and a share of the Pacific-8 Conference title by defeating Southern California 23-22 Friday night, can only hope history repeats.

So do the logical contenders to college football's national championship, who hope something happens to Ohio State so they can overhaul the Buckeyes. Like second-ranked Texas A&M, an impressive 20-10 winner over fifth-ranked Texas; idle third-ranked and Orange Bowl-bound Oklahoma; No. 4 and Sugar Bowl-bound Alabama, which trounced Auburn 28-0, and unbeaten, eighth-ranked Arizona State, which won the Western Athletic Conference crown and a Fiesta Bowl berth against Nebraska by shading No. 12 Arizona 24-21.

Elsewhere on the final big weekend of the regular season, No. 13 Florida needed Henry Davis' 63-yard punt return with less than four minutes left to overtake Miami, Fla. 15-11, No. 15 Georgia thrashed Georgia Tech 42-26, Hawaii jolted No. 20 San Jose State 30-20 and Navy trounced Army for the third year in a row 30-6. The rest of The Associated Press Top Twenty were idle.

Texas' loss to A&M sent the Longhorns to the Astor-Bluebonnet Bowl against Colorado. The Aggies, however, must still beat or tie No. 18 Arkansas next Saturday to clinch the Southwest Conference championship and a spot in the Cotton Bowl against Georgia. The only other bowl berth still unsettled is the Liberty Bowl, which gets the A&M-Arkansas loser — Arkansas if they tie — against Southern Cal.

UCLA, which trailed Southern Cal 7-0 and 14-8, rallied on Wendell Tyler's 57-yard run and scoring passes of 18 and 19 yards from John Sclarra to Don Pederson to edge the Trojans. The defense helped the Bruins survive eight lost fumbles and an interception, holding national rushing leader Ricky Bell to 136 yards, leaving him six short of Ed Marinaro's all-time single-season mark of 1,881.

The top-rated defense belongs to Texas A&M, which did nothing to lessen its standing by holding Texas, one of the nation's leading rushing teams, to 113 yards on the ground and 179 over-all. Meanwhile, Mike Jay flipped a four-yard touchdown pass to Richard Osborne. George Woodard plowed a yard for another TD and Tony Franklin kicked a pair of field goals.

"They are for sure the most impressive defensive team I've seen in the conference in some time," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who refused to use a first-period injury in quarterback Marty Aklus as an excuse.

Royal said he "would like to see something happen to Ohio State so that if they (A&M) take care of their business, we would have another national champion here."

Said A&M's Emory Bellard, "I think if we beat Arkansas we should have as good a shot at the No. 1 ranking as anyone."

K-Wings Topple Saginaw

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was a night for scoring pairs of goals, as six International Hockey League players on three different teams each managed to score twice during games Sunday.

Mike Wanchuk and Mike Wong both scored twice to lead Kalamazoo to a 5-3 victory over the Saginaw Gears.

The triumph gave the Wings an 8-4 record for the season, while Saginaw is 9-7-4. Saginaw holds second place in the league's North Division, and Kalamazoo is in last place in the standings.

Three players — Mike Powers, Brian Kinseller, and Jack Patterson — each had a pair of goals to lead Dayton to a 7-2 victory over the Columbus Owls.

Steve Self rounded out the scoring for the Gems' 10th straight victory at home.

Jerry DeMarco and Jerry Eggars each scored for the Owls.

Dayton advanced to 13-6-2 on the season, while Columbus' mark slipped to 3-16-3.

Sunday's contest, unlike four previous roughhouse meetings of the two teams, was virtually free of scuffles. Only five penalties were called.

Don Westbrook had two goals to lead Toledo to a 5-1 victory over Fort Wayne. He also had two assists as the winners improved their season record to 10-6-6. Fort Wayne dropped its 10th game of the season compared to 8 victories and 3 ties.

Pierre Chagnon lost his shutout at 6:39 in the third period when Terry Buecy scored the loser's only goal.

SJ Matmen Finish 2nd

FREMONT — St. Joseph wrestlers opened their season in impressive style here Saturday with a second place in the eight-team Fremont Invitational.

The Bears got individual titles from Jim Burkott at 132 pounds and Dick Goodman at 155 pounds while finishing with 101 team points. Fremont took the title at 152.

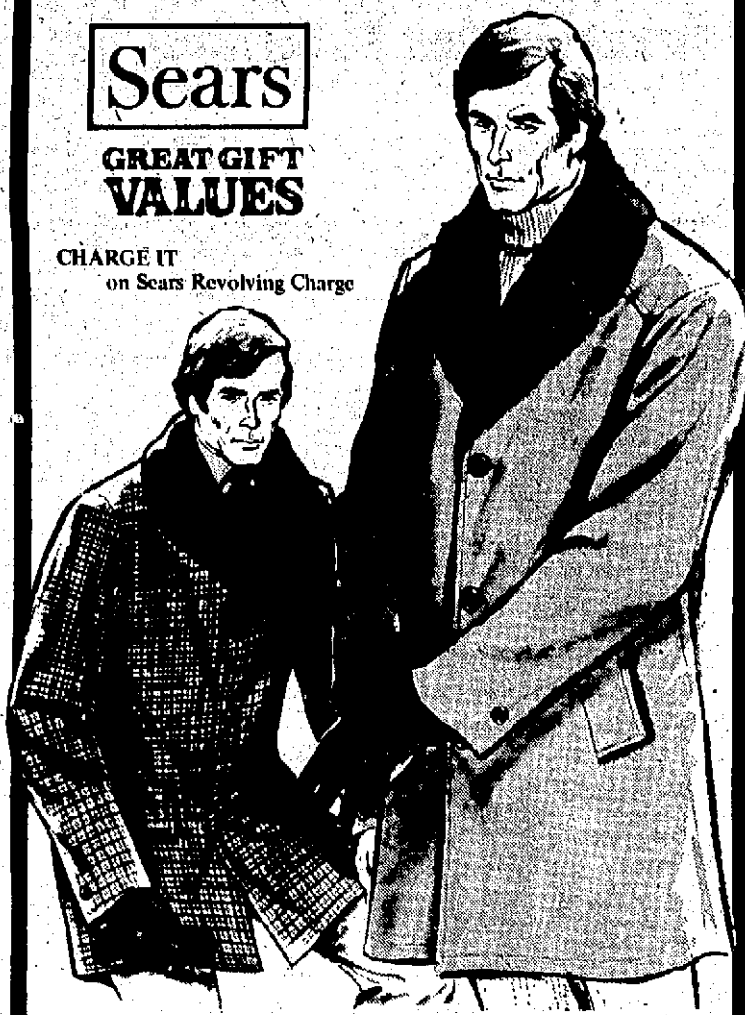

St. Joe also got seconds from Ike Cook (98 pounds), Dave Back (145) and Rick Dyer (167) while heavyweight Jim Foulkes finished third and Brian Lannon fourth.

It was the highest finish ever for St. Joe in six years at the tournament.

In American Basketball Association games, New York bombed Kentucky 113-84 and San Antonio topped St. Louis 127-115.

Los Angeles, which now trails

front-running Golden State by percentage points in the Pacific Division, built a 64-48 halftime lead and held on for the victory. After Jabbar left, the Blazers closed to within two points with 2½ minutes remaining. But a jumper by Gail Goodrich, a pair of free throws by Cornell Warner and a basket by Lucius Allen led it for the home team.

Abdul-Jabbar and Goodrich scored 22 points apiece and Allen added 20 for the winners. Geoff Petrie and Lloyd Neal netted 21 points each for Portland.

Wall Frazier poured in 38 points for New York but it was enough to offset a balanced Kansas City attack led by Nate Archibald, 24 points, Jimmy Walker, 22, and Bill Robinson, 21. The Kings have won four of five, the Knicks have lost five of six.

Doug Collins scored 30 points and Fred Carter added 28 as Philadelphia increased its lead over second-place Boston to 1½ games in the Atlantic Division. New Orleans is 1-4 since losing high-scoring Pete Maravich with a shoulder separation.

Julius Erving — 28 points, 12 rebounds, eight assists, two steals, two blocked shots — led New York to its fourth straight victory. Brian Taylor added 19 points for the Nets, who took over first place in the East Division by a half-game over Kentucky.

James Silas scored 30 points and George Gervin and Billy Paultz added 29 apiece for San Antonio. Maurice Lucas had 39 points and 18 rebounds for St. Louis. The Spirits played without Marvin Barnes and club officials had no explanation for his absence.

Bowl Tickets Gone

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma Athletic Department officials said Friday the school has sold out the 12,000 tickets allotted for the public to the New Year's night Orange Bowl.

Boston Proves It Can Win Without Orr And Esposito

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was a strange sight for Boston Bruins fans. For the first time since the spring of 1968 the Bruins played without either Bobby Orr or Phil Esposito.

But it made little difference as the Bruins defeated the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2 Sunday night, running their National Hockey League unbeaten string 11 straight.

Esposito was traded to the New York Rangers for Park, while Orr underwent a knee operation last week.

In other NHL games Sunday, the New York Rangers defeated St. Louis 5-2, Montreal nipped the New York Islanders 3-2, Philadelphia stopped Vancouver 5-4, Atlanta downed California 4-1 and Kansas City and Chicago battled to a 1-1 tie.

Wayne Cashman's goal at 13:03 of the third period broke a 2-2 tie to lift Boston over Pittsburgh.

Two goals by Phil Esposito gave the New York Rangers a victory over St. Louis. Steve Vickers' tip of a Larry Sacharuk shot boosted New York in front 2-0. Carol Vadnais and Bill Fairbairn completed the Rangers' scoring while the Blues got their goals from Floyd Thomson and Claude Larose.

came after Islanders goalie Glenn Resch had stopped an around-the-net sweep by Peter Mahovlich. But the puck was left lying at the corner of the goal and Shutt pushed it into the net.

Kansas earned a tie with Chicago when Wilf Pajmient flipped in a five-footer midway in the final period. Grant Mulvey tallied the Black Hawks' goal. Chicago now has won six and tied eight games since last losing on Oct. 26.

Atlanta scored three goals within 11 minutes of the second period, snapping a 1-1 tie and downing California. Tim Lysiak led the Atlanta attack with two goals. Claude St. Sauveur and Roy Cornsall completed the Flames' scoring while Gary Sabourin tallied for the Golden Seals.

Quarter-Million In Damage

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Fire damage to the new American Motors Corp. headquarters has been estimated at $250,000, a spokesman for the Southfield Fire Department said. The spokesman added the figure was a "conservative" estimate. Fire blazed through three floors of the nearly-completed 25-story building Friday.

Skipper Was 'Scared'

DETROIT (AP) — The skipper of the ill-fated ore freighter Edmund Fitzgerald once said "this thing scares me sometimes," according to a former shipmate. The statement of Capt. Ernest McSorley was recalled by his onetime second mate on the Fitzgerald, which sank with its 29-man crew in Lake Superior as it was whipped by hurricane-force winds last month. The second mate, Richard Orgel, now sails as a tugboat captain on the Atlantic Coast. He was forned by Victor Hanson, a maritime lawyer representing the families of two victims who went down with the Fitzgerald. Hanson said Orgel told him he is willing to testify if called by the Coast Guard panel investigating the sinking. According to Hanson, Orgel recalls that in November 1973 when the Fitzgerald had just left Whitefish Bay and headed toward the western end of Lake Superior it encountered heavy seas. Orgel relates that McSorley ordered the ship to take a more northerly course where the vessel wouldn't encounter such severe buffeting. The ship was "bending, whipping and twisting," Orgel recalls, and the captain was on the bridge. Before McSorley went to his cabin, Orgel said, the captain told him, "If she starts to do the wiggle thing, let me know ... this thing scares me sometimes." Orgel also recalled that he was instructed to change course and slow down.

Statistics Spark Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics interpreted as a favorable omen for the interest rate outlook sparked another advance in the stock market today.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial was up a fraction, and advancing issues took a 3-2 lead over declines on the New York Stock exchange.

Brokers traced the buying to a dropoff in the nation's money supply as shown in weekly Federal Reserve data issued after the close Friday.

Analysts noted that the figures tended to ease fears of a move toward a more restrictive credit policy by the Fed because of a sharp rise in the money supply in the two previous reporting weeks.

Today's early prices included U.S. Steel, unchanged at 63 3/4; Citicorp, up 1/4 at 29 1/2; Addressograph-Multigraph, down 1/4 at 8 3/4; and Walter Kidde, up 1/4 at 20 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 2.12 to 880.67, extending its advance for the week to 19.91 points.

Gainers outpaced losers by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .15 to 48.24.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 12.87 million shares with many investors taking a four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .38 at 85.82.

PITFALLS IN IRA CONTRIBUTIONS

Beware SPLIONS OF YOU ACT TO BEAT THE Dec. 31 deadline for contributions to the new, tax-sheltered IRAs (Individual Retirement Accounts), be sure you do not overcontribute! For if you do contribute to your IRA more than the law allows you to deduct, and do not correct your error in time, all the consequences will be negative for you.

It is entirely right for those of you not otherwise covered by a qualified retirement plan to take advantage of this valuable tax and savings strategy. By all means, act before Dec. 31, so you get the break for 1975.

But under law, your deduction is limited to 15 per cent of your compensation, and that 15 per cent cannot exceed $1,500. You are not free to deduct any amount you contribute up to $1,500; you are first limited to no more than 15 per cent of your compensation.

If, for instance, your 1975 compensation is $8,000, your deductible contribution to your own IRA cannot be larger than $1,200 (15 per cent of $8,000).

But evidence is accumulating that many of you misunderstand the law — or maybe you are misjudging your 1975 earnings. Whatever the reason — you are overcontributing. Be sure you take back that excess from your IRA no later than April 15, 1976 (or any extended due date for filing your 1975 income tax return).

For if you don't get that excess out of your IRA by that date:

(1) It will cost you a flat 6 per cent penalty on the excess contribution for 1975, plus another 6 per cent penalty for every year the excess isn't taken out.

(2) Or you can eliminate the '75 excess for '76 by contributing less in '76 to your IRA than you are allowed to deduct in '76, and applying your '75 excess to your '76 undercontribution. But while this will eliminate a further 6 per cent penalty in 1976 on the excess you created in 1975, you won't get a deduction in 1976 for the 1975 excess you apply to your '76 contribution.

(3) Or if you withdraw your 1975 excess from your IRA after April 15, 1976 (or any extended due date for filing your return), you must report that amount as ordinary income and pay regular income tax on it (even though you never deducted it because it was an excess contribution). Furthermore, if you are under 59 1/2 years of age when you make this withdrawal, you also will pay a 10 per cent premature distribution penalty on this amount in addition to your regular income tax.

To illustrate, Leon Gold, chief

INVESTORS' Guide Home Free And Clear Blamed For But 'Rent' Still High

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. We got into a debate with friends about their housing costs. They own their home free and clear with monthly costs at $126, which covers everything from real estate taxes to trash collection. I insist, however, that if they sold their home for $40,000 and put the money into a 7 per cent savings certificate they could collect $2,000 a year, or about $230 a month interest. Therefore, I say their rent is $126 plus $230 or $356 a month — not $126.

A. You are right, of course — although your figure is subject to some fine tuning. For example, if they invest the $40,000 at 7 per cent (why not 9 per cent?) that $2,800 income would be taxable. Would that tax be a consideration in their case? Otherwise, I accept your figures.

Q. You shouldn't blame men for keeping their wives in the dark about money. Some men are in the dark, too. Also, I think some women are just showing off when they say their husbands take care of all money matters, as though the wives were too dainty to soil their fingers with filthy lucre.

A. O. K. wives — come out fighting!

Q. I'm a widow who is worried about the money left to me. It is all in the bank at 7 1/2 per cent. I don't need any more. But does the increase in interest rates mean the money is not as safe as it was before?

A. If the bank is covered by FDIC or the savings and loan by FSLIC and if the amount in each institution in a single account is less than $40,000, you need have no worries about safety.

Q. I am a widow, in my late 40s. I may have to move and pay $200 to $250 for another apartment. Would it be wiser to put $5,000-$10,000 down on a $30,000-$35,000 two-family house?

A. There is absolutely no way I can comment on a two-family house I have never seen. (And if I had, it still wouldn't help.)

You must do some arithmetic, with the help of some realtor you trust. If you put down $10,000, you give up income from that money which could run from $750 to $900 a year. To that $750-$900 you must add the cost of running the house: taxes, heat, insurance, water, repairs, mortgage payments. When you figure all this out, you can come up with a net figure of what your own "rent" will cost. (I assume from your modest earnings that there would be no significant income tax advantage in ownership.)

NO BOOM AHEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — The country's business recovery should continue through 1976, but no boom is in prospect, according to the predictions of The Economic Forum, a group of 11 top U.S. economists.

There were no injuries to firemen who cleared the scene about 12:30 a.m. today, Flick said. He said Galien township firemen assisted.

Firemen, hampered by high winds, fought the blaze for about two hours before declaring it under control, Flick said.

Flick said the Jackson family was at home when the fire broke out, but escaped injury.

Flick said flames were leaping through the roof of the house when firemen arrived about 8:20 p.m.

The blaze was apparently caused by an old fashioned cast iron cook stove that overheated, and set fire to the kitchen walls, Flick said. The fire spread to a second story bedroom.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Statistics Spark Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics interpreted as a favorable omen for the interest rate outlook sparked another advance in the stock market today.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a fraction, and advancing issues took a 3-2 lead over declines on the New York Stock exchange.

Brokers traced the buying to a dropoff in the nation's money supply as shown in weekly Federal Reserve data issued after the close Friday.

Analysts noted that the figures tended to ease fears of a move toward a more restrictive credit policy by the Fed because of a sharp rise in the money supply in the two previous reporting weeks.

Today's early prices included U.S. Steel, unchanged at 63 1/2; Cilecorp, up 1/4 at 29 1/2; Addressograph-Multigraph, down 1/4 at 6 1/2; and Walter Kidde, up 1/4 at 20 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 2.12 to 868.67, extending its advance for the week to 19.91 points.

Gainers outpaced losers by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .15 to 48.24.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 12.87 million shares with many investors taking a four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .36 at 85.82.

PITFALLS IN IRA CONTRIBUTIONS

Beware of PITFALLS OF YOU ACT TO BEAT THE Dec. 31 deadline for contributions to the new, tax-sheltered IRAs (Individual Retirement Accounts), be sure you do not overcontribute. For if you do contribute to your IRA more than the law allows you to deduct, and do not correct your error in time, all the consequences will be negative for you.

It is entirely right for those of you not otherwise covered by a qualified retirement plan to take advantage of this valuable tax and savings strategy. By all means, act before Dec. 31, so you get the break for 1975.

But under law, your deduction is limited to 15 per cent of your compensation, and that 15 per cent cannot exceed $1,500. You are not free to deduct any amount you contribute up to $1,500; you are first limited to no more than 15 per cent of your compensation.

If, for instance, your 1975 compensation is $8,000, your deductible contribution to your own IRA cannot be larger than $1,200 (15 per cent of $8,000).

But evidence is accumulating that many of you misunderstand the law — or maybe you are misjudging your 1975 earnings. Whatever the reason — you are overcontributing. Be sure you take back that excess from your IRA no later than April 15, 1976 (or any extended due date for filing your 1975 income tax return).

For if you don't get that excess out of your IRA by that date:

(1) It will cost you a flat 6 per cent penalty on the excess contribution for 1975, plus another 6 per cent penalty for every year the excess isn't taken out.

(2) Or you can eliminate the 75 excess for '76 by contributing less in '76 by your IRA than you are allowed to deduct in '76, and applying your '75 excess to your '76 undercontribution. But while this will eliminate a further 6 per cent penalty in 1976 on the excess you created in 1975, you won't get a deduction in 1976 for the 1975 excess you apply to your '76 contribution.

(3) Or if you withdraw your 1975 excess from your IRA after April 15, 1976 (or any extended due date for filing your return), you must report that amount as ordinary income and pay regular income tax on it (even though you never deducted it because it was an excess contribution). Furthermore, if you are under 59 1/2 years of age when you make this withdrawal, you also will pay a 10 per cent premature distribution penalty on this amount in addition to your regular income tax.

To illustrate, Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute of America, gave me the following case:

Jones, age 40, erroneously contributes $1,500 to an IRA in '75. It's later determined that he is entitled only to an $800 deduction. If the excess $700 isn't distributed back to him by April 15, 1976, he will pay a 42 per cent penalty for '75 (6 per cent of $700). Assume that for '76, his allowable IRA contribution is $800. By contributing only $100, and applying the $700 excess from '75, he will eliminate any penalty on excess contributions for '76 but he will deduct only $100 for IRA contributions in 1976.

If instead of applying the $700 excess to the '76 allowable contribution, Jones withdraws the $700 excess after April 15, 1976 (after the return due date), he will pay regular income tax on the $700 even though he received no deduction for that amount, plus a 10 per cent penalty, or $70.

So be warned. Check your '75 IRA contributions against the total you are properly allowed to deduct on your return; be sure to take out any excess from your IRA by April 15, 1976 (or the extended date for filing) don't invite a tax headache!

Another warning if you contribute to an IRA in 1975: fill out and attach Form 5329 to your Form 1040 for '75. If you haven't filed Form 5329 by the due date for filing Form 1040, you will be charged a penalty of $10 a day for each day it isn't filed, up to a total penalty of $5,000.

To make certain you don't forget to file, get your Form 5329 as soon as you can and clip it to your '75 Form 1040.

INVESTORS' Guide

Home Free And Clear But 'Rent' Still High

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. We got into a debate with friends about their housing costs. They own their home free and clear with monthly costs at $125, which covers everything from real estate taxes to trash collection. I insist, however, that if they sold their home for $40,000 and put the money into a 7 per cent savings certificate they could collect $2,000 a year; or about $220 a month interest. Therefore, I say their rent is $125 plus $220 or $345 a month — not $125.

A. You are right, of course — although your figure is subject to some fine tuning. For example, if they invest the $40,000 at 7 per cent (why not 9 per cent?) that $2,000 income would be taxable. Would that tax be a consideration in their case? Otherwise, I accept your figures.

Q. I'm a widow who is worried about the money left to me. It is all in the bank at 7 1/2 per cent. I don't need any more. But does the increase in interest rates mean the money is not as safe as it was before?

A. If the bank is covered by FDIC or the savings and loan by FSLIC and if the amount in each institution in a single account is less than $40,000, you need have no worries about safety.

Q. I am a widow, in my late 40s. I may have to move and pay $200 to $250 for another apartment. Would it be wiser to put $1,000-$15,000 down on a $30,000-$35,000 two-family house?

A. There is absolutely no way I can comment on a two-family house I have never seen. (And if I had, it still wouldn't help.)

You must do some arithmetic, with the help of some realtor you trust. If you put down $10,000, you give up income from that money which could run from $750 to $800 a year. To that $750-$800 you must add the cost of running the house: taxes,

INVESTORS' Guide

Home Free And Clear But 'Rent' Still High

heat, insurance, water, repairs, mortgage payments. When you figure all this out, you can come up with a net figure of what your own 'rent' will cost. (I assume from your modest earnings that there would be no significant income tax advantage in ownership.)

tree thefts, U.S. Forest Service officials say.

Organized tree-theft rings, often using teenagers to do the cutting, may make three or four times the profit margin legitimate operators receive, the officials say.

While skyrocketing prices for Christmas trees have made the thefts increasingly profitable, forest officials say they are developing sophisticated techniques to apprehend the thieves. There have been nearly a dozen persons convicted in Utah alone in the last few weeks.

One southwestern Utah ring was suspected of stealing up to 40,000 trees per year from Utah and eastern Nevada, netting up to $250,000.

"One problem is people think a tree is just a tree. Some trees are almost irreplaceable," says Ralph Dymont, Forest Service law enforcement officer for Utah, Nevada and part of California.

"It breaks your heart to see a crop destroyed that's been commercially thinned and cultivated for 15 years," says Shorty Wehking of Wasatch National Forest in Utah.

The thefts are from lands belonging to the U.S. Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, state and private owners. The Forest Service headquarters in Washington says tree theft figures for the nation have not been compiled, but a central reporting system is planned for next year.

Intermountain region officials, after talking with other Forest Service people, believe the thefts are concentrated in those areas in which trees are more easily accessible later in the year.

Thus tree rustling problems are believed not as severe in Colorado and Wyoming as in Utah but more severe in Washington and Oregon and possibly in Arizona and New Mexico.

Easy accessibility to forests from metropolitan areas seems to increase the problem, while states having laws requiring bills of sale or tagging of Christmas trees — such as Nevada and Idaho — appear to have less trouble.

Pat Sheehan, information officer for the Forest Service's intermountain region, says that in Oregon, one forest alone, the Willamette, suffered a loss of trees worth $500,000 in one year.

Dymont says a legitimate commercial operation may have to pay about $3 per tree for permits to harvest better quality trees, then sell them to retailers for about $5, making about $1 per tree after expenses. He says an illegal operator may pay youngsters $1 per tree they cut, then sell it to retailers for $5.

There is no way a customer can tell whether he's buying a stolen tree, Dymont said. He said the thieves also trade trees with thieves from other regions because trees less common to an area bring higher prices.

A legitimate operator will be allowed to harvest, for example, 300 trees of a stand of 2,000, a thinning operation in which the Forest Service forbids the operator to take the best trees. The crooked operator takes every tree from an area, the service says.

The illegal operation often devastates a 15-year-old timber crop. It may damage aesthetics of campgrounds where the trees had been intended to produce seclusion between camping sites.

The Forest Service rarely allows harvest in Utah of spruce trees, most commonly found growing near rivers.

When caught cutting such trees "they claim they don't know one tree from another," Dymont says. "But wait till they sell the trees. Then they know the difference."

CHRISTMAS TREE THEFT RINGS

U.S. Fights New Racket

Modern Fagins are making
